58 Jap Warships Out of 60 Smashed: Nimitz

MOST WOMEN FAVOR DEWEY, POLLS REVEAL

Oppose F.D.R. for Breaking Pledge.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 29.—Women are preponderantly opposed to President Roosevelt largely because he failed to keep his 1940 "again and again and again" promise that "your boys are not going to be sent into any foreign wars."

This, according to information percolating from the Democratic high command in the Biltmore hotel, is one of several reasons for the recent panic at Democratic national headquarters. Convinced by this and other developments that the President stood in grave danger of defeat, Democratic national leaders rushed to Washington and induced him to take the stump in his defense.

Women May Decide It.

Because more than 10 million men are away from home in the army and navy, not more than a third of whom are expected to vote, it has been judged that the women remaining at home will cast a larger vote than the men and not improbably be the deciding vote in the election.

For several weeks reports from party leaders in all parts of the country have been reaching both Republican and Democratic headquarters that women are very largely favoring the election of Gov. Dewey. While complaints of rationing regulations were mentioned in some of the reports as a reason for dissatisfaction with the Roosevelt regime, the outstanding cause given was the President's failure to keep the country out of war.

Polls Support Claims.

Many of the reports forwarded to national headquarters included canvasses of voter sentiment in the more populous states. Almost all of these canvasses disclosed women preponderantly favoring Dewey. These canvasses found striking support in the Daily News poll of New York.

On a single day the seven crews conducting the state-wide survey distributed 8,704 ballots—pink for women, blue for men. The result was:

WOMEN.
For Dewey, 2,927 straws ..... 52.2 per cent
For Roosevelt, 2,685 straws ..... 47.8 per cent
MEN.
For Dewey, 1,533 straws ..... 49.6 per cent
For Roosevelt, 1,559 straws ..... 50.4 per cent

Two reasons were given for the greater number of women polled. One was the absence of 1,200,000 men in the army and navy. The other was that a large part of the canvassing from door to door is done during the day when more women than men are at home.

Trend Upset in City.

Comparison with 1940 disclosed that women then topped the men

Dewey Gains in State, New Straws Show

BY LEWIS HUNT.

Gains of more than 1 per cent in sentiment for Gov. Dewey in Chicago suburbs and downstate Illinois are shown in today's 11,112 straws in THE TRIBUNE'S poll on Presidential candidates.

In Chicago, the new straws strengthen President Roosevelt's position in the poll by two-tenths of 1 per cent, but the President still is below his 1940 vote precentage in the city and is also below his high point in the early stages of the current poll.

Straw Total Reaches 50,030.

The day's additional straws bring to 50,030 the total tallied to date. The candidates' standings in the three poll sectors, compared with the 1940 voting, follow:

	1944 straws [per cent.]		1940 vote [per cent.]
	Roose-velt.	Dewey.	Roose-velt.	Wil-kie.
Chicago	57.1	42.9	59	41
Cook county towns	36.1	63.9	40	60
Downstate	41.5	58.5	51	49

Dewey's increase is from 62.6 in the suburbs Sunday to 63.9 today and from 57.4 downstate to 58.5. Roosevelt's standing in Sunday's table was 56.9. Today it is 57.1.

Most of the south and west side wards from which today's straws were gathered are regarded as markedly favorable to the President because of union labor populations or long time control by Democratic bosses. At 21st st. and Commercial av., in the South Chicago steel mills district, he received 70.1 per cent of the ballots. In sampling the 24th ward, which Jacob M. Arvey organized for the Kelly machine, Roosevelt received 96.6 per cent.

Below Vote in 1940.

Taken as groups, neither the south nor west side wards give the President a straw percentage as high as his portion of their 1940 vote. The three north side wards canvassed support Dewey to the extent of 58.6 per cent of their combined straws.

Dewey's 1.3 per cent rise in suburban support is provided by addition of straws from four Republican strongholds. His standing on the new total, 63.9 per cent, is 3.9 above Willkie's share of the 1940 vote in the communities already polled and 1.9 above Sen. Brooks' 1942 election percentage in the same places.

Downstate sentiment is represented today by 53 more industrial and residential cities, mine towns, and rural centers. These communities together gave Willkie 53 per cent of their 1940 vote, which also was his percentage in all the state outside Cook county.

Further returns in the Presidential straw vote will be printed tomorrow.

FOURTH ELECTOR ABANDONS F. D. R. IN MISSISSIPPI

Jackson, Miss., Oct. 29 [Special].—The revolt of Mississippi's Democratic Presidential electors against President Roosevelt spread tonight with an announcement by J. B. Perry Jr., of Grenada, one of the party's nine elector-nominees, that if elected "my action shall be governed by the conditions placed upon me by the state convention."

The Democratic state convention last June which named the slate of electors specified they were to be free to vote for any Democrats other than the national convention nominees in the event certain demands of the party in Mississippi were not met at the Chicago convention. These demands were ignored at Chicago.

Perry's statement was interpreted as lining him up with three other of the nine electors who yesterday announced they intended to cast their votes in the electoral college for Sen. Byrd [D., Va.] for President.

Gov. Thomas L. Bailey, a Roosevelt supporter, returned to the capital tonight from New Orleans, and said he might make a statement tomorrow in regard to the bolt.

Political observers said there is a possibility two additional elector nominees may join the bolters. In this event only three of Mississippi's nine electoral votes would go to Roosevelt.

SUPERVISED STUNTS TO HELP KEEP THOSE GOBLINS ON SIDELINE

Hundreds of parties and supervised gatherings have been arranged for the celebration of Halloween tomorrow night to keep youngsters out of mischief. Weatherman H. S. Kenny predicted that the prospects are good that the skies will be clear for the full moon which will rise at 6:59 p. m.

In Wilmette, police and merchants have arranged a contest that is expected to direct youngsters' window soaping activities into creative lines. With the approval of the store owners, the suburb's boys and girls are drawing scenes on windows in Wilmette and Central avs., and the best work will be rewarded with prizes. Crayons and water colors are used in place of soap, which is harder to remove.

TEAMSTER AID TO F. D. R. AFTER BRAWL: $110,000

New York, Oct. 29 (AP).—Daniel J. Tobin, president of the teamsters' union, said today that contributions by members of the union to President Roosevelt's campaign fund have reached $110,000 since the "incident of the Statler hotel, Sept. 23." Tobin referred to the fight following the President's campaign address at the Statler hotel, Washington, when two naval officers said they were attacked by union members.

Briton Asks About Tax on Goods Yanks Fly In

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Francis G. Bowles, Laborite member of parliament, said the chancellor of the exchequer would be asked whether American soldiers flying to this country from France are exempt from the customs duties and the purchase tax to which British soldiers are liable. Americans are reported to be bringing luxury items from Paris and American officials are helping to investigate the smuggling of 1,000 bottles of champagne by air.

Ex-Policeman Shoots Couple, Ends Own Life

While his 8 year old son looked on, Edward Lynch, 60, of 3505 W. 58th pl., a former city policeman, yesterday shot and seriously wounded his former wife, Mrs. Florence Altman, 40, shot her husband, George, 50, then fired a fatal shot into his own forehead in the Altman home at 3615 W. 63d pl.

Arthur Lynch.

The only account of the shooting was that given by the boy, Arthur Lynch. Lynch died in the Holy Cross hospital two hours after the shooting, and Altman and his wife still were unconscious last night.

Boy Tells of Shooting.

Arthur related that his father called at the home about 8 a. m. and became involved in a quarrel with Mrs. Altman in the dining room. When Altman intervened, Lynch drew a revolver and shot him twice in the right shoulder. As Mrs. Altman fled to the kitchen, Lynch followed and fired three shots which struck her in the abdomen. Then he raised the revolver and fired the last bullet into his head.

Asleep upstairs at the time were Arthur's brother and sister, Daniel, 6, and Carol, 3, and the infant son of the Altmans, Ronald, 1 month old. Also in a second floor bedroom was Miss La Verne McNally, 18, Mrs. Altman's daughter by the first of her three marriages.

Awarded Custody.

Miss McNally said her mother was awarded custody of the Lynch children when she divorced Lynch two years ago because he drank heavily and did not support her. He was permitted to visit the children weekly but had quarreled with Mrs. Altman over their custody and her remarriage, Miss McNally said.

Lynch was discharged from the police force in 1923 while serving in the office of the deputy superintendent of police, for conduct unbecoming an officer, other policemen said. He previously had served at the Burnside and Englewood stations. He recently had been employed as a guard by a private detective agency. Altman is an electrician for the Chicago park district.

THE STILWELL STORY IN 10 WORDS—AFTER CENSORS GET THRU

New York, Oct. 29 (AP).—The Associated Press received the following dispatch tonight from its Chungking, China, correspondent, Spencer Moosa, about Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, who has been recalled by the United States from his far east command:

"CHUNGKING, Oct. 29.—Stilwell is known to have taken formal leave of Chiang . . .

"Editor—American censor excised 388 words and Chinese censor 104 words, leaving only foregoing excerpt from one sentence."

PROTEST ARMY PLAN TO AUCTION CANINE HEROES

New York, Oct. 29 (AP).—Associated dog lovers raised a howl of protest today at the war department's proposal to sell at auction 1,000 K-9 veterans whose former owners no longer have homes for them.

"An exceedingly unhappy and ungrateful means of disposing of dogs that have served their country" was the verdict of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

The American Humane association said, "These dogs apparently are to be treated like broken down armor and surplus food stocks." Both organizations urged members to protest to members of congress.

Victim of Raw Deal Sues His Onion-Eating Wife

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 29 (AP).—A husband appeared in court asking for a divorce because, he said, his wife ate onions in spite of his protests. Three times, he said, he had to go to the hospital because he was allergic to onions, and the subject of onions had made him a nervous wreck. "He made out a strong case," the judge remarked after granting the divorce.

M'Arthur Conquers Leyte Valley and 70 Towns.

MacARTHUR'S HDQ., Philippines, Oct. 30 [Monday] (AP). — American forces, who made new gains of nearly four miles today, have virtually accomplished the liberation of a million and a half Filipinos on Leyte and Samar Islands, Gen. MacArthur announced today.

The Yanks control two-thirds of Leyte, with an area of approximately 1,800 miles, while on near-by Samar, stepping stone to Manila, the small Japanese garrisons "are helpless and can be destroyed at will."

All organized Japanese resistance ceased in the vital Leyte valley last night after the last stubborn stand by the enemy at Cavite bridge and the Dagami road junction was crushed by American tanks, artillery, and an old fashioned bayonet charge.

Japs Are Helpless.

Maj. Gen. Fred Irving's 24th division was ready to deal a knockout blow to a small infantry force gathered at Jaro, to the north, 18 miles inland from the east coast, but the majority of the remnants of Gen. Shiro Makino's 16th division were straggling into the hills.

MacArthur said the Japanese garrisons remaining on Leyte were isolated and helpless. Seventy towns have been captured.

On the northern front the 24th division made gains up to four miles in a three pronged drive toward the island's northwest coast to cut off a major enemy escape route.

Guerrilla forces and the 21st infantry regiment have conquered the southern one-third of Leyte, and patrols are cutting westward across a narrow land neck from Abuyog to cut the island in segments.

"Enemy garrisons and outposts in the coastal sectors have been liquidated," the bulletin said.

Churches Reopened.

The liberation drive was dramatically underlined by the announcement that "on Sunday, all churches of whatever denomination were opened thruout the liberated areas and divine services were attended by the free populace."

With their land forces falling back before armor-led American might, Japanese aircraft continued day and night raids against shipping and shore installations. Newly arrived land based fighters and anti-aircraft fire shot down 13 Japanese planes.

Push Toward Juncture.

Augmented by elements of the 96th division, the Americans were pushing rapidly northward from Dagami toward Pastrana, last main unoccupied point on the north-side highway, to effect a juncture with the 10th corps, coming from the north.

Plunging northwestward from Santa Fe along another highway, the 24th division captured Alangalang, Cavite, Santa Cruz, and Tingib, in its three pronged drive toward the coast. American forces already hold Barugo and Carigara.

100,000 Yanks There.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Oct. 29 (AP).—Blaine Fielder, war correspondent for the Melbourne Herald, today said Gen. MacArthur had indicated that there are 100,000 troops in his Philippine invasion forces. Fielder said MacArthur and Lt. Gen. George C. Kenney, commander of the allied far east air force, warmly welcomed the first land based fighter planes to reach Leyte Island.

Two battleships.
Four carriers.

5,000 of Foe Drowned, U.S. Pilots Figure

BY MORRIE LANDSBERG.

ABOARD U. S. CARRIER TASK FORCE FLAGSHIP, Philippine Sea, Oct. 25 [Delayed]—(AP).—This has been a day of reckoning for the United States navy and a day of disaster for the Japanese fleet.

In the sector north of Luzon Island the enemy suffered heavily. Already four carriers have been sunk along with a light cruiser and two destroyers—mostly the result of a gallant day's work by American airmen who willingly made two and three hops against intense anti-aircraft fire to break up a 17 ship formation.

The pilots who looked down on the scene of wreckage saw clusters of survivors clinging to anything they could get their hands on. The Japanese casualties were "enormous," they said, which might mean as high as 5,000. For all the damage dealt out, this air group lost two pilots and two air crewmen.

Two Hours to Go Down.

Dive bombers were credited with from seven to 12 hits in an 18 plane strike on a Shokaku class carrier, which they left covered with smoke and fire. Three torpedo planes roared in on a carrier even as bombs were falling. It was this—largest of the four enemy carriers—which went down first.

"It took two hours for the big carrier, three hours for the damaged medium carrier to sink," said Comdr. Hugh Winters, air group chief, who spent six hours over the target area.

"When the big one went down it wasn't under attack. It hadn't been for an hour and a half," he said later. "It rolled over on its side and went down stern first. It went down very quietly, with no explosion or fanfare.

Floats in Pool of Oil.

"It has been floating in a big irregular pool of oil. There were people—hundreds of them—floating about holding on to wood, debris, anything to save themselves.

"Later the medium carrier sank without any list, nose first. All afternoon it had been going down grad-

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, Oct. 29 (AP).—The 3d and 7th United States fleets sank or damaged 58 Japanese warships at a cost of only six American vessels and "a few lesser craft" lost in the second battle of the Philippine sea. Japanese losses were 24 ships sunk, 13 so severely damaged they may have sunk, and 21 damaged, Adm. Nimitz disclosed today.

"The Japanese fleet has been decisively defeated and routed. The second battle of the Philippine sea ranks as one of the major sea battles of World War II. in the Pacific," he said.

Only 2 Ships Escape.

Not more than possibly two Japanese warships escaped destruction or damage in the three phases of the battle. Nimitz listed 58 to 60 ships in the three Japanese forces.

The admiral said reports indicate an overwhelming United States victory. The Japanese defeat unquestionably was the most crushing in the history of naval warfare. Never before, so far as could be learned, has any nation's fleet been so nearly destroyed. Nimitz unqualifiedly said, "the Japanese fleet" was engaged in the over-all battle.

Compared with Jutland.

Naval observers stated that Tokyo virtually threw everything into the desperate attempt to surprise and trap the 3d and 7th United States fleets and to wipe out Gen. MacArthur's invasion force on Leyte Island.

More ships were sunk and damaged in the battle of Jutland in the first World war, but there the losses were nearly equal, whereas in the Philippine sea all three Japanese forces virtually were wiped out but the United States forces were only lightly hurt.

The British lost 14 ships sunk at Jutland; the Germans 11. Twenty-eight British ships and 22 German ships were damaged. This total of 75 sunk or damaged exceeds by 10 the total of 58 Japanese ships sunk or damaged, six American ships sunk, and the Australian cruiser H. M. S. Australia lightly damaged in the Philippine engagements.

More Ships Engaged.

Altho exact figures cannot be given, the total of ships involved in all three Philippine battles exceeded the number engaged at Jutland—248. This means that the United States alone had approximately 200 warships—possibly more—to throw against Japan's greatest effort to defeat the American fleet.

Possibly for the first time in this war the navy mentioned the Japanese battleship Haruna, which the war department reported was sunk on the second day of the war by Lt. Colin Kelly off the Philippines.

Nimitz listed a battleship "thought to be the Haruna" as

Adm. Nimitz Reveals Where Jap Ships Were Sunk or Damaged in Battle of Philippines

one of five capital ships in the Sibuyan sea enemy force. The Haruna thus either was sunk or damaged, for not one of the 28 or 29 ships in that force escaped aerial bombs or torpedoes, or ship's gunfire.

The two battleships sunk were identified in Gen. MacArthur's bulletin yesterday as the Yamasiro and the Fuso, which also belongs to the Yamasiro class. They were sunk in the Sulu sea-Leyte gulf action by aerial bombs and ships' gunfire. The Yamasiro, built in 1917, was listed as 29,330 tons and rated at 23 knots speed.

"Overwhelming Victory."

The text of his bulletin follows:

"Amplifying reports on the second battle of the Philippine sea, altho still subject to revision as more information is received, indicate an overwhelming victory for the 3d and 7th United States fleets.

"The Japanese fleet has been decisively defeated and routed. The second battle of the Philippine sea ranks as one of the major sea battles of World War II. in the Pacific —together with the battle of the Coral sea, May 18, 1942; the battle of Midway, June 6, 1942; the battle of Guadalcanal, Nov. 15, 1942; and the first battle of the Philippine sea, June 19, 1944.

Detected on Oct. 21.

"Movements of major Japanese fleet units northward from the Singapore area were detected on Oct. 21 and 22. Submarine scouts sighted the enemy force, sank two Atago class heavy cruisers and severely damaged a third.

"Ships of the 3d fleet were moved into position to the eastward of the Philippines off Surigao strait, San Bernardino strait and the Polillo Islands.

"On Oct. 23, carrier searchers discovered two strong enemy naval forces moving eastward, one thru the Sibuan sea and the other thru the Sulu sea.

See Five Battleships.

"Photographs by carrier aircraft showed that the force moving eastward thru the Sibuyan sea included five battleships, thought to be the Yamato, Musashi, Nagato, Kongo, and Haruna; eight cruisers of the following types: [two Mogami, two Tone, two Nachi, one Atago, Noshiro], and 13 destroyers. The force moving eastward thru the Sulu sea consisted of two battleships of the Yamasiro class, two heavy cruisers, two light cruisers, and seven or eight destroyers.

"As soon as the presence of the two enemy fleet forces in the Philippine islands was discovered on Oct. 23, Hellcat fighters, Avenger torpedo planes, and Helldiver dive bombers from the 3d fleet carriers were launched to attack both forces. In the Sibuyan sea, one battleship and one cruiser were severly damaged and set afire and may have sunk.

"Three other battleships received bombs and torpedoes; three other heavy cruisers received bombs and torpedoes; and one light cruiser was torpedoed, capsized, and sank.

"In the Sulu sea bomb hits were made on both battleships. Cruisers and destroyers were strafed with rockets and machine guns.

"Meanwhile, to the eastward of the Philippines, enemy shore based aircraft were attacking our carriers. In the aerial battle that ensued, more than 150 enemy aircraft were shot down. Our losses, on which exact figures are not yet available, were light.

"In this attack, the carrier Princeton was hit by a bomb which caused a bad fire. Later the Princeton's magazine blew up and the ship was so badly damaged that she had to be sunk by our own forces.

Sight Third Fleet.

"Also on the afternoon of Oct. 23, a land based navy search plane discovered the presence of an enemy carrier force approximately 200 miles off Cape Engano of northern Luzon, heading south. This force consisted of 17 warships, including a large carrier, believed to be of the Zuikaku class; three light carriers of the Ghitose and Zuiho classes; two battleships of the Ise class with flight decks aft; a heavy cruiser of the Mogami class; a light cruiser of the Noshiro class; three cruisers of the Kiso class, and six destroyers.

"To meet this serious threat, the commander, third fleet, concentrated several of his carrier task groups and started northward at high speed for a dawn attack.

"These units of the 3d fleet steamed north at full speed thru the night and caught the enemy so completely by surprise on the morning of Oct. 24 that there was no effective air opposition. Later in the forenoon enemy carrier aircraft which had been refueled ashore in the Philippines flew out to join their ships, which already had met disaster. The enemy planes arrived too late to get into the fight and 21 were shot down by our combat patrols. In this action, the following destruction was inflicted upon the enemy:

"Sunk, one carrier of the Zuikaku class, sunk by carrier aircraft; one light carrier of the Zuiho class, crippled by carrier aircraft and later sunk by the gunfire of cruisers and destroyers; two light carriers of Chitose class, sunk by carrier aircraft; one light cruiser or large destroyer sunk by gunfire; one destroyer sunk by carrier aircraft.

Submarine Sinks Cruiser.

"One cruiser was severely damaged by carrier aircraft and was sunk during the night by a submarine.

"Damaged:

"One battleship hit by two to four torpedoes and many bombs.

"One battleship hit by bombs.

"Three cruisers damaged by bombs and gunfire. Four destroyers bombed, strafed, or hit by gunfire.

"None of the 3d fleet ships engaged with the enemy carrier force were damaged. The 3d fleet in this phase of the action lost 10 planes, 8 pilots, and 10 air crewmen, all shot down by anti-aircraft fire.

"Before all the damaged enemy ships could be tracked down and destroyed the engagement was broken off to proceed to the assistance of 7th fleet carrier escort groups then under attack off Samar Island.

"The enemy force of battleships, cruisers, and destroyers, which had been attacked in the Sibuyan sea had sortied thru the San Bernardino strait in spite of the damage inflicted by our carrier aircraft and had attacked units of the 7th fleet off Samar Island during the morning of Oct. 24.

"In the ensuing battle, most of the enemy's heavy ships were badly damaged by 7th fleet units, assisted by carrier aircraft from the 3d fleet. One cruiser of the Mogami class was seen to sink and one destroyer was left dead in the water.

"The enemy force ran northwest from the scene of the action, and during the early hours of darkness passed westward thru the San Bernardino strait. About 2 a. m. a straggling cruiser was sunk by gunfire of the 3d fleet.

"Meanwhile the southern enemy force had crossed the Sulu sea, the Mindanao sea, had attempted to pass thru the Surigao strait and met the 7th fleet in a night action Oct. 23-24. As announced by the commander in chief, Southwest Pacific area, all units of this enemy force were sunk or decisively defeated.

"On Oct. 24, carrier aircraft of the 3d fleet were launched against the crippled and damaged enemy, fleeing westward thru the Subiyan sea. Damage done to the enemy during the retirement of the enemy forces thru the San Bernardino straits by the combined efforts of the 3d and 7th fleets and shore based aircraft of the Southwest Pacific area included one Mogami class cruiser sunk off Mindoro Island, one Noshiro class cruiser sunk south of Mindoro Island, one battleship possibly sunk and three other battleships and three other cruisers further damaged.

Tells Total Damage.

"Sunk:

"Two battleships.

"Four carriers.

"Six heavy cruisers.

"Three light cruisers.

"Three small cruisers or large destroyers.

"Six destroyers.

"Severely damaged and may have sunk:

"One battleship.

"Three heavy cruisers.

"Two light cruisers.

"Seven destroyers.

"Escaped in a damaged condition:

"Six battleships.

"Four heavy cruisers.

"One light cruiser.

"Ten destroyers.

Six U. S. Ships Lost.

"During the same action the losses sustained by United States naval forces were one light carrier [Princeton], two escort carriers, two destroyers, one destroyer escort, and a few lesser craft.

"The following battleships seriously damaged at Pearl Harbor took part in these actions: West Virginia, Maryland, Tennessee, California, and Pennsylvania. The new carriers Lexington, Wasp, and Hornet also participated.

"In all these actions, United States submarines played a highly important part and are credited with sinking and damaging several enemy warships—both before and after the air and sea battles on Oct. 23, 24, and 25.

"Much of the credit for the destruction inflicted on the Japanese fleet goes to the naval airmen who gallantly and relentlessly pressed their attacks home with telling effect."

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Radio Tokyo, broadcasting a Domei news agency dispatch Sunday, asserted that 14 carrier based American fighter planes were shot down Saturday near Tacloban, capital of Leyte Island.

In a later broadcast Domei said Japanese airmen sank "11 more large sized enemy transport vessels" carrying reënforcements to Leyte and heavily damaged six landing barges.

Domei said the Japanese planes "on their way to a raiding mission against enemy positions at Tacloban met the 14 American aircraft and shot all of them down during hot aerial dogfights." Domei claimed Japanese airmen have already blasted 70 enemy planes at Tacloban and Dulag air fields.

BATTLE COSTS JAPS' NAVY MORE THAN IT LOST IN FOUR FIGHTS

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, Oct. 29 (AP).—The second battle of the Philippine sea cost Japan far more fighting ships sunk or damaged—58—than the combined battles of the Coral sea, Midway, Guadalcanal, and the first Philippine sea action.

Nippon lost a total of 64 ships sunk or damaged in the previous four engagements, but only 42 were warships. The others were auxiliaries.

The enemy's warship casualties have been as follows:

Midway, June 6, 1942—four carriers and one cruiser sunk; two battleships, three heavy cruisers, and one light cruiser damaged.

Guadalcanal, Nov. 15, 1942—two battleships, one heavy cruiser, and three destroyers sunk; four cruisers and four destroyers damaged.

First battle of the Philippine sea, June 19, 1944—two carriers and one destroyer sunk; two carriers probably sunk; two carriers, one battleship, three cruisers, and two destroyers damaged.

SON OF EX-AIDE HAILS M'ARTHUR IN PHILIPPINES

MacARTHUR'S HDQ., Leyte, Oct. 28 [Via Army Radio] [Delayed]—(AP).—"Capt. Jones, sir. I want to pay my respects on behalf of my father."

Thus spoke the stocky, blond Capt. Jack J. Jones, 23, as he shook hands today with Gen. Douglas MacArthur at Philippine headquarters shortly after the captain arrived here in the first land based bomber to put down on Leyte Island.

Jones is the son of Maj. Gen. Albert M. Jones, commanding general of the 1st army corps under MacArthur when the war started. Gen. Jones led his troops until the fall of the Philippines. Now he is a prisoner in Formosa with Lt. Gen. Johnathan Wainright, who succeeded MacArthur on Corregidor Island before it fell.

CHICAGO MEN HELP STEAL HILL, SURPRISE JAPS

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATOP HILL 522, LEYTE ISLAND, Oct. 22 [Delayed].—This is the story of Pvt. Clarence Schumacher, 4919 Northwest highway, Chicago, and since he tells it best, here are his words:

Clarence Schumacher.

"We stole this hill, and it's mighty lucky we did. If we hadn't slipped thru the Japs on the beach that first day and climbed up one side of this hill before the Japs climbed up the other we undoubtedly would still be fighting for it.

"We beat the Japs to the top by only a few minutes and dropped into an elaborate trench, pillbox, and tunnel system. Just below the edge of each ridge the Japs had dug a trench. Every 20 feet or so cross-trenches ran across the ridge leading into pillboxes on the seaward face. Near the peak were positions for big guns.

Deep Caves at Crest.

"Deep, reinforced caves honeycombed the crest. Never in the southwest Pacific had our troops found such a perfect defense system.

"The Filipinos tell us the Japs had worked virtually all of the men and boys of the town of Palo as slaves for the last two months, digging and hauling. The hill was studded with platforms built of coconut logs seven layers deep onto which guns were to be run out from excavations.

"At the peak was a command post with concrete roofing two feet thick. At the back base of the hill was a supply cave so large that Jap cavalrymen defending the hill stabled their horses in it.

"The hill is so steep the Japs had dug stairs into the rear. We had to come up its face virtually on our hands and knees. Our four companies lost some men even before we hit the beach when shells hit their barges. And on the beach we were pinned down.

Thru Swamp Up to Chins.

"The two men next to me were killed. Our commander, Lt. Col. Fred Ciprath of Sheboygan, Wis., ordered three companies to slip around the right flank of the Japs' beach defenses. We had to go thru swamps up to our chins but we made it. The swamp was so bad we got thru without being shot at; the Japs thought nobody would try to cross it.

"The base of the hill is about a mile inland. Moving fast we carried only canteens, ammunition, and guns. I had a tommy gun.

"As we neared the top of the hill just before dusk two machine guns opened up. We lost seven men, one dead.

"Lt. Dallas Dick of B company took over when his captain was killed in a landing barge. When we were pinned down on the beach a bullet hit the lieutenant's helmet and glanced back tearing his shirt. Then on the top of the hill a bullet went thru his pants leg, another put a hole in a record book he carried, and still another hit his carbine.

Japs Get a Surprise.

"After knocking out the two machine guns at the top we looked down the rear side—right into the faces of surprised Japs. We knocked off 50 or 100 and the rest ran.

"But we were surrounded by Japs. For two days and two nights we sat here, and only this afternoon did we manage to bring in supplies and get our wounded down.

"The first night the Japs tried to come back up the rear and on the second day we had to clean them off again. We discovered that a tunnel ran from the summit almost to the base and they kept slipping up thru it until we closed it. The second night some Japs from the beach started up the face, thinking their men were still here. Those are their bodies down there.

Win Children's Thanks.

"On the second day we watched while our buddies went into Palo, right at our feet. When children fell down before our troops as a token of their thanks, James Barker, 6254 S. Racine av., said that made up for all the hardships.

"Today the Japs laid down a barrage and it killed three men and hurt some more.

"Some of the other Chicagoans atop the hill are Charles Chapin, 650 W. 8th st.; Herman Pritzler, 1924 Crystal st.; Ted Nieswinski, 5727 Agatite av.; Robert Poe, 8347 Oglesby av.; Donald Price, 501 Sheridan rd., and Casimir Rasimas, 3700 S. Emerald av.

"Gordon Behrel, 843 Maple av., Downers Grove; Henry Petroucek, 4020 Anna st., Brookfield, and Arthur Kmiecik, 3121 Mount Vernon av., Milwaukee, also are on the hill."

BRITISH CIVILIANS FACE SHORTAGES OF SHOES AND POTATOES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Britain is faced with the double threat of a civilian shoe and potato famine. Shoe manufacturers, describing the civilian footwear shortage as the "greatest the war has yet engendered," warns that unless official attention is given soon there will be a shortage of certain classes of shoes, which will prove hard on working people.

Northampton manufacturers, main producing center, attribute the shortage primarily to lack of labor and material, switchover of a number of firms to the manufacture of demobilization footwear, and the partial allocation of output to relief of continental Europe.

The potato shortage, which is reflected in the black market prices offered in London's Covent Garden market, is ascribed to a serious shortage of labor and a blight, which is making a large proportion of potato supplies unedible. Buyers reportedly are offering as much as $30 a ton for potatoes, which are supposed to sell at the ceiling price of $20.

ually. This one left a similar number of survivors, who were taken on by two Jap destroyers. The loss of life by the Japs was so great I can't even begin to visualize it."

No Planes on Carriers.

Not soon to be forgotten was one of several direct attacks on our ship. A dive bomber swooped out of the clouds and dropped a bomb which fell no more than 50 feet from the stern.

The pilots noticed particularly that there were no planes on the decks of the enemy carriers. On all their runs they saw only a half dozen planes, of which at least two were shot down.

From 20 to 26 Japanese warships, spotted in the Sibuyan sea, gave the pilots their first crack at the enemy fleet.

Illinoisan Hits Carrier.

Lt. Robert Durian, Fort Dodge, Ia., who made a run on a medium carrier, said a bomb made water spout went above the flight deck. A. R. M. 2/C Ernest H. Hanke, 22, Chicago, was with Durian in the attack.

Pilot Lt. Leonard Mathias, 28, of Peoria, Ill., scored torpedo hits on the port bow of a carrier.

One pilot, Lt. Albert Seckel, Peoria, Ill., hustled up to the bridge to tell the admiral, "Well, we got her," confirming the sinking of a big carrier. Seckel was tired and grimy but smiled. So did the admiral.

"That was just a start for what they did at Pearl Harbor," Adm. Marc Mitscher said quietly. "And they'll pay for the rest of it."

M'ARTHUR AND HALSEY HAIL KINKAID VICTORY

ABOARD ADM. KINKAID'S FLAGSHIP, Leyte, Philippines, Oct. 29 [via army radio]—(AP).—Congratulatory messages poured into Vice Adm. Thomas C. Kinkaid's flagship yesterday for the performance of the United States 7th fleet in crushing two major Japanese forces converging on American invaded Leyte Island.

Adm. William F. Halsey, whose 3d fleet air arm damaged a Japanese fleet attacking on the north before and after the sea battle off eastern Samar, said, "The cool courage our air forces displayed in repelling powerful elements of the Japanese fleet was magnificent and added an inspiring chapter to the history of the United States navy."

Gen. MacArthur, in command of the invasion forces, sent this message to Kinkaid: "To your staff, Rear Admirals Oldendorf and Sprague, and all commanders and men: You have turned a crisis into glittering success." He termed Kinkaid "one of the greatest of modern sailors."

Adm. Ernest King, navy commander in chief, in a message to both Halsey and Kinkaid, said: "The 3d and 7th fleets effectively disposed of the enemy navy. Officers and men of the fleet have the hearty admiration of all hands. Well done to each and all."

YANKS HURLED INTO BATTLE OF SOUTH HOLLAND

Nazis Driven from Major Portion of Breda.

LONDON, Oct. 30 [Monday]—(AP).—Allied forces were throwing powerful punches thruout southern Holland last night in an effort to prevent approximately 40,000 Germans from fleeing across Hollandsch Diep and the Maas [Meuse] river in the direction of Rotterdam.

As the offensive mounted, the allies yesterday marked up these advances:

1. Polish troops, under Canadian command, stormed into strategic Breda, midway between Roosendaal and Tilburg.

2. The Canadians linked up with the British on South Beveland and drove into Goes, the peninsula's main communications center. [The American Broadcasting Station in Europe (ABSIE) reported Goes had fallen.]

3. The British captured Loon op Zand, north of Tilburg, and then plunged within four miles of the Maas.

Yanks Under Canadian Orders.

A front line dispatch disclosed that American troops under Canadian command had joined the cleanup drive somewhere on a 22 mile front between Bergen op Zoom and Breda.

The doughboys joining the drive to knock the Germans from the lower coastal corner of Holland and open Antwerp as a port to receive supplies seized several unidentified towns, it was reported.

Late reports said that the Poles who seized the major portion of Breda, a city of 48,000 population and a key to German defenses in southwest Holland, found only a few Nazi snipers left there and late last night moved up across the Breda-Roosendaal road.

Allied fighter bombers ripped at the fleeing enemy, and pilots said the area south of the Maas was "alive with transports."

One Escape Route Open.

German rear guards fought to cover the withdrawal, especially at Breda and Roosendaal, but front dispatches said the next three days should see the end of Field Marshal Walther von Model's stand in the lower coastal corner of Holland. He is losing about 1,000 men a day in prisoners alone, an allied staff officer said.

Only one escape road leading northwest from Breda to Moerdijk at the Hollandsch Diep was left to the Germans in this central sector. It appeared the Germans south of the Maas and Hollandsch Diep would try to flee across the bridge at Moerdijk, 10 miles northwest of Breda, and at the Willemstad ferry eight miles farther downstream.

Canadians who drove onto South Beveland Island across a causeway had swept nearly half the length of that island. One southward-turning arm linked with a British beachhead expanding along the southern coast. Some 3,900 prisoners of the island's 11,000 garrison had been taken by the Canadians.

Yanks Parry German Blows.

To the southwest across the Schelde estuary, Canadians reached the edge of Zuidzande, 5½ miles southwest of Breskens, and had taken 6,000 prisoners from the dwindling German force trapped in a pocket there. Only a few hundred Germans were left there.

Fifty miles east and south of Breda, the Germans lashed out again with strong armored attacks from the German border, forcing the Americans from another town, in apparent attempts to take the pressure off the allied drive in the coastal corner.

The enemy now has committed an armored division and an estimated 50 tanks and self-propelled guns into this 3 day old assault. He had driven the doughboys from Meijel, 12 miles west of the border city of Venlo, and yesterday seized the American defended town of Liesel, 5 miles north of Meijel. The new push was halted only after bitter fighting and support from British guns and planes.

On the Rhineland flank, allied troops captured Jussarupt, 13 miles east of Epinal, but Berlin claimed recapture of the dominating heights in the Bois de la Madelaine, 22 miles northeast of Epinal.

[The Bern radio, quoting a Swiss announcement, reported that an aircraft signal post at Noirmont in Switzerland was attacked early yesterday by four American planes. The broadcast said, "Using bombs and gunfire, the aircraft also attacked for some time the village station and surrounding areas. . . . Two houses near the station were destroyed by fire." No one was injured seriously. Noirmont is in the Jura mountains, just across the border from France.]

Two Yanks Who Won't Run Blast a Pair of Nazi Tanks

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 7TH ARMY, in France, Oct. 29.—Two American infantry men who stood their ground stopped two powerful German Mark VI. Tiger tanks with ordinary infantry weapons during battles in this sector.

Pvt. Stephen Yarkowsky of Detroit, Mich., was caught with the rest of his platoon under heavy enemy fire and saw a Tiger tank rumbling toward him. His comrades slipped away, but Yarkowsky stayed at his heavy machine gun almost without any cover and poured round after round into the tank at less than 100 yards range.

The tank closed its observation slits. Yarkowsky fired into the tank's periscope, blinding the driver, until a Yank bazooka gunner crept in and made the kill.

Carbine Stops One Tank.

Pvt. Charles Martin of Cincinnati, O., was with a rifle platoon firing at enemy infantry when the Germans sent four Mark VI.s toward the infantry's flank. Martin used his carbine to kill several Nazi foot soldiers, then turned the weapon on one of the tanks. His first rounds stopped a Mark VI. and he followed up with a series of rifle grenades, piercing a slit and killing some of the crew. Other Americans opened up on the three other tanks, which fled.

How to capture 25 Germans is answered by Pvt. 1st Class Joseph J. Singleton, 215 N. Adams st., South Bend, Ind., who says: "Start out to get one and you'll wind up with a bunch."

Singleton and Sgt. Robert Anderson of Jewett City, Conn., went out to get a wounded German reported to be in a French home. They had not been told that quite a number of Germans were in the vicinity.

Stream Out of Woods.

"They all started streaming out of the woods," Singleton related. "They were all armed. They formed a circle and just stared at us.

"I couldn't think of anything to do so I told them they were our prisoners. They nodded. It seemed okeh with them. We disarmed them and they started walking back with us. There were 22 of them including the wounded one.

"On the way back three more came running up bringing their weapons. They seemed a bit hurt at our not having found them. They were anxious to come along. We obliged."

SUGGESTS WRECKAGE OF BERLIN BE KEPT AS PERMANENT WARNING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 29.—A suggestion that a square mile or two devastated in the center of Berlin by allied bombings should be maintained as a permanent record of what would be done to Germany if she repeated her aggression against other nations was made yesterday by William Brass, member of parliament, at a conservative party meeting at Great Harwood, Lancashire.

Recommending this formula as a deterrent against future German aggression, Brass said: "I should not allow them to rebuild this section but I should erect thereon a large poster inscribed: 'This is the result of Hitler trying to dominate the world.'"

He also advocated recruiting the German male population to rebuild districts the Germans destroyed in Belgium, Holland, and Russia if the governments of these countries so demanded.

planes on Saturday cut rail lines at 95 places from south of Cologne to north of Arnhem, and the great city of Cologne ahead of the American front still was being hammered into ruins. These air blows were reminiscent of the pre-invasion day wreckage of Nazi communications.

Road and rail bridges near Duren and Julich ahead of the 1st army were wrecked, as well as spans in eastern Holland.

HOW FIRST ARMY MET FRONT LINE SUPPLY NEEDS

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[War Correspondent of The Chicago Tribune.]

In the first day of an all out attack an American field army can expend as much as 20,000 tons of ammunition. Or, when it breaks into the open and starts rolling fast, the daily expenditure can drop to 800 tons.

To meet this ever varying need of the 1st army of Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges, his ordnance experts have delivered well over 500,000 tons of ammunition to the army's dumps in France since D-day, June 6. That's at a rate of better than 5,000 tons a day.

On Short Rations.

There was a time, shortly after D-day, when the ammunition situation became critical. Our advance inland had not been so rapid as we planned. That meant tough fighting and more ammunition being used. Then the storm came along to cripple beach operations and every fighting outfit had to go on short ammunition rations.

But this hump was passed and soon the boxes and crates of shells and bullets were pouring into the dumps, scattered in the open over hundreds of aces of farm land. It rolled in faster than the ammunition handlers could count it.

"The stuff was coming in faster than my boys had ever seen," said Col. John B. Medaris, Cincinnati, O., the 1st army's ordnance officer.

Five thousand tons of ammunition a day sounds like a stupendous figure, even for a field army. But that army requires 211 types of ammunition. It needs bullets for millions of rifles and thousands of machine guns. It needs shells for thousands of mortars and thousands of guns.

1st Army's Supply Worry.

Think of the build-up of divisions in the 1st army, before some of them were split off and formed into the 3d. On D-day the ordnance department had to worry about two infantry divisions, two air borne divisions, and six tank battalions.

Then their problems increased until the 1st army turned full control of the beachhead supply over to the communications zone's service of supply soldiers.

How many guns—not rifles or machine guns but artillery pieces—must Col. Medaris supply and service, or replace or repair? Not long ago there were nearly 3,500 artillery types including tanks.

These included the 105 mm. howitzer and the 105 mm. howitzer of the infantry cannon company; the 155 mm. gun and the 155 mm. howitzer; the 155 self-propelled gun; the 4.5 inch gun; the 75 mm. howitzer; the 75 and 76 mm. tank guns; the 3 inch tank destroyer; the 240 mm. howitzer, and the 8 inch howitzer and 8 inch gun.

Why Officers Turn Gray.

Getting the ammunition, spare parts, new gun barrels, and replacement guns ashore was one problem. Getting these up front, in the follow-up of a break thru, is another. That's the way ordnance officers develop gray hairs.

Ammunition and spare guns, of course, are only part of the ordnance officer's problems. He must take care of all of the army's vehicles.

He must worry about replacing tanks and repairing their engines.

All along the line of the army's advance the ordnance officers have been watching for local factories, undamaged by the Germans, which could fit into the picture of supplying the 1st army. In Paris, for example, they found a place equipped for acetylene welding. And in Liege, at the Fabrique National, the big Browning arms factory, they were able to get Browning parts which the Germans had been unable to take with them or destroy in their retreat.

RUSSIANS CUT ESCAPE LINE OF HUNGARY NAZIS

Capture Csap and Last Bit of Ruthenia.

LONDON, Oct. 30 [Monday]—(AP).—Russian troops who had fought their way 50 miles across mountainous eastern Czechoslovakia yesterday occupied the strategic junction of Csap [Cop] on the upper Tisza river, cutting the Germans' last rail escape route out of northeastern Hungary.

Csap Ruthenian town on the prewar Czechoslovakian-Hungarian frontier, is a junction point of the Lwow-Budapest railway and an east-west line running thru Czechoslovakia and northern Hungary. Its capture represented a 13 mile advance from Ungvar, former Ruthenian capital.

The 4th Ukraine army, in reaching the Hungarian plain after a thrust thru the Carpathian mountains, has captured the last bit of the 4,886 square miles of Hungarian-annexed Ruthenia.

In northeastern Hungary, south of Csap, the Russians announced the capture of eight villages on a 20 mile front in gains up to eight miles.

Reds Take Latvian City.

A Berlin announcement said soviet troops had penetrated to the Priekule area, 20 miles southeast of the Baltic port of Liepaja, Latvia, and had captured Auce, communications center 70 miles east of Liepaja.

The Russians were estimated by Berlin to be using 500,000 men in this offensive, which is aimed at wiping out an estimated 100,000 Germans pinned against the Baltic.

On the East Prussian front, Berlin reported, "considerably weaker" soviet forces were hurled against German lines southwest of Ebenrode and south of Gumbinnen, important points on the Kaunas-Koenigsberg highway.

Bunkers 7 Feet Thick.

Moscow dispatches said the Russians had had to attack seven foot thick steel and concrete bunkers on the approaches to many villages.

The importance of the German volksturm, or home front army, was minimized in a dispatch to Pravda from the front. It said Nazi home army battalions lost a third of their troops in the first few days they were thrown into action.

GERMAN WAR REPORT.

Germany's broadcast summary said yesterday:

"The Larisa region [Greece] was evacuated on orders. The Bulgarians' pressure against our positions between St. Rumitze valley and the region west of Nis [Yugoslavia] continues. Numerous enemy attacks in the western Moravia valley were crushed.

"Between the Danube and the Tisza river, Hungarian troops improved their positions in an attack. At the Tisza bridgeheads northeast of Szolnok local fighting ensued.

"In the East Prussian border region, the enemy interrupted his major assaults, owing to heavy losses. Southeast of Gumbinnen stronger Bolshevist forces made vain attacks.

Eisenhower Sends Battle Flag to Scots' Cathedral

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 29.—An American combat flag recently was sent to Aberdeen, Scotland, by special messenger for presentation to St. Andrew's cathedral upon telephone instructions from Gen. Eisenhower to his headquarters in Britain, it was disclosed tonight. Dr. Gordon Kinnell, provost of the cathedral, asked for the flag "as a memorial to the association in arms of the British and American peoples in the war for freedom."

ALLIED BOMBERS CROSS SWEDEN TO AID RUSSIANS

LONDON, Oct. 29 (AP). — Strong forces of British and American bombers thundered over Sweden today apparently en route to give the first direct support to Russian and Finnish troops clearing the German 20th army from northern Finland, a Stockholm dispatch said.

Also the British announced that their Lancasters in a 2,400 mile round trip flight had struck the German battleship Tirpitz with another six ton earthquake bomb in its lair west of Tromso, Norway, and smashed at U-boat pens at Bergen on the Norwegian west coast.

The Tirpitz was moored near the south end of Haakoy Island west of Tromso. Consecutive blows at the Tirpitz have kept it immobilized and unable to make any possible forays against allied shipping.

Head for Lapland.

The Germans, however, have been able to move the Tirpitz under destroyer escort from her hiding place in Altenfjord to Tromso, about 100 miles southward.

[BBC said allied planes sank a German transport and 10 other ships in a north Norwegian fjord.]

Swedish defense staff headquarters first said that the formations of four engined planes heading toward Finnish Lapland across northern Sweden were American, but a later announcement said at least part of them were British. One British heavy bomber was forced to land at Porjus, in northern Sweden.

The Swedish defense staff usually reports that its air defenses went into action against such flights across Swedish territory, but there was no such mention today.

Sight Nazi Transport Planes.

The newspaper Aftonbladet's correspondent at Abisko, on the far northern Swedish-Norwegian border, reported sighting 37 three-engined German planes flying from central Norway, indicating they were Junkers transports trying to save important personnel of the German forces in Finland.

However, there was the possibility they were flying supplies to the German forces, now falling back on the Tana river in northern Norway for a possible winter-long stand.

The Finnish ground forces announced the capture of Vuotso, on the Arctic highway within 75 miles of a junction with Russian troops driving down the highway from the north. Other Finns were closing on Muonio, 95 miles southwest of Vuotso.

RUSSIAN HITS IRAN Ppremier OVER OIL DEAL

MOSCOW, Oct. 29 (AP).—A dispatch from Tehran, Iran, by Tass, soviet news agency, today quoted Sergei Kavtaradze, Russian vice commissar of foreign affairs, as accusing Premier Mohammed Saed of Iran of being unfriendly to the soviet union for blocking oil concessions in northern Iran.

Kavtaradze was said to have asserted at the soviet embassy at Tehran that the obstacles standing in the way of Russian development of Iran oil resources would be removed.

[The London Sunday Observer said the government of Iran was in danger of being overthrown under pressure from Moscow because of its refusal to grant oil concessions to Russian, Great Britain, and the United States for the duration of the war. The Moscow radio reported widespread demonstrations in Iran against the premier.]

REVEAL 1ST AND 30TH DIVISIONS SEIZED AACHEN

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 1ST ARMY IN GERMANY, Oct. 29.—The famed United States Fighting 1st division supported by the 30th—Old Hickory—stormed and took the city of Aachen after 13 days of some of the hardest fighting in this war.

This disclosure was permitted tonight along with the release of a stirring commendation to the 1st and its commander, Maj. Gen. Charles R. Huebner, by Maj. Gen. J. Lawton Collins, commander of the American 7th corps. In a letter to Huebner, Collins said Aachen's capture closes another brilliant campaign in the division's epic history.

30th Closes the Pocket.

Altho it was the 1st that actually took the city, driving from the east and northeast and fighting thru streets block by block, the 30th played a vital role, too. The doughboys of the 30th were the ones who drove around from the north to close the pocket behind Aachen, cutting off the garrison, and rendering the Nazi position inside the city hopeless.

And it was the job of the 30th to clean up enemy resistance in the northern outskirts of Aachen. The 1st had the mission of reducing the town proper, all of which released troops holding the perimeter in the Aachen bulge for use elsewhere, while straightening our line in this sector.

Tennessee Guard Outfit.

Within the space of 24 hours Old Hickory division, a Tennessee national guard outfit, withstood five German counter-attacks with the aid of the air force and massed artillery fire of the 1st army's biggest guns.

The division is commanded by Maj. Gen. L. S. Hobbs. It is remembered for its spectacular dawn crossing of the Vire river on July 7 as well as for the St. Lo break thru, which opened the way for armor movement across France.

VISITOR RUNS AFOUL OF LAW.

Carl Krejcha, 60, a dental supplies salesman from Seattle, Wash., was charged with disorderly conduct yesterday after police found him lying on the sidewalk at Desplaines and Madison sts. with $359 in his pockets. Police said he had been drinking.

FLAK SCARRED U. S. PLANE HONORED AT FRENCH CEREMONY

PARIS, Oct. 27 [Delayed]—(AP).—A flak-scared plane which no pilot wanted at first was the center of a military ceremony at Le Bourget air field today. The plane is an A-20 Havoc, the first 9th air force light bomber to complete 100 missions without once turning back. Renamed La France Libere, the plane was dedicated by Brig. Gen. Victor H. Strahm as "a name we hope will truly and worthily symbolize France forever."

Capt. Hugh A. Monroe, 21, of San Francisco, Cal., flew the plane on many of his 54 missions which brought him the air medal with nine oak leaf clusters.

CONGRESSMAN IN LONDON BOMB SHELTER SERVICE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Rep. Victor Wickersham [Dem., Okla.] in London after touring European battlefronts, read the lesson at a service for flying bomb shelterers in the Aldwych subway station tonight. He said:

"In America we sometimes think we have to suffer but our sufferings are nothing compared to what the British people have gone thru. What I have seen during my 17 days of touring England and France has convinced me that Britain and the United States will be much more closely bound together after the war than ever before."

The Sunday evening shelter service has been held regularly since 1941.

NAZIS GAIN MEN THRU RETREATS, SAYS COL. LANZA

Balkans Withdrawal May Free 20 Divisions.

BY COL. CONRAD H. LANZA.

German troops for whom motor transportation was available, and other troops who were not too far away, got out of France and took positions behind the West Wall. There remained a large number of troops for whom there was no transportation.

There were two major groups of infantry divisions. Both of these were surrounded and annihilated by the United States 1st army. One group fought it out for about a week in the forest near Compiegne. The details of this battle, which was severe, have not been made public. The other group of about three divisions, surrounded near Mons, Belgium, also was annihilated. Still another group along the coast fought off the pursuing Canadian army and got away to Holland.

A large number of German troops gathered at various ports, where most of them remain. About 50,000 have been killed or captured in ports taken, and at least 100,000 remain in ports not yet taken.

Tactics Possibly Forced.

The German high command has been criticized for sacrificing these men. It seems probable that this was forced upon it. It would have withdrawn these troops had transportation been available. This not being the case, the Germans held the ports and embarrassed the allies by depriving them of needed bases. They also gained time to man the West Wall.

At least 20,000 other Germans surrendered in central France and 10,000 at Paris, while 10,000 more are said in some quarters to have gone into Spain.

The German withdrawal from the Baltic states started in Estonia. When the Russians launched their great attack late in September, most of the Germans had already gone. They appear to have gotten away without great loss. This probably released 18 divisions to the German high command. The abandonment of Riga, capital of Latvia, followed.

It is not known whether the abandonment of Lithuania was planned by Germany or whether it was forced by the Russian offensive early in October. This has not made a substantial shortening of the front. To the north of Lithuania, the Germans still held the western part of Latvia, which no longer has a land connection with Germany.

Get 20 Divisions in Balkans.

The German withdrawal from the Balkans was the most difficult of all. It involved evacuation of the Aegean Islands, Greece, Albania, and the greater part of Yugoslavia, in the order named.

The evacuation of the Aegean Islands is reported by German commentators to have been completed. The high command has announced that several islands have been retained. This may have been a forced choice because of a lack of transportation. South and central Greece and south Albania have been evacuated. The evacuation of north Greece is approaching completion. The last place to be abandoned will be Salonika.

The German line of communications northward from Salonika ran thru Belgrade. The line from Belgrade to Greece has been under attack by Russian and Bulgar troops and Yugoslav Partisans of Marshal Tito's command. The upper portion from Belgrade to Nis has been captured. An alternate line turning off to the northwest at Skoplje is still available. This has been under attack by Yugoslav Partisans but they have not been able to close it. There are also some minor roads not yet closed by snow.

This German withdrawal is reported as being made in good order. If finally completed, it should give the Germans some 20 divisions.

Civilians Guard Foreigners.

Precautions taken by the Germans to prevent Hungary shifting sides in the war have so far been successful. The Hungarian troops are fighting with the Germans.

The raising of new troops in Germany has been pushed. There is no reliable information as to results obtained. New men are reported to have joined existing divisions. As could be expected, they are either very young or very old.

The recent arming of the civilian population probably was not so much with a view to resisting the armies of the allies as to prevent foreign workers from starting anything. In some sections of Germany the foreign workers exceed in number the local German male population. The allies have announced that arms have been dropped to the foreigners.

PARIS FOOD SUPPLIES RISE, BUT CITY STILL IS SHORT OF FUEL

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, France, Oct. 29.—A forthcoming distribution of lard and canned meat imported from the United States is hailed as a token of improved conditions in Paris as regards food. Fuel, however, continues scarce. The improvement is gradual because of transportation difficulties. It was possible this month, however, to treble the former meat ration and to give each consumer 24 pounds of potatoes instead of eight. There is still a shortage of fats and each Parisian was allowed 5.29 ounces of butter and 3.5 ounces of margarine this month. Fruits and vegetables are no longer rationed and hopes are held that this may soon be true of bread.

NAZI TERROR SURVIVORS FORM BELGIAN SOCIETY

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

BRUSSELS, Oct. 29.—In an old music hall off one of the main squares of Brussels, there met today a group of men who had shared the terrible experience of imprisonment at Breendonk, the worst concentration camp in Belgium, on the outskirts of the capital. The group of about 300 met to form a society.

These survivors will look after the families of those who were shot or died in prison, also children who have suffered because their parents were imprisoned at Breendonk.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Britain's home guard army, it was officially announced today, may be temporarily dissolved Nov. 1 pending its final disbandment later. Strength of the home guard civilian army at the end of August was given as 1,184 battalions with a total membership of 701,208, of which 142,208 were engaged in anti-aircraft duties. Woman auxiliaries numbered 31,834.

Farewell parades will be held throut the country Dec. 3, clarifying the confusion which arose from cancellation of the parades which had been scheduled for last Sunday. They were called off at the last moment on orders from the war department, which, in recognition of the home guards' contribution to the war, will allow the members to retain their weapons and kits until the end of December.

The king has approved the issue to every member of certificates "in recognition of the debt which the government, the army and the nation owe for the devoted services given during the past four and one-half years." He also approved a grant of honorary rank to all home guard officers.

Four Yank Sergeants Promoted in the Field

WITH THE BRITISH 2D ARMY, Oct. 29 (AP).—Lt. Gen. Richard N. O'Connor of the British 2d army pinned gold bars on four newly commissioned American lieutenants who were elevated in the field from staff sergeants. The Americans are serving with forces attached to the 2d army. Two of the new officers are Harold Charles Biancat of Port Huron, Mich., and Robert Lee Rummer of Custer, Mich.

POLES CAPTURE ITALIAN TOWN OF IL DUCE'S YOUTH

Battlefront Swept by Wind and Rain.

ROME, Oct. 29 (AP). — Predappio, close to the hilltop hamlet of Verano do Costa where Benito Mussolini was born, has been occupied by Polish troops of the 8th army, allied headquarters announced today as a cold wind and rain swept across the entire northern Italian battlefront.

In entering Predappio, which is six miles south of Forli, an important junction on the lateral Bologna-Rimini highway, the Poles fought over soil which the followers of Mussolini had invested with a sort of Fascist reverence.

Once a Tourist Center.

The entire area abounds with modern Fascist monuments and Predappio was at one time the center of a flourishing tourist trade coming from Bologna and Rimini for a look at the humble birthplace of Il Duce.

North of Predappio the Germans still were entrenched on the approaches of Forli.

On the American 5th army front south of Bologna the Germans increased their artillery fire and forced the doughboys to withdraw from advanced positions on Mount Mezzano. But the Americans consolidated their holdings on other parts of the peak.

Patrol in Mud and Rain.

British and American troops moving toward Imola and Castel San Pietro, Bologna-Rimini highway points southeast of Bologna, confined their operations to patrols in the mud and rain.

The entire Adriatic front was a sea of mud and the most advanced elements of the British 8th army were so isolated by swollen streams and swamps that they were being supplied by rope bridges, rowboats and amphibious craft. British troops astride the eastern end of the modern highway between Bologna and Rimini were unable to use the road as stretches of it were inundated.

Hear Nazis Offer to Trade King Leopold for Hess

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Oct. 29 (AP).—The newspaper Aftonbladet said today that it was rumored in Berlin political circles that the German government had offered thru a neutral power to free King Leopold of Belgium in exchange for Rudolf Hess. Hess, No. 2 Nazi who parachuted into Britain in 1941, is a prisoner of Britain.

SECOND PARIS EDITOR GOES TO TRIAL TODAY WITH LIFE AT STAKE

PARIS, France, Oct. 29 (AP).—Stephane Lauzanne, editor of the Paris newspaper Le Matin, will go to trial tomorrow on charges of intelligence with the enemy. If convicted, he will face a maximum penalty of death. The principal evidence against Lauzanne is expected to be clippings of his editorials and recordings of his radio speeches during the German occupation of France. The state charges he consorted with the Germans, defended the Nazi cause, and attacked the allies. Georges Suarez, former editor of Aujourdhui, has been sentenced to death on a similar charge.

Resume Robot Bombing After 80 Hour Respite

LONDON, Oct. 29 (AP).—After an 80 hour respite, German flying bombs early today plummeted down on southern England, including the London area. Damage and casualties were reported. Several bombs were shot down by a heavy barrage.

LEFTISTS DROP ANTI-FRANCO DRIVE IN FRANCE

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 29.—The communist and leftist press in Paris seemingly has dropped the campaign for full French government support for the United Spanish Partisans in their avowed aim to overthrow Generalissimo Francisco Franco. The campaign, which depicted Franco as a great menace to France, undoubtedly is embarrassing to Prime Minister Churchill—who recently gave eulogy to Franco's aid in the war—and President Roosevelt, who has Communists supporting him in the elections. Authorized sources yesterday admitted that the situation in Spain was embarrassing the De Gaulle government.

Relations on Friendly Basis.

These sources are pointing out how the government, torn between diplomatic obligations to the Spanish government and moral obligations to the Spanish republicans, who played a prominent part in the Maquis [Patriot] resistance against Germany, had managed to solve the problem.

The French government could not allow France to be a base of military action against a friendly government. Relations with Franco, it was pointed out, were friendly, for altho the countries had not exchanged ambassadors they had exchanged missions and consulates and Franco had released 30,000 French refugees who had escaped over the border when the Germans occupied France. These refugees, many of them soldiers, went to Algiers and were incorporated into the French army.

Frontier Zone Cleared.

It was stated in authoritative quarters that France therefore was required to prevent the anti-Francoists from using France as base of operations. To prevent frontier incidents the French government has cleared the frontier of all Spanish revolutionists from Hendaye to Perpignan to a depth of about 12 miles. The French Forces of the Interior were busy enforcing this measure. As for the score or so of Spanish consulates that the Spanish Republicans had seized near the border, the F. F. I. was trying to free these.

France, however, cannot forget its debt to the Spanish republicans who had played such heroic roles in the resistance movement during the German occupation.

NELSON, HURLEY TRIP LINKED TO STILWELL SHIFT

3 Interpretations Given to Move.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29 (AP).—Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's recall climaxes a United States-China disagreement so far reaching that it shook the whole coöperative structure in eastern Asia, it was learned tonight.

Questions as to its final significance are as broad as the spread among these interpretations:

1. An anonymous Chinese official's picture of the shift as representing unqualified victory for Chiang Kai-shek on a demand that the general be removed.

2. A disposition in equally anonymous American quarters to rate the saving of the generalissimo's "face" as the main factor in the actual removal of Gen. Stilwell, with American contentions generally prevailing and the authority of the command in the area cut down to emphasize demands for fuller Chinese coöperation.

3. Continuing talk that Gen. Stilwell may go back to China as Gen. MacArthur has gone back to the Philippines—at the head of invading American forces.

"Face Saving" Explained.

The suggestion was offered here that Chiang, having learned of the United States' intentions, may have "saved face" by demanding the recall, or that the United States, having determined upon the action, went thru with it to the accompaniment of his demands.

So far as is known, the United States has not informed Chiang that it entertains any complaints he may have made against Gen. Stilwell.

In view of developments since yesterday's announcement that Gen. Stilwell had been withdrawn from the far east theater, the mission of Donald M. Nelson and Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley to Chungking two months ago assumes new significance. It now seems probable that the two men, acting by direction of President Roosevelt, went to China to express American alarm over the general situation and to seek assurances from Chiang.

Reds Reported Equipped.

Dispatches from China within recent weeks, clearing thru overseas censors, have described difficulties within Chiang's armies and referred to the failure of his government to reach an understanding with the Communists in north China. Those communist forces are reported to be armed and equipped to take the field. There have been broad indications that Chiang's internal position is none too secure.

The only official explanation here for Gen. Stilwell's recall is in the White House and war department announcements that he was returning because the China-Burma-India theater had been divided into two smaller theaters and that he would be given a new and important assignment.

This announcement led to speculation that Gen. Stilwell's new assignment might be in the Pacific theater in view of his long experience in Asia. Headquarters said his former command would continue to aid China.

Move Felt in India.

NEW DELHI, India, Oct. 29 (AP).—Withdrawal of Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell from command of the China-Burma-India theater appeared here today to have pulled the props from under American activity in this area. Stilwell has been a dynamic personality with a double job of great difficulty.

He had first to divert all possible British and Indian support to his main job of supplying China, and influence the Chinese to use supplies most effectively against the Japanese.

There was immediate speculation, especially among Indians, that Gen. Stilwell had been withdrawn under British pressure, but some observers were confident such a surmise was unfounded.

See Mountbatten Shakeup.

LONDON, Oct. 30 [Monday]—(AP).—A shakeup in the southeast Asia command of Adm. Louis Mountbatten was predicted here today following the recall of Gen. Stilwell. Two newspapers this morning said there would be a general reshuffle. "The changes, expected to be announced this week, are a direct outcome of the Quebec conference, and they will reflect decisions taken there to intensify the war on Japan," the Daily Mail said.

Guerrillas Seize Greek Town

GREEKS SEIZE TOWN 46 MILES FROM SALONIKA

Nazis Report Allied Landing on Melos.

ATHENS, Oct. 29 (AP). — Greek guerrillas have seized the town of Platamon, 46 miles southwest of the flaming port of Salonika and at the foot of the natural barrier formed by Mount Olympus, patriot headquarters announced today.

Platamon lies north of Tempe pass between Mount Olympus and Mount Ossa on the south, where for four days in 1941 valiant British rearguards held back the German tide sweeping over northern Greece.

[The German radio said allied troops under cover of the guns of British warships and warplanes had landed on the Greek island of Melos, 70 miles north of Crete, and on the staging route for German evacuation movements from remaining Aegean islands. Berlin said its garrison "is engaged in bitter fighting."]

Smoke Shrouds Salonika.

Pillars of smoke towered over Salonika, pilots reported, as the Germans speeded demolitions before abandoning the port ahead of the onrushing British and Greek patriots.

At Kozane, 58 miles southwest of Salonika and only 40 miles from the Yugoslav border where the British had bypassed Olympus and caught up with the German retreat for the first time since the liberation of Athens, there was continued fighting.

Many enemy guns and mortars defending the area were silenced by British artillery.

Nazis Lose 12 Guns.

Every indications was that the Germans were hauling out of Greece as quickly as they came in 1941. Their retreat was under constant attack by guerrillas who were ranging thru the mountains and along the roads of northern Greece.

Headquarters announced that in the capture of Platamon, which was yielded by the enemy after seven hours of fighting, the Germans lost 12 guns and suffered casualties.

Guerrillas, striking at the German columns, were reported to have blown up two railway trains heading toward Salonika.

There were unofficial reports that guerrillas were battling the Germans in the streets of Salonika itself.

So intense have been aerial and guerrilla attacks on German transport that many enemy troops who rode into Greece in triumph are having to slog out on foot toward Yugoslavia, where Marshal Tito's army and the Russians lie in wait.

ROBBED BY YOUNG GUNMEN.

Two 17 year old gunmen riding in an automobile early yesterday stopped Thomas Bonnen, 1610 E. 83d st., at 81st st. and Stony Island av., and robbed him of $26, Bonnen told the police.

REVEAL TERMS OF ARMISTICE WITH BULGARIA

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29 (AP).—The United States, Great Britain, and Russia today published the armistice terms made with Bulgaria, disclosing that the defeated enemy has promised full aid in prosecuting the war against Germany.

The terms also provided that Bulgaria relinquish all claims to Greek and Yugoslav territory which the Bulgars had sought to annex as long as they fought at Germany's side.

No specific reparations were required altho it was stated that Bulgaria must either restore all property taken from the allies and their nationals, including Greece and Yugoslavia, or else must pay for the losses caused.

The terms parallel those imposed on Romania in September except that a specific reparation charge of $300,000,000 was fixed against Romania by Russia and Russia alone signed the Romanian armistice in the name of all the allies.

Recognize British Interest.

The Bulgarian armistice is signed not only by Marshal Feodor I. Tolbukhin, as representative of the soviet high command but also by Lt. Gen. J. A. H. Gammell, for the supreme allied commander in the Mediterranean.

This double signature was a means of recognizing the primary British as well as soviet interest in Bulgaria and also the fact that while Bulgaria had long been at war with Britain and the United States and other allied nations, Russia declared war on the country only at the last moment.

The formulation of the Bulgarian armistice apparently was completely under the sponsorship of Marshal Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill, who discussed the terms, particularly the double signature, at their recent Moscow conference.

Reds Sought Position.

The terms previously had been drafted by the European advisory commission after Russia's sudden and unexpected declaration of war on Bulgaria had forced the drafting onto a three-power rather than a two-power basis. In other words, it can now be reported, the main reason for Russia's declaration of war against Bulgaria was her desire to give herself equality with Britain in dictating this armistice.

One direct result is that the armistice specifies that the territory shall be under the soviet high command for military purposes altho the actual enforcement of armistice terms is vested in an allied control commission to be created.

The Bulgars' agreement to assist the war against Germany includes making available land, sea, and air forces to the allies and aiding the movement of allied forces thru the country. The allied command takes over all ships in Bulgarian ports and the operation of all Bulgarian vessels away from their home ports.

Prisoners Released.

It also is specified that all allied prisoners of war and civilian internees must be released and in a protocol attached to the main terms, it is stated that the Bulgarian government will immediately make available food supplies for the relief of the population of Greek and Yugoslav territories "which have suffered as a result of Bulgarian aggression."

The armistice contains 19 articles which are in the main military in intent and effect. Among the political requirements imposed on the defeated enemy, however, were the provisions that she should dissolve all pro-Hitler or other Fascist organizations and should release from jail all persons held because of allied sympathies "or for racial or religious reasons."

CORRESPONDENT ACE BUSH BURIED NEAR TACLOBAN

MacARTHUR'S HDQ., Philippines, Oct. 25 [Delayed] — (AP). — Asahel [Ace] Bush, Associated Press war correspondent, who was killed today in Tacloban by a Japanese bomb, was buried this morning in the army cemetery near Tacloban beside other Americans who lost their lives in the fight for Leyte. As the chaplain, Lt. Col. Leslie Bryant, of Kenton, Tenn., was completing the service the crack of anti-aircraft batteries signaled the appearance of another Japanese raider.

Brig. Gen. Carlos Romulo represented the Philippine president, Sergio Osmena, and Col. Lloyd Lehrbas represented Gen. MacArthur at the service, which was attended by British, Australian, and American war correspondents.

The bomb also wounded Correspondents Stanly Gunn, Fort Worth Star Telegram representative; John Terry, Chicago Daily News, who was knocked temporarily unconscious, and Clete Roberts, Blue network reporter. Bush was the first correspondent to lose his life in the Philippines.

U. S. FIRE POWER OUTRANKS ALL, GENERAL SAYS

Superior in All Weapons Sayler Asserts.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SUPREME HDQ. ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Paris, Oct. 29.—The average soldier on the invasion front is supplied with 1,500 pounds of initial ordnance and it requires 35 pounds a week for each man to keep him fighting and well supplied, Maj. Gen. Henry B. Sayler, chief of ordnance service in the European theater of operations, said today. United States troops, he added, now are provided with the greatest fire power in the history of warfare.

"I can honestly and definitely say we have superior weapons—more powerful, more accurate, and can hurl projectiles at greater range than the Germans can with any comparable pieces they must use against us—and these weapons eventually will bring our enemy to unconditional surrender," Sayler said.

Sayler described three new guns, a 240 mm. howitzer, the largest weapon in use in the European theater and popularly known as the "big slugger"; an 8 inch howitzer, and an 8 inch gun, as well as other new weapons, including the M-18 and the M-36 tank destroyers.

M-18 Speedy Mud Crawler.

The M-18, equipped with a high velocity 76 mm. gun, is a speedy mud crawler that has proved deadly to German tanks. The M-36 mounts the well known 90 mm. gun and is the mainstay of the United States heavy anti-aircraft artillery.

The 240 mm. howitzer weighs approximately 35,000 pounds and fires a projectile weighing 350 pounds more than 13,000 yards with pinpoint accuracy. The 8 inch gun has a still longer range with the same degree of accuracy. It fires a lighter shell, weighing 240 pounds. The 8 inch howitzer weighs 40,000 pounds and fires a 200 pound shell.

At St. Malo the 8 inch howitzer laid direct fire at 2,000 yards while two of these moved a hundred miles to new positions at Brest in five days, setting a new record for mobility. The carriages now move heavy guns with a speed approaching that of light artillery.

Use 105s in Cannon Companies.

United States ordnance also has produced outstanding hand weapons, chief among which is the M-1 [Garand], the .30 caliber light and heavy machine guns. The .50 caliber machine gun, the 60 and 81 mm. mortars, and the 57 anti-tank gun. The 105 mm. howitzer is the backbone of our field artillery.

The infantry is using this gun in cannon companies. Three million rounds of 105 mm. shells already have been hurled at the enemy on the continent.

The bazooka has been a very effective anti-tank weapon, Sayler said, and costs less than $25—cheapest of all the weapons.

"Everything that rolls, shoots, is shot or drops from the air is an ordnance responsibility," Sayler said, and there are more than 350,000 different items in the ordnance catalogue being constantly supplied to the front.

Orddance also is making the greatest use of materials captured from the enemy. By servicing and reissuing material picked up along the battle fronts ordnance is saving approximately $1,000,000 a week, the Huntington, Ind., general said.

There are more than 400,000 vehicles operated in this theater by United States forces. The Red Ball highway stretching 700 miles from the beaches has service stations scattered every 75 miles along the route. Tire replacements on 2½ ton trucks alone now average 100,000 a month.

SEN. BALL GIVES HIS BLESSING TO LUCAS CAMPAIGN

Crisis Precipitated by De Gaulle Ruling.

PARIS, Oct. 29 (AP).—The De Gaulle government precipitated a first-class crisis today with a decree disarming all save the regular army and the police—a far-reaching order directed at Communist partisan elements who have defied its authority, particularly in south France.

Hardly had the ink dried on the decree than the National Resistance council—brains of the French underground under German occupation—challenged the decree in an extraordinary session at which it declared the Patriotic Milice [militia]—an anti-Vichy guerrilla organization which is largely Communistic—"should be given a definite legal status."

Its firm stand was a potent challenge to the De Gaulle government, since the council kept the resistance spirit aflame during the black days under the German boot and enjoys widespread influence thruout France.

Reds Attack Order.

The Communist press joined in the attack on the order, which directs all but members of the army and police to surrender arms or appear for military training preparatory to entering the regular French army.

The interior ministry, announcing the step, declared the presence of armed bands belonging neither to the police nor the army had created "uneasiness and uncertainty," especially among the rural population.

This position was disputed by the newspaper Franc Tireur.

"Why disarm the people?" asked the newspaper, citing what it said were instances when the "patriotic militia" had prevented fifth column sabotage while the regular police were powerless or absent.

With the decree Gen. Charles de Gaulle took the first step toward assuring the "order" he promised in a press conference last Wednesday, as well as challenging the communistic groups which in the south around Marseille and Toulouse have ignored the central authority.

Challenges Communists.

The decree lauded the work during liberation by non-regulars, Franc Tireurs, and similar organizations, but declared "the period of insurrection is over."

The order presumably will not affect members of the French Forces of the Interior, which at least theoretically have been integrated into the regular army. Since the communistic Franc Tireur partisans are part of the F. F. I., they would retain their arms if submitting to the same discipline.

The communist newspaper Humanite termed the government's decision "a strange communique" and asserted that adherents of former Chief of Staff Laval and former Security Chief Joseph Darnand were committing daily acts of terrorism in southern France.

It was against these pro-German elements that the energies of the armed bands are directed, the newspaper maintained.

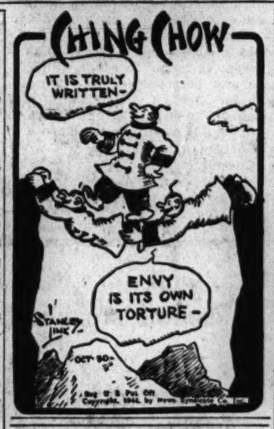
CHING CHOW



NEWS FREEDOM HELD KEYSTONE OF WORLD PEACE

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 29 (AP).—Kent Cooper, executive director and general manager of the Associated Press, said today world peace could be assured "only after governments permit people of each nation really to know the peoples of other nations thru the medium of unrestricted exchange of news."

"There will be wars as long as people misunderstand one another," Cooper said in a radio program.

Pointing to the way people live in small communities, he said the unrestricted exchange of news would lead to a similar "principle of community understanding" between nations.

"When that happens, we will need neither military pact nor military power to preserve friendly relations in international society," he said.

Cooper said that until recently the world news, with the exception of that gathered and printed in this country, "was controled by owners of a vast European monopoly."

"The allies in the World war thought they could rule the situation by controling the type of news the Germans and the people in the small border states surrounding Germany read after the war, but it worked in just the opposite way," he added.

REPORT ARREST OF 1-DAY LEADER OF ARGENTINA

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 29 (AP).—Gen. Arturo Rawson, president of the Argentine provisional government for one day following the revolution in 1943, is under arrest, a member of his household said tonight. The informant said Rawson, who also had served as ambassador to Brazil, was placed under detention by the commander of the 1st division. Thus far, there has been no public announcement of the action.

Less than two months ago Rawson was assigned to the garrison at Salta, in the far north, and at the time of his arrival there told newsmen he would return to Buenos Aires when it pleased the national government.

Several weeks ago the Salta newspaper La Provincia published an interview quoting Rawson as saying Argentina ought not to try to exercise supremacy in Latin American affairs and urging coöperation for continental defense. He denied the remarks attributed to him and the newspaper was suspended for three days.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Election officials decided yesterday to print on supplemental voters' registration lists the names of the persons who have applied for absentee ballots in each individual precinct. Mrs. Mabel Reinecke, Republican member of the city board, said it is hoped thereby to avoid confusion, controversy, and delay when the soldiers' and sailors' votes are opened at 5 p. m. Nov. 7.

She said the absentee vote this year amounts to approximately 30 votes to a precinct—enough to swing the election of city and county officers in most contests. Some of the soldiers have been away from their homes for four years, she pointed out, and may not be known to the precinct judges and clerks of their home polling place.

Given Time to Find Out.

If the judges and clerks have the names, Mrs. Reinecke said, they will have time to ascertain, in most instances, which, if any, of the voters have died. If a ballot arrives at the polling place in the name of a dead soldier it will not be counted, she said.

The supplemental lists, which are required by law to be printed, will be given the printers after the revisions are completed late Tuesday. On them, this time, Mrs. Reinecke said, will be listed the civilians as well as the service men and women who have applied for ballots up to Oct. 31. Applications between Oct. 31 and Nov. 4 will be received, she pointed out, but the names will not be on the lists.

Expected to Erase 2,000.

It is expected that 2,000 names will be erased from the city poll lists by tomorrow night, mainly as a result of the canvass by workers for the Business Men's committee. This organization and the Joint Committee on Elections are coöperating to insure a reasonably honest election, and both will conduct classes of instruction for their watchers all this week.

Mrs. Reinecke and Commissioner William B. Daly said a ruling will probably be made today regarding the 226 students of the Moody Bible institute, 153 Institute pl., whose right to vote was challenged by the 42d ward Kelly Democratic organization. The Democrats filed suspect complaints against the future missionaries on technical grounds and Mrs. Reinecke—interviews had shown the students intended to vote for Dewey for President.

Yesterday the tables were turned on Atty. Richard H. Devine, who appeared before the election board in behalf of the Democratic organization and against the Bible students. Devine was accused of being fraudulently registered in the 42d ward.

One of the pricipal charges made against the students is that their homes are really elsewhere than the dormitories in which they are living while attending school here. They should vote from the place of their former domiciles, Devine argued.

"Devine is registered as living in the Allerton hotel, 701 N. Michigan av.," said Paul Randolph, secretary of the 42d ward Republican organization and candidate for the legislature. "The current telephone book lists his office as 10 S. La Salle st., and his residence at 531 Oakdale av., which is in the 44th ward. His vote will be challenged on Nov. 7."

Child Dies of Injuries After Fall from Window

Gary Graziano, 4, of 4815 Walton st., died yesterday in St. Anne's hospital from injuries suffered when he fell from the third floor window of a neighbor's apartment at 4805 Walton st. Saturday.

HONOR LYONS TODAY AND CITE REASONS FOR SUPPORTING HIM

Reasons why the election of Richard J. Lyons as United States senator is important to Illinois and to Gov. Dewey, Republican Presidential nominee, will be emphasized at a luncheon today honoring Lyons, who for years has been one of the most prominent Republicans in the state.

The luncheon will be held in the grand ballroom of the La Salle hotel. At least 700 will attend, with overflow attendance assured.

Speakers will be Gov. Green, Sen. Brooks, and former Gov. McKelvie of Nebraska, manager of Republican western headquarters here. Sheldon Clark Jr., chairman of the Republican Citizens' committee, will preside.

PRAISE KELLY'S JOB OF PACKING FIELD FOR F. D. R.

Mayor Kelly and his county ticket held a post-mortem yesterday over President Roosevelt's Saturday night appearance at Soldiers' field. When it ended, the mayor and the President had shared equally in the praise distributed in William J. Connors' 42d ward Democratic headquarters at 945 N. State st.

"I'll let you in on a secret," Kelly said. "The President looks good. He is the livest damn corpse I've ever seen. The President's health isn't an issue in this campaign. Four years ago they said he couldn't live thru another term, but the Republican candidates, Willkie and McNary, are both dead. That proves we don't have any 'patronage' over the life of man."

"Here We Are Again."

When Mr. Roosevelt arrived in Chicago, he said to Kelly: "Well, Ed, here we are again. Let's give them a final punch."

The 42d ward Democrats also were told not to worry about the One Thousand club supporting the fourth term candidacy. Its members contribute $1,000 to Roosevelt campaign funds and get special entree into the White House.

"You know there are no $1,000 men for Roosevelt," Kelly said. "The supporters of Roosevelt are people like you and me, who are not in this game for the money."

Mayor Gets Plaudits.

Then the county candidates one by one gave the mayor complete credit for the overflow crowd at Soldiers' field. "If it hadn't been for Mayor Kelly's untiring efforts, Soldiers' field would not have been filled," said Recorder Edward J. Kaindl.

Municipal Judge Gutknecht, proclaiming himself an expert on crowds, compared the Roosevelt rally with meetings he saw on a trip to Moscow. "There were good meetings in the Kremlin, too," Gutknecht said, "but last night was the greatest assemblage of free, uncoerced people in the history of America. Under the leadership of our mayor we have written a page in history that will never be obliterated."

STALIN TELLS AERIAL PARLEY 'COUNT ME OUT'

Finds 'Fascist' Nations Also Invited Here.

BY FRANK HUGHES.

On the eve of the international civil aviation conference here, the Moscow radio, according to an Associated Press dispatch from London, announced last night that Russia will not participate in the meetings which are designed to lay the groundwork for a permanent accord between nations on post-war world aviation.

The Soviet radio said that Russia was withdrawing from the conference because "countries like Switzerland, Portugal, and Spain, which for many years have conducted a pro-fascist policy hostile to the soviet union, have also been invited."

Stalin's Anger Known.

It has been known since last Saturday that Premier Stalin was angered because the three neutrals were invited by the American state department without his approval or knowledge. Invitations were sent out to 55 foreign countries. Washington sources, which had no official information, said their guess was that the invitation to Spain caused Stalin's greatest pique.

Altho several government officials were reported to be in Chicago last night, making last minute arrangements for the 25 day meeting at the Stevens hotel, none of them could be reached for comment on the report of the Russian decision.

In unofficials quarters it was said that a Russian decision to withdraw would be a severe blow to the prestige and authority of the aviation conference which aims to do the same thing for world air transport that the Bretton Woods conference did for international finance and the Dumbarton Oaks sessions did for international government.

Personnel Announced.

Meanwhile, two other foreign nations announced the personnel of their delegations. The Netherlands information bureau said that Dr. M. P. L. Steenberghe, head of the Netherlands economic, financial, and shipping mission to the United States, would be chairman of his country's delegation, and the Peruvian consulate general at New Orleans announced that Senor Federico Elguera, now stationed there, would come to Chicago as consul general, at the same time representing his government at the aviation conference.

Observers in Chicago said yesterday that two propositions which may hold the seeds of a future world war will come before the conference, which opens Wednesday. They are:

1. The subordination of civil aviation to military aviation which has existed in Europe since men began to fly.

2. The previously announced determination of the "big three" in world aviation—the United States, Great Britain, and Russia—to keep German, Japanese, and Italian aircraft and airmen off the post-war international air routes and to bar those countries from any air covenant.

Armament Race Seen.

Some of the men who want to fly the peace time skies for profit maintain that continued domination of civil aviation by the military thruout the world can only lead to an aerial armament race and will interfere, as it did in the past, with commercial development. The only answer seems to be, they say, to win Europe over to America's pre-war policy of complete separation of the two—a difficult feat.

Nobody wants to give Germany or Japan any strength in the air, ever again. But some of the conference onlookers are wondering whether it is wise to exclude them forever from the covenant which is designed to control the world's commercial airways.

Germany was barred from commercial aviation by the Paris air conference of 1919 after the World war, but the Nazis beat their way out of that pocket and started off on another World war. They were helped by the flagging vigilance and outright coöperation of the nations which were supposed to be policing Germany. Nobody wants that to happen again, either.

Host Committee Named.

Gov. Green yesterday announced appointment of a group of Chicago and downstate Illinois business and aviation leaders to serve as a host committee for the air conference.

"It is appropriate that the international air conference should be held in Chicago," Green said, "inasmuch as this great city is now the hub of American air travel and in the post-war era of aviation is destined to become the center of world air transportation."

GROVE'S COLD TABLETS

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Janet Virginia Lee, 91 Sheridan sq., Evanston.]

THE QUESTION.

WHERE ASKED.

Lake Shore club, 850 Lake Shore dr.

THE ANSWERS.

Lillian Wilson, student, 1443 W. 103d st.—Right now I like cherry pie with chocolate ice cream. Before the war my favorite was banana split with a scoop of toffey, and one of tutti-frutti, chocolate sauce on the tutti-frutti and marshmallow on the chocolate ice cream, with a touch of whipped cream and nuts.

Barbara Fisher, student, 5630 Kenmore av.—Usually every night after school a bunch of us gather in our favorite spot and eat sundaes. Some of the girls are a bit drastic in their soda fountain desires but I've always been partial to a plain hot fudge sundae with vanilla ice cream and chocolate sauce. It's a perfect afternoon treat.

Judy Jester, student, 5234 Wayne av.—Two dips of chocolate ice cream and hot fudge in a separate little pitcher is tops with me. I like the chocolate in a special container so it stays hot and melts the ice cream just a little when you pour it on. With this I like a piece of chocolate cake, and a dip of vanilla ice cream on top.

Shirley Swank, 5426 Lakewood av.—I've always liked chocolate and vanilla ice cream with butterscotch sirup topped with a lot of whipped cream and pecan nuts and a cherry. I'm trying to develope a taste for chocolate cokes now because sundaes spoil my appetite before dinner. I expect to switch over soon.

Pat Jonas, student, 5963 Kenmore av.—Two large bananas with lemon, strawberry and chocolate ice cream, chocolate sirup, butterscotch sauce and whipped cream, topped with pecans and cherries is a dream. You have to have a ravenous appetite to eat one, but every Thursday night when I finish swimming I feel like eating two.

WIDOW RECEIVES DECORATION FOR LT. COL. BOYNTON

A distinguished flying cross and the Legion of Merit awarded to Lt. Col. Melbourne W. Boynton, who was killed near Dayton, O., Aug. 19 in a 42,000 foot experimental free fall parachute jump, were presented yesterday to his widow, Mrs. Mary Boynton, in her home at 7259 Bennett av.

Col. Boynton's plunge was the result of a blackout which left him helpless to pull the rip cord of the chute, the army said. The awards were presented to Mrs. Boynton by Col. George Price, director of flying safety at Winston-Salem, N. C. The Legion of Merit was in recognition of the six days Col. Boynton spent at sea to test improvements in an air force life raft. He spent the first four days without food or water.

Col. Boynton, chief resident physician at Chicago Lying-in hospital and an instructor in obstetrics and gynecology at the University of Chicago, was the son of the late Rev. Melbourne P. Boynton. He also is survived by a daughter, Mary Ann.

MAYOR WANTS AN AIRPORT EVEN WITH G.O.P. CASH

Laying aside political considerations of a red hot Presidential campaign for a few moments yesterday—by request—Mayor Kelly projected some thoughts about Chicago's post-war air terminal. The mayor insisted, however, that the topic be "taken out of politics," the same formula Gov. Dewey has been applying to international relations.

The mayor said he has "no pride of authorship" in any plan for creating a great international airport in Chicago after the war, but that he isn't averse to getting money for such a project anywhere it can be found, including the state treasury, to which Republicans have the key.

"If the state wants to sit down and work out a plan with us," Mayor Kelly said, "I'm sure that something can be done. They have the money, and we haven't."

Green Gives Broad Plan.

Gov. Green has announced a broad plan for expanding the state's airports, and has pledged that the work of making Illinois a world aviation center shall not be hampered by "any want of energy, planning, and funds." The Chicago Association of Commerce announced Wednesday that it favors state aid for airports similar to that now allocated to highways.

Chicago is prepared right now, the mayor said, to put aircraft aloft on the European run from the city's Municipal airport. It can be done, he said, from existing runways, considering possible stops on the Canadian, Newfoundland, or Labrador coasts for refueling.

He discounted the need for great expansion of runways in the period immediately following the war. He added, however, that Chicago doesn't plan to route its European air traffic thru New York City, where Mayor La Guardia is building a 100 million dollar transoceanic airport, with 8,000 and 10,000 foot runways.

No Bonanza Expected.

Chicago can take money from the corporate fund for airport maintenance and can issue bonds for new construction, he said, but the city wants to "keep down" expenses and bond issues. The supposition is that aircraft and airline landing fees make municipal airports self-liquidating, but the mayor indicated he doesn't expect any sudden bonanza from that source to finance a new airport.

The mayor said his plan for Chicago's future air terminal is the plan of the city's post-war economic advisory council. That body issued a report last March which gave these conclusions:

1. Chicago should have a single domestic and transoceanic airport for all airlines to cut down transfer problems.

2. The area should be about 2,300 acres, with 12 runways 7,500 feet long and one 10,000 feet long, capable of handling 240 plane movements and 3,000 passengers an hour.

3. A big lake front airport is inadvisable because it "requires extensive construction costs and lacks ready access facilities needed for a commercial airport."

4. Assigning reasonable weight to the several factors, a comparison of available sites leads to the conclusion that the Lake Calumet site offers the most promising possibilities, while the Clearing site and the Douglas site are next in relative merit."

Sites Are Described.

[The Lake Calumet site is on the bed of that lake, at about 119th st. and Stony Island av.; the Clearing site in the Clearing industrial district, 5000 to 7000 west at about 79th st., and the Douglas site at the Douglas aircraft factory near Park Ridge, 22½ miles northwest of the loop.]

5. While the studies of the council led to certain conclusions, "it is not the primary purpose to make a determination of the airport problem or to evolve a specific design for an airport."

In other words, nobody is going to start breaking ground tomorrow on a new air terminal for Chicago's overseas traffic.

DEWEY WIDENS HIS LEAD IN N. Y. STRAW VOTING

New York, Oct. 29 [Special]. — Dewey today halted President Roosevelt's three day spurt in the New York Daily News presidential poll of New York state and increased his lead. Tabulation of 50,666 straws—about 12,200 more will be counted before a repoll starts Thursday—added 253 ballots to Dewey's margin.

Dewey's showing today was a surprise because the ballots included the industrial city of Syracuse, the O'Connell brothers' Democratic bailiwick of Albany, and a strong pro-Roosevelt section in New York City.

PUSHED AROUND, F. D. R. ENGINEER TO SWITCH VOTE

Max Adams, 60, of 1229 Home av., Berwyn, the engineer who switched President Roosevelt's train in and out of Chicago, said yesterday he will vote for Gov. Dewey.

On Saturday Adams went to work at 7:30 a. m., had a sandwich at 11 a. m., and became very hungry by 8 p. m. Unable to leave his train, Adams appealed to the steward of the Presidential dining cars for a cup of coffee, but the steward replied he was "too busy" to serve civilians.

"And I've been giving coffee money to the likes of him since Roosevelt was elected the first time," said Adams. The hungry engineer dined at 11:30 p. m.—after Mr. Roosevelt departed, and he finished his 16 hour day.

Corn

Every time October rolls around, we are reminded of that eventful day in October, 1492, when that intrepid soul, Christopher Columbus, discovered, not a new route to the priceless gems and spices of India, but an entirely new continent. And it was in this same month, in this same year, that Columbus sent part of his crew to explore the Island of Cuba.

When Columbus returned to Spain with the report of his discovery of a New World, he brought with him also a report on a new grain which his Cuban exploring party had found the "Indians" using as a piece de resistance in their daily diet. The "Indians" called it "maize." The exploring party reported that this grain was tasty; that it could be made into flour and could be baked. Little did the Old World know it at the time, but the discovery of maize (corn) was destined to eventually prove more valuable indeed than all the riches of the rare spices and jewels of the Indies.

In America, in our own United States, corn is the backbone of our agriculture. Actually, three out of every four of our farms grow corn. We have about 6,000,000 farms and corn is raised on 4,500,000 of them. Approximately 600,000,000 bushels were actually sold and shipped each year during the last six years. The cash income from the growing of corn reached $591,000,000 in 1942 and was more than that in 1943. The United States harvests more than one-half of the entire world's crop of corn, and since this grain requires rich land for successful growing, it makes us pardonably proud of the richness of our American soil.

In peacetime, among its other uses, corn makes excellent native American—bourbon whiskies. Today it is not used in making luxury products. There are more important uses for it. Luxuries can be made later on. Another way of saying again—first things come first.

DEWEY IS READY FOR WHIRLWIND CLOSING DRIVE

Opens Final Week with Address Tomorrow.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 29.—Gov. Dewey, entering the final week of his campaign for President, will be occupied tomorrow with his duties as chief executive of New York state. The legislature will meet in special session here tomorrow to extend the polling hours from 7 to 9 p. m., as was done in the last two previous Presidential elections.

On Tuesday, Dewey will close his upstate campaign with a short talk at Rochester to be followed by a major address for a nation-wide broadcast at Buffalo, N. Y., at 8 o'clock Chicago time. On Wednesday night, he will broadcast from Boston, Mass.

En route to Boston, Dewey will make three platform appearances in Massachusetts at Pittsfield, Springfield, and Worcester.

The windup will be a rally in Madison Square Garden, New York City, on Saturday night. On Monday night, the night before election, he will address the nation from a radio station.

He will vote the next day in New York City.

F. D. R. SERMON

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29.—President Roosevelt was back in the White House tonight, reportedly highly satisfied with the results of a three day campaign tour thru eight states with 236 electoral votes, which was climaxed by a major political speech Saturday night at a huge rally in Soldier field, Chicago.

No definite plans have been announced for further vote seeking expeditions this week other than a trip to Boston next Saturday. Members of the President's staff said he was being urged to speak in Cleveland and Detroit before the New England visit but no decision has been reached.

The President's special train made only one speech making stop today on the return trip from Chicago. Mr. Roosevelt appeared on the rear platform at Clarksburg, W. Va., and delivered a "Sunday sermon" on tree conservation to a crowd of about 8,000.

He discoursed for 15 minutes in the vein of a genial old gentleman basking in the sunshine recalling boyhood anecdotes.

Profits on His Trees.

"Only God can make a tree," he quoted. He remarked that he had pruned the woods on his Hudson river estate during the last war so that it was now yielding oak and maple for subchasers and landing craft in this war giving him $4,000 profit. He told a story remembered from when "I was a boy attending grade school in Germany." He had bicycled into a small town on the edge of a great forest which was supported by the forest, the town people paying no taxes. This occurred because the burghers turned out to repel an invader and the reigning prince gave them the forest as a reward, he told his audience. The moral was that trees can support the people if cared for properly, he noted.

No Thought of Politics.

"I like Sundays in campaign years," he declared, "because my life is made much more comfortable by not even thinking about politics. Unfortunately, I have to think about the war. I can't get rid of that.

"One of the things people all over the United States and especially in West Virginia don't see and ought to see is that we are using up our trees without replacing them. We ought to think of our grandchildren's pocket books. A small number of dollars invested in reforestation will come back a thousand-fold. I hope to live to see the day when a reforestry program will be started on these bare hilltops."

BRICKER PAUSES HERE EN ROUTE TO INVADE EAST

Gov. John W. Bricker, Republican nominee for Vice President, rested in his special train on a Chicago railroad siding yesterday. Returning from a 10,000 mile trip to the Pacific coast, he will wind up his campaign this week with 16 speeches.

The governor disclosed he will invade the important New York-New Jersey-Delaware area Thursday and Friday, with a broadcast over the Blue network from the Metropolitan Opera house in Philadelphia at 8:30 p. m. [Chicago time] Thursday.

Gov. Bricker will head into Michigan today for speeches at Lansing, Flint and Pontiac, and a Mutual chain broadcast from Detroit at 8:30 p. m. [Chicago time]. Tuesday and Wednesday morning Bricker will spend his time in the Ohio capitol at Columbus.

I see they finally nabbed him. She's been trying for seven years to get him before a judge for a divorce.

FORMER DIXIE EDITOR AND WIFE SWING TO DEWEY

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29.—Col. James M. Thomson of New Orleans, La., and Mrs. Thomson, lifelong Democrats, today announced their intention to vote for Gov. Dewey and Gov. Bricker as "able, honest, and patriotic Americans." They called upon all Jeffersonian Democrats to do likewise.

James M. Thomson.

Mrs. Thomson is the daughter of the late Champ Clark, former speaker of the house, and a sister of Sen. Clark [D., Mo.]. She formerly was national Democratic committeewoman for Louisiana and stumped for Alfred E. Smith in the 1928 campaign.

Col. Thomson, former owner and publisher of the New Orleans Item, was a member of the Louisiana delegation at the Democratic convention in Chicago, casting his vote for Sen. Byrd [D., Va.].

Both "Democrats by Conviction."

"My wife and I are Democrats, both by inheritance and conviction, and there is in my opinion a deep resentment and widespread discontent among traditional Democrats like ourselves in the southern and border states at the New Deal masquerading like a wolf in sheep's clothing in the habiliments of Democracy," he said in a statement.

"We believe there are enough of these unhappy and homeless Democrats, if they express their convictions by their votes instead of their conversation, to swing a substantial number of southern electoral votes from Mr. Roosevelt, as well as to insure the 55 electoral votes of the border states for Dewey and Bricker.

"It has been well said 'he serves his party best who serves his country best'; therefore, because we feel that their election at this time is in the country's highest interest, means an earlier winning of the war, and a greater chance for permanent world peace, Mrs. Thomson and I are supporting Dewey and Bricker.

Seek to Regain Party.

"Moreover, we feel that by voting for the Republican nominees we will, along with millions of other like minded Democrats, be taking the first step toward returning the machinery of the Democratic party to the hands of real Democrats.

"To us, and I think to millions of traditional Democrats like us, Earl Browder and Sidney Hillman make unsatisfactory substitutes for Thomas Jefferson and Andrew Jackson, to whose political philosophy we still adhere."

BABY BUGGY STOLEN.

Mrs. Grace De Felippi, 921 S. Paulina st., told police yesterday that her baby's buggy had been stolen from in front of a theater at Van Buren st. and Western av.

F. D. R. FAILURES AS LEADER TOLD BY REP. CHURCH

Says U. S. Will Turn to Republicans.

The New Deal is both incompetent and irresponsible and can be trusted only to further bungling in domestic and foreign affairs, Ralph E. Church said yesterday in reviewing his eight years' experience as Republican congressman from the 10th [north shore] district.

"It will be Republican leadership to which America will turn on Nov. 7 because the people know the myth of Mr. Roosevelt's competence to guide us, either in war or peace, is being rapidly exploded," Church said. He addressed the Highland Park Men's Republican club in the Elm Place School auditorium.

Puts Blame on Roosevelt.

"The story of Pearl Harbor—which I know—would, if he would allow it to be told, indict the President for criminal neglect of our national safety," Church said in declaring that Mr. Roosevelt either failed to foresee the war or lacked courage to prepare for it. The rubber stamp congress, the congressman continued, would have supported any measure asked by the President.

"Mr. Roosevelt will go down in history as the only President to issue an ultimatum to a foreign power while our ships—by his order—were exposed like 'sitting ducks' within the confines of Pearl Harbor and our boys were abandoned in the Philippines without planes, without bombs, without cartridges in their belts," Church said.

"And, from my eyewitness record of eight years in congress, I also know that the American people should reject Mr. Roosevelt because he is incapable of leading us to a just and lasting peace."

Dewey Program Indorsed.

Church condemned the President for abandoning the Atlantic charter and with it the small nations of Europe. He indorsed Gov. Dewey's program to achieve a permanent peace for little as well as big nations.

The myth that Roosevelt merits reelection because he is essential to the making of peace is most untenable, Rep. Karl E. Mundt of South Dakota told the group.

"As a peace maker, President Roosevelt has been a consistent and colossal failure," Mundt asserted. He also exploded the myth of the commander in chief, the myth of Roosevelt's foreign policy, the myth that F. D. R. is a great liberal, and the myth of the indispensable man.

The association, composed of chiropodists, also reelected Dr. George Weiss, Detroit, Mich., and Dr. H. L. Collins, Columbus, O., vice presidents, and Dr. Emanuel W. Demeur, Oak Park, secretary and treasurer. The 1945 convention will be held in Pittsburgh, Pa.

MOST WOMEN FAVOR DEWEY, POLLS REVEAL

In voting Democratic in New York City and Republican upstate. The current poll shows this trend holding good upstate but reversed in New York City where there has been a tremendous slump in support of Roosevelt by women and a corresponding increase in the percentage of women favoring the Republican candidate. The News poll figures are:

UPSTATE.

	Per cent.
Women for Dewey	62.6
Men for Dewey	61.5
Women for Roosevelt	37.4
Men for Roosevelt	38.5

CITY.

Men for Roosevelt	61.2
Women for Roosevelt	56.8
Men for Dewey	38.8
Women for Dewey	43.2

Mr. Roosevelt never has made any specific defense of his failure to keep his pledge that our boys were "not going to be sent into any foreign wars." While he was using the navy to convoy British shipping, occupying Iceland, and furnishing arms to Britain under lend-lease, which one of his chief supporters, Publisher Arthur Hays Sulzberger of the New York Times has admitted was an act of war, Mr. Roosevelt maintained the position all thru 1941 that his pledge was being kept substantially.

It was not going to be necessary to send an American army overseas, he insisted. Prime Minister Churchill reinforced the President's position by telling the American people: "You furnish the tools, we'll finish the job."

Principle Disregarded.

The question of the President's failure to keep his pledge really revolves around his policy in dealing with Japan. Mr. Roosevelt is accused of disregarding the first principle of statecraft, which is not to involve your country in a war on two fronts at the same time, and of deliberately pursuing a policy that would precipitate war with Japan and consequently with Germany and Italy under the axis pact. Mr. Roosevelt's defense is that any other policy than the one he pursued would have abandoned China to her fate.

"We could have compromised with Japan," said the President in his foreign policy association speech, "and bargained for a place in a Japanese dominated Asia by selling out the heart's blood of the Chinese people. And we rejected that."

It is well known, however, that Mr. Roosevelt at one time during the negotiations of November, 1941, did contemplate making a compromise with Japan which would have kept the United States from becoming involved in an Asiatic war while it was already actually, if not formally, involved in the European war.

Compromise Called Off.

When it became known that the President was discussing such a compromise with the Japanese envoys and perhaps considering it favorably there was great alarm in the allied chancelleries. British Ambassador Halifax and the Chinese ambassador rushed to the White House and had a long pow-wow with the President. After that it became known that the proposed compromise had been shelved.

There followed soon the ultimatum of Nov. 27 to Japan to get out of China, which Japan answered with war and about which the American people knew nothing till after Pearl Harbor. Thus came war on the Pacific front and with it war on the Atlantic front under the axis pact.

This was what Prime Minister Churchill, soon after Pearl Harbor, told parliament he had labored arduously to bring about. He offered the bringing of America into the war as a feat overbalancing the military reverses Britain was suffering at the time.

DR. LAPP SUPPORTS DEMPSEY ON PLEDGE TO GUARD SCHOOLS

"I am for John T. Dempsey because of his vigorous independence in his personal and political conduct," said Dr. John A. Lapp, civic and educational leader and supporter of President Roosevelt, in a statement made public yesterday. Dempsey is the Republican nominee for state's attorney.

"Dempsey has promised to use his powers as state's attorney to protect the rights of all people, regardless of race, religion, or economic or social status," said Dr. Lapp, who has been active in Chicago school board matters. "I am for him most of all because he has not hesitated to declare that he will bring to light the hidden affairs of the Chicago board of education and expose the wrongdoing of that body and some of its administrators.

"The spoils system has been fastened upon the schools.

"The lid must be pried off that the people's schools may once again be restored to the people."

GREEN INSURES NON-PARTISAN VETERANS' HELP

Gov. Green leaned backward yesterday to order that there be no semblance of politics in the administration of his program to give full aid to all returning war veterans. To that end, he directed the removal from local draft board offices of a booklet explaining to veterans what help they can get from national, state, and community agencies.

"It seems that some Democratic members of some selective service boards were afraid that politics might creep into this nonpartisan work," said Green. "We don't want that and I therefore have asked that the booklets be distributed to veterans and families of service men by sources outside the selective service system."

The governor's committee on veterans' rehabilitation and employment, headed by James P. Ringley of Chicago, issued the booklet, entitled "It's All Yours, Veteran." Devoted wholly to veterans' rights and benefits, it makes no mention of the Nov. 7 campaign.

Col. Paul G. Armstrong and other Illinois selective service officials are cooperating with the governor's program and the veterans' service officers appointed in each county by the governor are working out of draft board offices.

FORECASTING BALDNESS

This young man has a good head of hair and doesn't feel that he will ever be bald. Yet his scalp is laden with dandruff, itches constantly, and he loses a great deal of hair each day. In a few years later it will be too late, and his appearance will be permanently marred, a serious handicap to anyone. Don't let baldness come to you, since scientific Warner treatment and proper care afterward can prevent it in most cases.

There is no charge or obligation for a scalp examination and consultation. Examination and treatment are given in strictest privacy. FEES FOR TREATMENT ARE VERY MODERATE AND ARE PAYABLE AS THE TREATMENTS ARE TAKEN— NOT IN ADVANCE. There is a separate department for women.

DIES GROUP SEES PAC AS WEDGE OF COMMUNISM

Charges It Is Paving Way for 'Goon Rule.'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29.—The political action committee headed by Sidney Hillman is a dictatorial political pressure organization directed and controled in large measure by Communists entrenched in positions of leadership in the Congress of Industrial Organizations, a subcommittee of the special house committee investigating un-American activities, reported tonight.

The report was based on evidence and testimony submitted at open hearings. Rep. Costello [D., Cal.] was chairman of the subcommittee which also included Rep. Starnes [D., Ala.] and Rep. Thomas [R., N. J.].

The report not only charged that PAC is controled by Communists, but asserted the national citizens political action committee, organized by Hillman in June in a move to keep clear of the federal laws against labor organizations engaging in election campaigns, "is the major Communist-front organization of the moment, and as such, represents the Communists' supreme bid for power."

Tells of Hillman Deals.

Speaking of Hillman, the committee said no one questions that he is the all-powerful dictator of his union, the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America. I added that it is a matter of record that Hillman entered an alliance with Earl Browder and his Communist cohorts for the purpose of capturing the machinery of the American Labor party in New York state in the spring of 1944. It said he also exercised veto powers with respect to the Vice Presidential nomination at the Democratic convention in Chicago.

"Sidney Hillman's public career in this country during the last 30 years readily suggests that certain European countries offer a preview of what is in store for America if Hillman and his cohorts achieve their ambition of dominating a major political party in the United States," the report said.

The subcommittee asserted 83 per cent of the persons on the national committee of the NCPAC have had affiliations with the Communist party or its fronts in recent years and that at least one-third of the membership of the national committee is composed of out and out Communists or veteran fellow travelers of Communist front organizations.

Contempt for Democracy.

The report said the public utterances of the leaders of PAC reveal "their cynical contempt for the processes of democracy."

The subcommittee said it had heard testimony which proved conclusively that members of various CIO unions are being expelled from membership on "grounds which appear clearly to be nothing more than their refusal to contribute financially and otherwise support the political objectives of the CIO-PAC."

The report said this campaign represents "something new in American history. It is an importation of the worst features of some European systems. It is, in short, the entering wedge of a brutal totalitarianism supported by goon squads."

The report said Hillman's organization has received and is still receiving the active assistance of a number of officials of the government, and that a majority of the top officials of the national office of PAC are persons who left government jobs to join in directing PAC and NCPAC.

It also asserted every PAC political indorsement "must be cleared with Sidney."

"The subcommittee received in evidence a number of telegrams from Raymond McKeough [Chicago regional director of PAC] to local political action committee officials which established this point beyond any dispute," the report said.

Just Propaganda: Hillman.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29 (AP).—Sidney Hillman, chairman of the PAC, told a reporter tonight a Dies subcommittee's statements about him and the PAC were "just propaganda and falsehoods."

500 NORTH SIDE CITIZENS HONOR REP. C. S. DEWEY

Five hundred members of old north side families last night paid tribute to Rep. Charles S. Dewey [9th dist.], Republican candidate for reëlection to congress, and Mrs. Dewey, who were guests at a performance of "Port of Chicago," given in Uptown Players' theater at 1219 N. La Salle st. Among those who turned out to greet the Deweys was 92 year old F. Marion Smith, 2044 Burling st., who as a boy met Abraham Lincoln. A plea for Rep. Dewey's reëlection was made by Harriet E. Vittum, head resident of Northwestern university settlement house.

"Listen, you've spent weeks talking me into voting your way. I hope you're not letting that five-minute speaker change YOUR mind!"

WALLACE HAILS ROOSEVELT AS MOSES OF PARTY

Addresses 4,000 at Negro Rally.

Vice President Wallace yesterday called for elimination of the poll tax, equal educational opportunities, and equal wages for equal work regardless of sex or race at a Roosevelt rally sponsored by and for Negroes in the Savoy ballroom, 47th st. and South park way. Police estimated the attendance at 4,000 persons.

"I am for President Roosevelt," Wallace asserted, "because he led us out of the wilderness of the Hoover depression — because he gave us hope and confidence — because he was largely responsible for making this a better land—because he first saw and understood the Hitler menace, and because he is leading us courageously and ably to victory and peace."

Accepts His Rejection.

The Vice President dwelt only briefly on his rejection for renomination at the Democratic national convention last summer.

"Until July of this year," he said, "many of the newspapers—and most of the soft voiced radio commentators, said that I was either a crackpot or a dreamer—or both. Now these same newspapers say—these same commentators declare that I am a good man who has been given 'the kiss of death.'

Promises to Work for People.

"I expect in the next four years to be very much alive in the struggles for the people."

Wallace charged that the text of Gov. Dewey's Seattle speech failed to contain a sentence pledging permanent establishment of the fair employment practices committee, and that "the good people of Memphis and St. Petersburg did not read that sentence favoring the FEPC because it was not in the speech sent to Tennessee and Florida."

He was introduced by Mayor Kelly. Among other prominent Democrats who occupied the platform with him were Thomas J. Courtney, nominee for governor; William J. Tuohy, nominee for state's attorney, and Michael F. Mulcahey, nominee for sheriff.

AID OF DEWEY PUTS WALLACE IN BALMY CLASS

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 29 (AP).—Paul Lockwood, secretary to Gov. Dewey, said tonight that if some southern newspapers did not carry the G. O. P. Presidential nominee's statement urging establishment of the fair employment practices committee as a permanent agency, Vice President Wallace "can scarcely hold any Republican responsible."

"Mr. Wallace is a little balmier than usual," Lockwood said.

Reporters recalled that the original text of the speech issued by James C. Hagerty, the governor's executive assistant, had included the FEPC among criticized agencies. Later, Hagerty asked that the text be corrected to eliminate the FEPC from the list and to insert the statement urging permanent establishment of the FEPC, which subsequently was included by Dewey in his talk.

PRIESTLY LAUDS LYONS' RECORD ON LABOR BILLS

Election of Richard J. Lyons, Republican candidate for United States senator, was urged last night in a broadcast by Thomas Priestly, president of the Union Labor league of Illinois, who said that during the 10 years Lyons served in the state legislature he "voted for seven out of eight bills taken as tests for labor."

Of Sen. Lucas, Democratic candidate, Priestly said "it should be sufficient to tell the working men of Illinois that the New Deal senator was present in the senate when the vicious Smith-Connally law was passed and he voted for that measure."

"Lyons led the fight for the women's eight hour bill and the help which he gave to organized labor in securing favorable action on that measure crowned 20 years of effort to enact it into law," Priestly said.

Backed Other Bills.

"Lyons also supported and voted for many other measures advocated by labor. These include the prevailing wage bill, the housing bills, the full crew bill, unemployment insurance, the old age assistance bill, improvement in the mothers' pension act, and emergency school relief."

Sen. Arnold P. Benson, Republican nominee for secretary of state, received high commendation in a statement issued by Gov. Green. Pointing to the importance of the office, the governor reviewed Benson's career as president pro tem of the state senate and continued:

"Arnold P. Benson is the happy combination of scholar, newspaper man, banker, and a student of public affairs. He will make an able, an efficient—yes, a great secretary of state."

In an indictment of Mayor Kelly, Louis N. Blumenthal, Republican candidate for sanitary district trustee, said Chicago has the "amazing" status of being "probably the only city in the world which manages to exist without pure water or adequate sewage disposal." He addressed the North Edgewater Civic club.

"Chicago Has Neither."

"All large cities require at least two essentials," Blumenthal said. "They need pure drinking water and efficient sewage disposal. Chicago has neither. For six months every year our water is so heavily chlorinated that it is almost too offensive to drink, and its bacteria count is the wonder of the United States public health service. As for its sewage disposal program, half of the sewage handled by the sanitary district is untreated or only partially treated.

"The Kelly machine flies the banner of 'humanity,' but the Democratic politicians must mean humanity somewhere else. They can't be referring to humanity in Chicago, for Chicagoans are probably the best living examples in this country of the forgotten man."

THE ARCHITECT OF VICTORY.

In the closing days of the campaign, Mr. Roosevelt is concentrating on what his followers call the commander in chief argument. Reelect me, he pleads, because I am the architect of victories.

On election day this year we shall have been engaged in World War II. nearly twice as long as it took to win World War I.: 19 months elapsed between April 6, 1917, when we declared war, and Nov. 11, 1918, when the armistice was signed; 35 months to a day will have elapsed from Dec. 7, 1941, to Nov. 7, 1944. Our enemies are still in the field.

Mr. Roosevelt's apologists may point, if they wish, to the fact that we are fighting a two front war this time, but in saying that they are calling attention to a major failure of Mr. Roosevelt's diplomacy. Smart statesmen don't get into two wars at once. Roosevelt, like Hitler, did. The disadvantage applies to us and the Germans alike.

When we entered the first World war, Russia was no longer a military danger to Germany, France was bled white, Britain was desperately short of man power, and Italy was tottering. Germany could concentrate the vast preponderance of her strength on one front, the front on which we were engaged. Nevertheless, Germany was knocked out only 19 months later.

This time Germany has a tremendous war to fight against Russia and another war in Italy as well as the war on the western front. Nevertheless, nearly twice 19 months have already gone by and tho there have been great victories, there has been as yet no decisive one. We did not come to grips with Germany in this war until 30 months after the declaration of war. At the moment corresponding to this war's D-day in Normandy, the first World war was already a year in the past and all but a few thousand of the soldiers were back home in civilian clothes.

The failure of Mr. Roosevelt as commander in chief to accomplish in these 35 months and more what was achieved in 19 months in the last war is the more remarkable in view of circumstances which should have favored us this time. In 1917 we had never fought a great war overseas and had no experience to guide us in such a venture. In 1917 it was 52 years since we had fought a great war anywhere. Relatively few of our officers of 1917-'18 had seen service in the little war against Spain in which only 500 Americans were killed in battle, a war that lasted less than four months. A few other officers had served in the Philippine insurrection that followed, or in China against the Boxers, or in the punitive expedition against Mexico. Not one of them had ever participated in such a war as confronted them when they went to France, but they won a complete victory in 19 months.

This time, the officers commanding our armies were battle-trained before they saw the enemy. They have profited greatly from the lessons they learned in 1917-'18. This time, too, we have had the advantage of experience in the production of munitions and in the organization of the home front. The factories today are for the most part in charge of men who know from their own trials in France how important it is to get equipment of all kinds to the front. The failure in the last war to produce planes and cannon in this country persuaded the officers in charge of procurement to meddle less in factory management and to leave production to the civilians who understood it. Likewise, traffic congestion at the ports and the resultant mistake of taking over the railroads were not repeated. We have had the huge advantage in this war of a living memory, shared by thousands of men now in key positions in the army, the navy, and transportation and industry, of the problems involved in raising a mighty force, supplying it, and leading it into battle.

In many important respects Mr. Roosevelt has not profited from the lessons of the other war. The draft has not been operated as smoothly. Labor difficulties have been more troublesome. Financial management has shown no improvement. Rationing is less satisfactory than voluntary action was in the last war. We have spent half a dozen times as much money on this war as on the other one. The number of the killed and missing is nearly twice as great as in the last war.

Mr. Roosevelt, who hails himself as the architect of victories, is not yet the architect of victory, but he holds out the hope that the end is near. His argument contradicts itself. If victory is as near as he promises, then his insistence that he is the indispensable leader of the nation in war is beside the point because the nation soon will not be at war. The more he talks about the nearness of victory, the more the American people are reminded that the next President of the United States should be chosen with a view to his capacity to lead the country back to peace and in peace.

For this role, Mr. Roosevelt in his three terms has proved himself unfit. He did not solve the problem of unemployment until the war solved it for him. He discouraged business expansion with his taxes and his regulations and thus succeeded in prolonging the depression of 1929 until it had lasted far longer than any depression this country has ever known. He has stimulated class conflict and disunity within the nation. He has degraded the courts and congress and has thus weakened the faith of the people in the institutions of freedom. He took a peaceful nation into war. His diplomacy consists in echoing the British foreign office. What is there in this record to suggest that he has any qualifications to lead the nation back to peace and prosperity?

SOME GENTLEMEN OF PRIVILEGE.

The report of the Democratic national committee on fourth term campaign contributions bears out Gov. Dewey's statement that the drive of the New Deal One Thousand club to market special privilege and a voice in White House councils is moving apace. Mr. Roosevelt is disclosed as a $1,000 contributor. It is worth that much to him to keep a job that pays $75,000 a year and expenses.

Others of the immediate administration family, who have bought themselves a piece of political social security by kicking in, are Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau's wife, who bought two $1,000 shares; Atty. Gen. Biddle, a half-share holder in the New Deal destiny, and Secretary of State Hull, who has ponied up $250. Mr. Hull always plays them close to his vest.

The One Thousand club, which originated in a White House conference among Mr. Roosevelt, the national party chairman, and the party treasurer, came to the attention of Gov. Dewey thru a dunning letter sent out by two Arkansas New Deal leaders named McAlister and Watkins. The national committee's report discloses that these worthies have turned over $35,000, suggesting that they have sold 35 $1,000 interests in what the White House has to hand out.

This racket under White House sponsorship is what Gov. Dewey called it—a "brazen piece of business." The McAlister-Watkins letter said that members of the One Thousand club "undoubtedly will be granted special privilege and prestige" and would be permitted to "assist in the formulation of administration policies." In fact, they can expect to divvy up what's left after Sidney Hillman's political action committee and the Communists get thru taking their cut.

It remained for the New Deal and its chieftain, Mr. Roosevelt, to become the first administration ever to cut up the country and its future like a prohibition mob cutting up a city. There ought to be a place for Al Capone in the New Deal syndicate.

TERMS TO THE ENEMY.

Joseph C. Grew, former American ambassador to Japan, has seized upon Gen. MacArthur's successful invasion of the Philippines and the defeat of the Japanese fleet as an occasion to call upon Japan to surrender now instead of waiting in the vain hope that its bargaining position may improve. He said that surrender would avoid useless sacrifice of Japanese lives and wholesale destruction.

Mr. Grew can make this appeal in all sincerity because the Japanese know definitely what terms they must accept. The terms were fixed at the Cairo conference last Dec. 1 when Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Churchill, and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek met. They call for Japan to give up all the islands she has seized or occupied since the first World war in 1914; to surrender Manchuria, Formosa, the Pescadores Islands, and any other areas under former Chinese control, and to vacate Burma, Malaya, Indo-China, and the Dutch and British possessions in the Indies. The Japs are also to get out of Korea, which at some indeterminate time is to be permitted independence.

These are hard terms, but they are what a defeated nation must expect. The Japanese know that they can continue the war and condemn hundreds of thousands if not millions of their people to die and subject their cities to ruin, and still lose all that they have been told they are going to lose, in addition. They may reasonably ask themselves: What's the use?

No similar appeal to reason can be made to Germany because no specific terms have ever been submitted Germany. Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill merely talk of unconditional surrender. That was a demand that Ulysses S. Grant could convincingly make to the Confederates at Fort Donelson when he had crushed the possibility of effective resistance and cut off their line of retreat. It is not the kind of demand that will persuade a nation that still has standing defenses and armies in being and whose people have been told by Mr. Morgenthau that unconditional surrender means permanent poverty and by Mr. Stalin that it means slavery.

Dr. Goebbels has just been heard again threatening his people with the terror of the unknown in unconditional surrender. He tells the Germans they can "expect nothing but hell on earth" if they lay down their arms. He is managing to summon a fanatical bitter-end resistance because Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill have given Germans who want to quit nothing to refute Goebbels' assertion that they have everything to gain and nothing to lose by continuing the struggle.

It cannot be doubted that Germany can eventually be defeated by purely military means, perhaps much more quickly than is generally assumed. But the task is going to cost American lives and the price will become the higher if allied spokesmen continue to encourage a stubborn determination to resist by withholding a definite outline of what is in store for Germany when she is defeated. Woodrow Wilson was at least canny enough to know the value his Fourteen Points would have in softening morale and hastening the end of the first World war. The men who today think themselves statesmen have demonstrated that they are blind to any means of persuasion except bullets. They are throwing away the possibility of ending the war by offering over the heads of Hitler and the Nazis terms which, tho hard, the German people would accept as a means of ending their present sufferings.

Most people will be a little doubtful about that British-Russian understanding until they see a picture of Stalin lighting up one of Churchill's cigars.—Indianapolis News.

FOOTNOTES TO BATTLE.

The ships that sank off Leyte and Samar had the longest possible descent to Davy Jones' locker. They sagged slowly down into the deepest place on the ocean floor—the Philippine Trench. Off Mindanao, this titanic gully attains a world record in the Mindanao Deep—35,400 feet. That is deeper than Mount Everest is high.

Surigao strait, thru which the southern wing of the Japanese armada passed to threaten American transports along the beaches of Leyte, probably saw its first European sailors when Magellan discovered the Philippines on his voyage of circumnavigation. His first landfall, on March 16, 1521, was the southern point of Samar Island. He entered the archipelago and landed on Cebu. Therefore it seems likely that he passed thru Surigao strait.

Claims that the three-cornered air-sea battle of the Philippines brought into action the largest fleets in history invite comparison with the battle of Jutland in World War I. Therefore we submit the figures for Jutland. The British had 28 battleships, 9 battle cruisers, 8 armored cruisers, 26 light cruisers, 80 destroyers, and 1 plane carrier. The Germans had 22 battleships, 5 battle cruisers, 11 light cruisers, and 63 destroyers. Arguments over this matter are not advisable at present. It may take years to settle the bets.

The leper island of the Philippines, famous in medical lore and a notable example of American administration, is remote from the scenes of the Japanese defeat. You will find it under the name of Culion in the group of small islands northeast of the long finger of Palawan.

FIRST HEARTACHE.

I must leave you, my young dear,
At the edge of this dark, uncertain wood.
I ache to go before you,
To trample underfoot the thorny brush,
To break off the low-hanging branches;
But I cannot.

Nor deflect one moonbeam onto your path.
I can only wait for your halloo
From the farther edge of the wood.

You will know the uncertain foot
And the groping hand;
You will feel strange quietness, like a lesser death,
Folded about your going.

What use to tell you
That you will be
A little taller for the journey,
A little firmer of step? Adelaide Love.

Fala's Campaign Fidgets.

An air of tense uncertainty prevailed at Fala's headquarters as I stopped in to inquire how his campaign for president of the Democratic Dog Party of America was progressing. My first questions brought only a series of barks and growls from the candidate, who seemed a bit irritated by it all.

"I see that my opponent is making campaign speeches," he snarled. "That's a new wrinkle—a dog with a ghost writer!"

I told him it was rather unusual, but that Choppy was a rather unusual dog.

"Well, no ghost can scare me!" Fala snapped. "And that crack about him having his picture taken with a man who might be President some day [Oct. 25]. That's typical! A lot of Republicans have thought they might be President some day."

He paused a moment to let the full significance of his comment register, and then he continued: "You arrived a little late, chum. You missed the photographers taking campaign pictures of me digging a fox hole. There's a vote-getting stunt for you. It will line up all the G. I. dogs solidly for me."

"And now about your running mate," I said. "Has that matter been decided yet?"

"I wish you hadn't brought that up," he said with a half growl. "Some one pulled a swift one there. I'm not a Communist dog and I don't ask their support. But some one decided my running mate should be a Russian wolfhound, and that makes me see red!"

While grateful hearts give God the thanks they owe,

This is the report of the committee to ascertain why all boxes of assorted chocolates contain such a large percentage of strawberry, raspberry, orange, and lemon creams—and what do people do with them?

Your committee finds that these surrealist creations are the result of a domestic difficulty between the chief chocolate designer and his wife. He can't have the last word, so he comes to work in the morning and takes it out on the gullible public.

Out of 5,693 homes investigated it was found that in 5,617 these colored creams are poked by the youngest child to verify dark suspicions, then studiously avoided by the whole family, ultimately being dumped out with the empty box.

Not unless the National Guard unit was in active federal service and only for the period it was in such service.

H. V. asks: "Have any states set up a 'bonus' payment plan yet? I am from Vermont."

Yes, several, including Vermont, which has authorized the payment of $10 a month for each month of active service not exceeding 12 months. If the Yank is killed, the spouse or next of kin who are lineal heirs may receive payments.

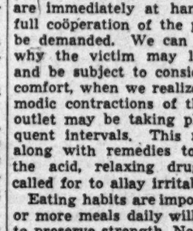
POISE AND DIET IN DUODENAL ULCER.



APPARENTLY there is some misunderstanding concerning the term, "peptic ulcer." The word "peptic," in this connection, relates to the mucous membrane within the stomach or the duodenum [the first portion of the intestine]. A lesion within the gastric pouch may be called "stomach ulcer." If it presents itself within the first 10 or 12 inches of the bowel we refer to it as "duodenal."

In the latter circumstances unusual care must be exercised. If there are no complications medical treatment probably will suffice. Nevertheless, recurrences are common and are likely to be associated with bleeding.

When we think of the cause we must again remind ourselves that nervous strain, tension, anxiety, and all other factors which lead to emotional instability may be responsible. Furthermore, if these reserve-destroying conditions are allowed to persist they will render repair difficult. In fact, they may result in the reappearance of acute symptoms.

Every sufferer must be told that his disorder will require constant watching and that the prime requisite is the cultivation of poise—peace of mind. Many of these victims are so restless that they find it extremely boring to follow the essential dietary regime. In addition, they seem to be unable to save themselves useless psychic upsets. In such a situation it may be wise to recommend surgery without further delay. It should be pointed out, however, that the same "starter" which brought on the first attack may persist and, unless corrected, even skilled removal of the offending part may not bring permanent restoration to health.

Another problem lies in overcoming the excess acidity of the gastric juice. Numerous workable methods are immediately at hand, but the full coöperation of the patient will be demanded. We can understand why the victim may lose weight and be subject to considerable discomfort, when we realize that spasmodic contractions of the stomach outlet may be taking place at frequent intervals. This means that along with remedies to neutralize the acid, relaxing drugs will be called for to allay irritability.

Eating habits are important. Five or more meals daily will be needed to preserve strength. Now and then night feedings will be in order. All fibrous edibles must be shunned, as well as condiments.

Any one who has been free from obvious symptoms for a two-year period may be considered recovered. But the job from then on is to maintain resistance at such a high level that well being will be the rule and not the exception. Of course, the surplus acid must be controled thru diet and certain drugs. This is especially necessary should some ailment, such as influenza, come along and weaken the patient. It is fortunate that most remedies are relatively easy to take, so that there will be no interference with the performance of one's usual duties.

Safety lies in vigilance, not only for a year or two but for a long time.

SPINE DEFECT.

T. N. writes: Is there any known cure for spina bifida?

REPLY.

Surgery is the answer and may be employed safely in the hands of an expert. If the defect does not appear on the surface the weakness should be watched but need not occasion much concern.

OBSTRUCTION.

L. S. writes: How long does it take to recover from an embolism?

REPLY.

QUITE AN UPSET.

Mrs. W. writes: Is the thyroid gland affected by the change of life?

REPLY.

Yes, just as are all members of the endocrine family.

THE SAME.

H. B. writes: Is cod liver oil in capsule form just as good as the liquid?

REPLY.

The Things He Left Behind.

There was mold in the basement. It had not affected the trunks but the boxes and suitcases placed carefully on what seemed so secure a cement floor were coated with it. It seemed to have sprung up over night, like an evil temper, and was tropical in its pervasive quality.

One box of books was shot to bits with its gray-green grubbiness, but they mattered little. They were principally old textbooks, outmoded dictionaries that never contained the difficult word you were pursuing, and cookbooks full of recipes that called for rationed foods, especially pounds of butter.

The boxes and bags that did matter were those belonging to the boy who had gone off to war. He had reassured every one bravely and jokingly, "O, I'll be back in a year," but he must have known it would be a long time, for he had insisted on packing all his personal possessions with care and placing them in the basement. "Get them out of the way," he said.

One large calfskin bag, now green and eaten away, contained the most precious. Here, in neat tin boxes, were hundreds of rolls of film he took when, a newcomer to Chicago, he could never have enough of its heights and curious architectures. Of all the things he packed away they alone were unscathed.

Then, clasped together by a rubber band that disintegrated as the package was lifted, were a little book and a billfold of such exquisite tooled leather he had always thought it "too good to use." Seeing it, covered now with mold, brought back the memory of his greataunt's round topped trunk, unpacked after her death at the age of 96. In it were a dozen face towels of fine Irish linen, each a yard long and edged in three inches of fine tatting. They were lemon yellow with age and the card of the giver was still in the tissue paper that enclosed them. They, too, had always been "too good to use."

The little book was bound in coral and white. On the cover of it was a picture of Sir Galahad. It contained a brief essay by Whittier, something on gentleness. Inside were two inscriptions. The first was written on his father's wedding day in 1898 by the grandfather who died before he was born, whose name he bore. The second had been written by his father on the boy's wedding day, 40 years later.

Then there was a tin box. Looking at it you remembered, with startled recognition, that this was the old candy box in which, as a child, he had placed his treasures. Here were those early report cards that were so important to his parents, so unimportant to him. The "M" for deportment, M for medium, that always caused such endless arguments when they came home. The "M" in arithmetic, and you remembered his muttered excuse. "If they hadn't made me skip the third grade, it'd be all right. When I skipped it, I skipped most of the multiplication tables." And you wonder—are report cards still that frightening color of red that they were 20 years ago?

Here, too, was a package of letters, wholly apart from the two suitcases necessary to hold every letter his wife had ever written him. Not many, just a thin handful. Letters from a little brother now gone, letters from a little grandmother now gone, letters from a father and a sister now gone. In between them was a yellow lace handkerchief with the word "Mexico" embroidered on it. That was the time he went to call on [1] his girl, and [2] his little niece who lived near-by. For his girl he had a box of candy. For the little niece he had the handkerchief. He visited the niece first. She ate half the candy while his back was turned. He had gone on to his girl's house, ridden with sorrow, and had shown her all he had left—the five cent handkerchief.

It was such little mementos as these that he had kept. Other things he had thrown away by the bushel basket. It will be nice, won't it, if the things he comes back to are as lovely as those he left behind?

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

A MARINE TELLS IT TO SIDNEY.

San Diego, Cal., Oct. 24.—The head of the American Federation of Labor has indorsed Roosevelt "on behalf" of the members of the federation, collections have been blackjacked from the people and turned over to the New Deal for their campaign, and pictures and campaign posters have appeared in union halls advocating F. D. R. for President. I am a sergeant with two years in the marine corps. I was a member of the union when I was a civilian. When things looked dark in the Pacific, I said goodby to my wife and child and enlisted to fight for the things that were American.

The gangster methods employed by Sidney Hillman and others of his dynasty are definitely not American. He wishes to help create a fascist type control of labor. He has sold out the American boys who are fighting for the freedom of the world and for their own freedom.

I cannot take an active part in the campaign to elect either candidate, but I can and have voted. I cast my ballot for the man who locks up gangsters. I voted and prayed that my vote would help elect a man who would protect the future of my son and keep him free and happy in American ideals set up for us by Washington, Lincoln, and the host of others who were interested, not in their own personal gains or power, but in a better nation for the people to inherit. They did not employ gangsters to blackjack funds and votes from the working man.

I am in favor of labor unions, but definitely against clearing everything with Sidney. SERGEANT.

BUT NOT IN THE USUAL SENSE.

Chicago, Oct. 26.—Does history repeat itself? I'll say it does. Back in 1916 President Wilson, who was seeking reelection, announced he would make a few "nonpartisan" addresses around the country. He spoke in the Amphitheater at the stock yards to what was strictly a Democratic audience. All the local Democratic leaders were on the platform. This did not escape the notice of B. L. T., who said in the last line of his Line O' Type column the day following this meeting: "Anyhow it was a nice nonpartisan meeting."

EUGENE MULLANEY.

ANY DAY NOW.

Carmel, Ind., Oct. 24.—Now that Ball, Ickes, Hillman and Browder have all left the Dewey ranks, the Republicans may as well prepare themselves, as Eleanor and Hopkins are likely to quit Dewey any day now and give their reasons to the radio and press.

MAX J. KENNEDY.

HANDS, PALMS UP, ACROSS THE SEA.

DEMOCRAT PROPOSES KELLY BE GAGGED.

Chicago, Oct. 26.—Last evening Mayor Kelly stated: "The war in Europe will end within a few days after the election, but only if President Roosevelt wins." However, he added, in the event Gov. Dewey is elected, the war will continue.

Mayor Kelly is a liability, rather than an asset to the Democratic party during this campaign and it might not be a bad idea for the other Democratic leaders to see that he is silenced until after the election. After all, being a Democrat, I'd like to see my party successful.

JOHN E. DEVEREUX.

THE ROOSEVELT YOUTH MOVEMENT.

Chicago, Oct. 26.—Tonight I was quietly sitting here reading, my 18 month old daughter asleep in bed, when all of a sudden a bombardment of rocks hit my windows. Looking out, I saw two boys—one about 12 years old and the other about 14. They were throwing rocks and saying, "Phooey on Dewey. Take that picture down or we'll break your window."

Alongside of this picture was a service star. Is this the kind of freedom my husband is fighting for? If these boys are like this at 12 and 14, what will they be like after another four years of the New Deal?

A YOUNG MOTHER.

THANKS FROM COMMUNITY FUND.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—This will acknowledge receipt of The Tribune company check for $25,000. We shall be very glad to allocate this contribution in its entirety to the local and domestic participants as outlined in your letter of Oct. 13.

We very much appreciate the support THE TRIBUNE has given our campaign this year and hope you and your associates feel that you are making a great contribution to the success of the campaign. ROBERT E. COBURN, Secretary.

A FAMILIAR FEELING.

Carmel, Ind., Oct. 19.—From the attack Gov. Dewey is receiving from Bucket Shop Ickes, the racketeer bosses, the convicts, and jail birds and other hoodlums, he must feel much as he did a few years ago when he was prosecuting some of his big cases in New York.

MAXWELL KENNEDY.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

CLOSING AN ESTATE.

Chicago, Oct. 26.—How long can the administrator of an estate delay an accounting? C. V.

Creditors are allowed nine months in which to file their claims. Ordinarily the estate should be closed shortly after the expiration of that period but we can hardly name an absolute maximum. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

ROOSEVELT vs. ROOSEVELT

"We must have armed forces and defenses strong enough to ward off sudden attack against strategic positions and key facilities. A strong and united nation may be destroyed if it is unprepared for a sudden attack."

Dear public ...

A thoughtful mother asked the Garden Spot for $5 worth of corn seed. "A little late for planting," the salesperson demurred. But the lady knew what she wanted. Her son had written from a South Pacific Island: "Mom, what I'd give just to see some corn growing."

SOLDIER'S SON, 8, DISCOVERS FIRE ACTS TO SAVE 6

Awakens Household, Calls for Assistance.

The quick thinking of an 8 year old boy yesterday was credited with saving the lives of six persons when fire started spontaneously in the closet of his home at 3645 N. Sacramento av. early Saturday.

He is Vance Norum, whose father, a corporal in the army, is stationed in North Carolina.

Vance, with his two brothers, Neil, 5, and Roger, 2, were asleep in one bedroom of the home. Smoke, curling under the closet door in the room, awakened him.

Carries Brother to Safety.

He first carried the sleeping Roger downstairs into the living room. Then he returned, awakened Neil, and led him to the living room. Then he telephoned Fire 1313.

Vance then went into the sleeping porch where his mother, Christine, was asleep.

"Mamma, get up," he said, "there's a fire in our closet."

After arousing his mother the youngster raced to a second bedroom where three roomers, Lois Murphy, Margaret Roach, and Naoma Kimball were asleep, and awakened them.

Firemen Praise Vance.

"You don't have to call the fire department, Mama," he said. "I already called them."

Firemen who soon arrived extinguished the smoldering blaze in the closet, where damage had been confined to the walls and clothing. Had the fire not been discovered, however, it might have burst out of the closet and soon swept thru the entire house, firemen told Mrs. Norum. They attributed the blaze to spontaneous combustion from tightly packed, newly cleaned clothing.

Mrs. Norum told the firemen what her son had done. They praised him, and one of them asked:

"How did you know just what to do, sonny?"

"Aw, it was just fire prevention," he said. "I learned all about it at school."

ANIMAL WAIFS INVITE YOU TO 'NIGHT OF FUN'

Dogs, cats, and other animals of the Anti-Cruelty society, 157 W. Grand av., will be hosts Nov. 10 at the society's annual "Night of Fun."

They hope that several hundred friends of animals will attend, and see their building, kennels, equipment, how they are cared for, and to enjoy themselves otherwise in ways peculiar to humans.

The animals, said Dr. W. A. Young, director of the society, promise to be appreciative hosts, and will do their best to see that every one has a good time.

"PUTTING DOWN THIS GUNS"—If stopped between stations, Flagman puts out torpedoes to warn next train. An extra safeguard, as electric signals and Automatic Train Control protect Central's main line.

ON WATCH. From caboose cupola, Middle Brakeman keeps an eye on cars ahead... 6,000 tons of freight, traveling for an average of less than 1¢ per ton-mile!
COMBAT TEAM
For these men, too, are a "combat team." And, with their fellow railroaders from coast to coast, they've handled three-fourths of all America's vital wartime freight movement.
From that stupendous job, railroad men and women have learned valuable lessons. And those lessons ... plus advanced equipment now on New York Central drawing boards ... will mean faster, more efficient, often thriftier transportation for almost everything you'll buy or use in the days of peace ahead.

Two Winnetka Families Tell of Betrothals

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE village of Winnetka is hearing two pieces of romantic news today—the engagement of Miss Marion Hall to Lt. Richard K. Agnew of the naval reserve, and the engagement of Miss Sarah Gilchrist Hyde to Eugene Ralph Head.

The announcement which Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bigelow Hall are making of their daughter's betrothal carries the news that she will be a bride within two weeks. Lt. Agnew left Winnetka yesterday following a visit with the Halls to spend a week with his father, Frank E. Agnew of Creston, Ia. He will return early next week, and the wedding will take place on Nov. 11 before a small family gathering in the Hall home, with a reception following.

Miss Hall, a 1940 graduate of Vassar college, made her debut in 1937 at a tea in her parents' home. She has one brother, Corp. Gordon Hall of the army, who with his bride of last April will come from Pratt, Kas., for the wedding. Lt. Agnew, who was graduated from Knox college, is on a 30 day leave following two years of service in the Atlantic. After the wedding he and his bride will go to the west coast.

Dr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Hyde of Longmeadow farm, Winnetka, are not giving a large party to announce their daughter's engagement, as the news was told in advance to members of the family at a small luncheon last week. Miss Hyde, a senior at the National College of Education, made her debut during the 1941 season at two teas at home. Her fiancé, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Head of Kenosha, Wis., was graduated from Cornell university. He is engaged in war work here as a designing engineer and also as a lieutenant in the civil air patrol instructing candidates for the army air forces.

At present Mrs. Hyde's children are widely scattered. Her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Cole, has a state department job at the American consulate in Trinidad. While Corp. John Cole is on duty in Italy, his wife is working with the army map research bureau in Washington, D. C. William Cole is engaged in war work in Chicago.

Birth News.

Lt. George W. Merck Jr., who will be leaving soon for duty in the Pacific, was in Lake Forest to meet his new son, born on Friday in the Lake Forest hospital. Mrs. Merck is the former Betty Mead, daughter of Mrs. Edward H. Bennett of Lake Forest. Mrs. Walter Gibson of New York and Mr. Merck Sr. of Rahway, N. J., are the baby's paternal grandparents. Lt. Merck has been decorated twice, having received citations from both Adm. William F. Halsey and Adm. Ernest J. King.

Little Robert O. Lehmann Jr. and his two year old sister, Susan, are waiting in their nursery in Lake Forest to welcome a new baby brother, Edward John Lehmann III., who was born on Friday in Presbyterian hospital. The youngsters are grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Lehmann and Mrs. John Redmond.

Congratulations are being received by Mr. and Mrs. Philip B. Shumway [Betty Longstaff] on the birth of their second child, a daughter, born Oct. 11 at the Evanston hospital. The baby, who has been named Anne, has a 2 year old sister, Mary Raymond. The little girls are granddaughters of Mrs. Philip R. Shumway and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph S. Longstaff of Evanston.

Messages of congratulations are being sent to Mr. and Mrs. W. Howard Pauling Emrich, former Evanstonians, who became the parents of a daughter, Kathy, on Oct. 8 in Mamaroneck, N. Y. The baby has a 4 year old brother, Peter. The children's paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lyman Emrich of Evanston, at present are having a family reunion. Lt. and Mrs. Emrich Jr. and their baby son, Philip, are here from Traverse City, Mich., where Lt. Emrich has been stationed at the naval air base, and the Emrichs' daughter, Mrs. James H. Gilfillan, and her little daughter, Diane, have arrived from Canada. Lt. Gilfillan, son of the Solon J. Gilfillans of Glencoe, temporarily is stationed in Tampa, Fla., awaiting orders following his transfer from the royal Canadian air force.

Wedding Ceremonies.

From Locust Valley, N. Y., comes word of the marriage of Miss Betty Chapin to John J. Cooke of Hempstead, N. Y., yesterday afternoon in the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Harold E. Stearns of Frost Pond in that community. The bride, who formerly lived here and who is the daughter of Lowell Mead Chapin of Chicago, was given in marriage by her brother, Coolidge Chapin. The former Miss Chapin attended the Fermata school and studied at the Brilliantmont school in Lausanne, Switzerland. Mr. Cooke's parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Cooke of Hempstead.

Mrs. Helen Somerville of Evanston announces the marriage on Saturday of her daughter, Helen, to Ensign Frank B. Knoop of the naval reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Knoop of Kenilworth. Ensign Knoop is an instructor in the naval reserve school at Northwestern university.

On Today's Calendar.

Mr. and Mrs. Millard B. Kennedy will give a party at the International club of the Drake hotel following tonight's performance of "Die Walkure" at the Civic Opera house, which starts off the third week of the current opera season. The party is being given for the opera company's artistic director, Fausto Cleva, and Mrs. Cleva.

The Women's Faculty club of Northwestern University Medical school will hold its annual benefit bridge party at 1:30 p. m. today at the Lake Shore club. Proceeds will go to carry on scientific research in children's diseases at the school. Mrs. Edgar W. Swanson is president of the club and chairman of the party.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

Mrs. George A. Berry Jr. will be hostess at tea today from 2 p. m. to 6 p. m. in her home at 330 S. County Line rd., Hinsdale, for friends of her daughter, Miss Betty Berry, who, with Miss Priscilla Burr, 205 E. 6th st. in the suburb, will be leaving next Sunday for Washington, D. C., to take an indoctrination course for Red Cross overseas service.

Both young women have been active Red Cross volunteers for some time. Both now drive for the motor corps, and Miss Burr also is a member of the Gray Ladies [hospital and recreation corps].

Miss Berry, whose brother, Lt. George A. Berry III., is believed to be with the army in Luxembourg, was graduated from the University of Chicago. Miss Burr, who attended the Connecticut College for Women, New London, Conn., and was graduated from Gulf Park college, Gulfport, Miss., is the twin sister of Sgt. John P. Burr, who is at home on furlough after 31 months of duty with the army transport command in India.

Thirteen Illinois WACs, several of them from Chicago, are in the contingent of 100 army women, under the direction of Pvt. Pearl C. Crot, 17828 Howe av., Homewood, who operate the telephone switchboards for the army's communications nerve center in Paris. They are on duty at headquarters of Lt. Gen. John C. H. Lee, commanding general of the communications zone of the European theater of operations.

Pvt. Crot, 50, who worked for the Illinois Bell Telephone company for 32 years before enlisting in the WAC, is the dean of the Paris operators, all of whom were flown overseas for their special mission, in which they moved along with advancing allied forces.

They began in London, where they adapted their army signal corps training to the British telephone system. Then they went to Normandy, where they worked with a combination of French and American instruments. In Paris, the WACs are routing calls with German instruments which were superimposed on the French switchboards by the enemy, and with French and American signal corps equipment.

While in Normandy, the WACs lived under field conditions and worked at switchboards installed in the wine cellar and stables of an old chateau. During a rainy spell, six inches of water accumulated on the ancient store floors, but the WACs continued to plug in their calls without a halt in operations.

Chicagoans on the telephone operators' staff are Privates Carol L. Raddatz, 714 E. 71st st.; Ebba R. Nielsen, 1511 Hyde Park blvd., and Dorris Larson, 4924 Newport av. Champaign is represented by Corp. Edna Moore, Flossmoor by Corp. Mary Smith, and Peoria by Pvt. Dorothy Dunn. Other Illinoisans are Corp. Geraldine Billings, Abingdon; Corp. Rose J. Prosen, East Moline; Pvt. Lorene Cherkoian, East St. Louis; Sgt. Irene Jack, Moline; Pvt. Gwendolyn Meeker, Robinson, and Sgt. Mary Jane Foley, Tuscola.

The Navy Sisters and Wives' club will have a box packing session at 7:30 o'clock tonight in room 700 at 230 N. Michigan av. Mrs. Barbara Weber, chairman of the Christmas kit project, has requested members to come supplied with games, decks of cards, razor blades, and combs, which are urgently needed for the kits. The Sisters' stock of candies and stationery is complete.

The organization, which is an auxiliary of the Navy Mothers' club, will have a benefit dance in the ballroom of the Morrison hotel the night of Dec. 9. The proceeds will go to the Sisters' canteen project in headquarters of the senior organization, 500 Sherman st. Mrs. Charles Bird is president of the junior group; Mrs. C. Ashley Deneen, of the mothers' club.

Harmony Boys Lather Up the Old Favorites

BY KAY CLANCY.

The "Sweet Adeline" boys invaded the Chicago Civic Opera house yesterday and gave out with some of the best melodies from the other side of the tracks. They were members of the Organization for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, Inc. They didn't hit a sour note.

The shaving parlor troubadors took a blue note and polished it up so even Gerswin would have approved. They hit it low and dreamy, high and plaintive, hot and heavy, sweet and swingy. They used any key they happened to like. The baritone would start at the bottom and zoom up the scale until he met the tenor coming down. When they met they tested it out and if it sounded good the other two joined in. The audience loved it.

All the Saturday night favorite tunes of the mustache cup and watchfob era came in for a thoro vocal mauling, including "Dear Old Girl," "Oh, Joe," "Down by the Old Mill Stream," and "Good-by My Coney Island Baby." They didn't overlook "I Had a Dream, Dear," "Pass the Biscuits Mirandy," or the "Kentucky" group.

What makes for a good barber shop quartet? Well, according to Frank H. Thorne, director of a chorus of 100 voices and member of the Elastic Four, "it takes four good men without a single inhibition, with or without tonsils, who will sing at the drop of a hat." He added they would harmonize for marbles, money, chalk, or fun.

Members of the eight quartets sang yesterday for fun. Four husky St. Louis policemen unloosed some of the best warbling of the afternoon on "As Long as You're Not in Love with Somebody Else," and then came thru with a burlesque on grand opera to remind the audience that Othello gave Desdemona the works on the same stage and that "Mandy Lee," in her circle, was as popular as Aida among the caviar set.

Herman Struble, tenor with the Elastic Four, joined in with a voice any opera singer would trade his whiskers for, when the group sang "Up the Lazy River," in barber shop style. The Harmony Halls, from Grand Rapids, Mich., uncorked the kind of vocalizing that won them the international championship.

The only women on the program were the Johnson Sisters, Ruby, Irene, Stella, and Harriet. Off the record, the barber shop boys explained they didn't permit women to join their organization. "Their place is in the home," they said, remembering an old one.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Somnolence.

It's strange that in the quiet night
I sometimes cannot sleep.
Before I reach the land of dreams
I count a million sheep.

Yet on the noisy, cold street car
When riding down to work,
I'll often slumber past my stop
Thru every jolt and jerk.

THE REAL WORD EXPERT.

Campaign Note.

Sally, our switchboard operator, think "what these politicians say about each other over the radio only should be said behind a person's back." DEE.

A Question.

It's amazing to me how many stenographers omit the question mark after a question in their letters. I've been at the old typewriter 20 years and a question [to me] still deserves a question mark. Or am I old fashioned? NOSEY ES.

Honorable Mention.

Lillian Cook and Florence Price, employed by the same Chicago wholesale hardware company, retiring at the age of 65 . . . honored by a dinner of 70 women co-workers . . . each entered business in the days of high collared shirtwaists, high buttoned shoes, and voluminous skirts.

Miss Cook, secretary to the same executive 35 of her 40 business years, is looking forward now to "ignoring the alarm clock" . . . intends to devote some time to volunteer war work . . . recalls she went to work after taking a secretarial course which she never completed because she was "hired too soon" . . . remembers business women were scarce in those days and people turned to stare at her . . . recalls her hair [now bobbed] was long, wound in a coronet braid . . . advises a young beginner "to do the job to the best of her ability, to keep an alert mind, always ready for the next task"

Miss Price also has been secretary to one man most of her business years. She, too, went to work fresh from business college with the idea of "helping out" during vacation . . . remembers she was the "outdoor type" and wore long, full skirts with plaid woolen linings . . . boasts she boldly bobbed her haid in the '20s . . . advise a prospective white collar girl to keep learning on her own initiative "and to accept responsibility readily" . . . thinks a good vocabulary important [a quality stressed by her first boss] . . . hopes "to get on a magic carpet" and travel when the war is over, and, meanwhile, like Miss Cook, will do volunteer war work.

ANSWERS TO SATURDAY'S QUIZ.

Q. 1—Partner opens with one spade and you hold:

♠KJ743 ♥62 ♦QJ4 ♣A75

What is your response?

A.—Two clubs. This sounds a little fancy but it is not really intended to. There is just no good bid available. The hand is too good for a single raise and not good enough for a jump raise which would be forcing to game. Therefore a temporary bid should be made, with the intention of raising spades once, regardless of partner's next bid. Don't get all excited about the fifth trump and jump to four spades.

Q. 2—You are South, vulnerable, and hold:

♠KJ84 ♥J1075 ♦102 ♣A96

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
Pass	1 club	1 heart	1 spade

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. This hand is not strong enough for an ordinary jump raise but you must remember that you once passed and also that your bid is not a force. Partner does not have to go on. Since he made a vulnerable overcall he must have a sound hand and should be given some inducement to go to game, rather than look upon your bid as a fight for the partial.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

♠A1097 ♥KJ4 ♦AJ75 ♣J2

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 clubs	Pass
3 diamonds	Pass	2 hearts	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	5 clubs	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Six clubs. It is true that you had a minimum hand to start with but the fact is that your hand contains all key cards, without a wasted spot. All your bids have been made under the pressure of your partner's previous forces and you have just what he needs.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠5 ♥KQ942 ♦K953 ♣K76

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 heart	Pass
3 hearts	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four clubs. This hand has definite slam possibilities. When you promote the king of clubs to a full trick by reason of partner's bid, you have the equal of an opening bid and partner has opened and jumped which strongly suggests a slam. The single spade may prove very vital. If partner replies by showing the ace of diamonds, you can gamble the slam yourself. This hand lends itself well to Blackwood treatment, since your principal concern is aces. The hand should be reasonably safe for five hearts.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠KQJ ♥AJ104 ♦63 ♣AQJ7

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	1 heart	Pass
3 hearts	Pass	4 clubs	Pass
4 hearts	Pass	5 hearts	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. Since partner has shown neither the ace of spades or the ace of diamonds you must presume he has neither and that the slam is therefore not makeable.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

♠A73 ♥AKQ642 ♦9 ♣AK4

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
2 hearts	Pass	3 no trump	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Don't get too worked up. Remember you needed everything you have to justify your opening two bid, and then you had to presume hearts would break fairly well. You should take no more drastic step at this point than rebidding the hearts or raising the no trump to four. [Not meaning to employ Blackwood.]

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠KQ93 ♥Q ♦K7 ♣AKQ1062

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	1 spade	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Four spades. Bearing in mind that any lesser bid might be passed by partner who is not the opener. Suppose partner for example had five spades to the jack and the queen of diamonds, and chanced a spade response. He would surely pass if you jumped to either three clubs or three spades.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

♠KQ754 ♥103 ♦2 ♣KQ1097

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South
1 spade	2 diamonds	?

What do you bid?

A.—Three clubs. This hand has bright prospects and it may be well to describe the good club suit prior to giving a strong spade raise on the next round. This is preferable to jumping in spades directly because it is more descriptive.

Smart Chick Is Hep to the Health Angle

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Take it from John Robert Powers. This beauty expert, who knows a smooth gal when he sees one, says that many girls deny themselves happiness and security because they console themselves with the dangerous adage, "Beauty is only skin deep." These honeychiles do not realize that the development of surface charm can promote appreciation of their true worth—the inner beauty. Of course, that inner beauty is what makes any gal an individual worth knowing, but if you can be attractive inside and outside, too — who are you to ask foolish questions!

on the SOLID side

Health and beauty are almost synonymous, and if you feel well you look well. So check down the list, see how you rate in the vim and vigor department, and then give yourself the works. Start out with your diet. Cut out most of the "sugar and spice and too many things nice" for the sake of your figure and substitute more fresh fruits and vegetables. Mothers are usually hep to what constitutes a healthy diet, so make it a point to eat everything prepared for you even if Thursday just isn't your day for broccoli and you never did like potatoes with the skins on them.

Count your breakfast as one of the most important meals of the day. You will probably brush off lunch with a quick sandwich and a malted or even less, and it may be well on toward evening before you have dinner—so a whole day has gone by with almost nothing inside to keep you ticking. If you're a narrow sparrow, thin and nervous, a doctor will be glad to recommend a diet to build you up, and if you are healthy but a little too chubby, too ship-shaped, an intelligent diet can help you to slow down on those curves. But get professional advice before you start experimenting.

And, of course, you'll put down nine hours of sleep every night in the week, including Saturday, on your list. It takes just that much shut-eye to keep you wide awake. And don't forget the exercise. A girl can get farther with one brisk shower and a long walk in the open air than she ever could with an eyelash curler and a copy of a Hollywood beauty magazine thrown in.

And for posture, poise, and pleasant thoughts there is nothing like walking with your feet well on the ground and your eyes on the stars. Your whole personality can be determined by the way you feel when you wake up in the morning. Any gal, including you, can be attractive on the inside and on the outside, and both at the same time — just take it from John Powers.

Looking at Hollywood

—By Hedda Hopper—

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 29.—George Cukor, doing added scenes for "I'll Be Seeing You" with Shirley Temple and Joe Cotten, cooled his heels and head and took a nap while waiting for four hours for Shirley to finish her schooling. Shirley's learning civics, but she's much more interested in two soldiers who waited outside the schoolroom till she'd finished her lesson. . . . I asked Robert Benchley if he'd had a good time in New York. He said, "Did I? Look!" And he stuck out his foot. He's got gout. . . . Ernie Pyle was here, called on Mrs. Thomas Treanor, and brought her some belongings which Tom left behind in London. Ernie expects to go to the South Pacific but not until December. . . . Metro has a new singing sensation, Marilyn Hansen. She turned down Nelson Eddy on the air to sing at Camp Roberts for the boys. . . . After much ballyhoo and threatening law suits, Jennifer Jones does a picture a year for five years for Twentieth. Darryl Zanuck told me no money crossed his palm—he just wanted clarification of a contract made in words but not on paper about Miss Jones while he was in the army. He gets her for five.

All Christianity.

David Selznick bought "The Scarlet Lily," prize winning novel about Mary Magdalene written by the Rev. Ed S. Murphy of Blessed Sacrament church in New Orleans. It will star Ingrid Bergman. I'm perfectly certain this announcement will bring on a raft of letters asking "Why can't Hollywood put any religion on the screen except Catholicism?" Well, we did "One Foot in Heaven," but, without any bias, it wasn't as good as "Keys of the Kingdom," "Going My Way" or even "Bernadette." Metro is still offering $125,000 for a religious story about a Protestant church. Might I ask, "Why not the life of Martin Luther? . . . Leo McCarey has more plans than a dog has fleas. He's making headway on his plans for an independent company.

Cheers and Hisses.

John Emery, once married to Tallulah Bankhead, plays her ex-lover in "The Royal Scandal." Can't you hear Ernst Lubitsch chuckle over that bit of casting? . . . Dan Duryea always knew it paid off being a heavy. Now it's paying double. He's doing two pictures at once—at Metro and International. . . . Mrs. Humphrey Bogart's mother is here to help. I didn't know Mayo ever needed any. . . . Sgt. Chet Swital writes to ask if it's true that Penrynn Stanlaws will paint my face and Salvador Dali the hat on top of it. 'Tain't true. When I'm painted I'm gonna get me a studio painter to do it. . . . Funniest thing I've heard is that while the Allbright twins painted a couple of pictures for "Picture of Dorian Gray," the studio had to pay for union painters to stand by. That money's gone into the kitty. Don't ask me which kitty.

Papa Knows.

I ran into Jerome Kern and asked about his daughter Betty. Said he, "You know when she was 17 she told everybody she was 20. Now that she's 25 I hope she isn't telling she's 35, because Mrs. Kern and I just celebrated our 34th wedding anniversary." . . . I begged Anita Loos to have a heart when she told me she was writing my life into the next Deanna Durbin picture at Felix Jackson's request. Just what that means I wouldn't be knowing. I haven't been asked to play it.

This Film Tale of Anesthesia Disappointing

"THE GREAT MOMENT."

"TAKE IT BIG."

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

Preston Sturges, whose reputation as an original has been striding with seven league boots, strides right into the realm of science with all the tact of a bull in a china shop. "The Great Moment," which purports to be his tribute to Dr. Morton, discoverer of a practical anesthetic which removed the torture from surgery, finds the austerities of medicine pretty dull going, and seeks to enliven them with such low comedy antics as the pratt fall, the cops and robbers chase with the precious fluid dropped at the crucial instant, and the constant presence with the young dentist of William Demarest, whose idea of humor is to use a patient on the operating table as a hatrack. A picture that might have held its head high in the company of "Pasteur" and "Mme. Curie" seeks instead a lower, almost completely undistinguished level.

That almost is in there in tribute to Harry Carey, who gives you a glimpse now and then of what the picture might have been. As Dr. Warren, the first surgeon courageous enough to try Morton's ether, he projects with a few keen strokes the inquisitive mind of the true scientist, the compassion of the true healer, the disciplined integrity of the professional man who knows when a fight is lost, however unfair the legal death blow. The best Mr. Sturges can do to put Morton on a similar plane is to have him give up the wealth of royalties on his letheon because at the end of the film he happens to see a little girl on her way to the operating room while the orchestra ever offstage in filmdom is playing "Ave Maria."

Told in a series of flashbacks, the story leans heavily on caricature, picturing President Pierce as a fatuous nincompoop and Dr. Jackson, who aided Morton, as a bleating old goat. More evidence is needed both for and against Morton, as hero and martyr. Joel McCrea's smooth face betrays none of his secrets, and the best Betty Field can do for his wife is to make her out a mighty dull woman.

If in your movie wanderings you happen on "Take It Big," run, do not walk, to the nearest exit.

REPEATED CONVERSATION.

Miss Silver took a seat beside the wheel chair and remarked that Bourne was a picturesque village and that the weather was delightful. As she did so she was observing the two sisters and their surroundings—the overcrowded room, its walls covered with dark oil paintings in the heavy gilt frames of a bygone day.

As a background to the Miss Doncasters nothing could have been more appropriate. She had not been five minutes in their company before she understood why kind Miss Sophy could find no warmer words for either than "Poor Lucy Ellen," and "Poor Mary Anne." There was a strong family resemblance between the sisters, but whereas Lucy Ellen was sharp and ferrety, Mary Anne was heavy and shapeless.

Without effort on her part Miss Silver found the conversation turning upon Mr. Harsch. It was Miss Mary Anne who introduced the subject of Mr. Earsch. Miss Sophy hastened to join in.

"I am sure we must all hope that the matter will be cleared up."

"I said so from the beginning. The jury said so at the inquest. There was never any doubt about the verdict. As I served on the jury I suppose I may be allowed to know."

Most distressing for all his friends," Miss Silver observed. "And is it true that he was engaged upon an invention of some value? How doubly distressing if he was not able to finish it."

"Really? How very interesting."

Miss Mary Anne said with unction:

"He finished it that very day—some last experiment, and a complete success. He rang up a Sir George Randal at the war office at half past six on Tuesday evening and arranged for him to come down next day. I heard him with my own ears."

Miss Silver looked mildly surprised.

"You heard him?"

Miss Doncaster said sharply:

"We are on a party line here—you can hear everything. It is most inconvenient."

Miss Mary Anne went on as if her sister had not spoken.

"You would be surprised at what you hear—people are most incautious. I had lifted my receiver, and I could hear everything he said. I remember I turned to Frederick Bush, who was setting up those shelves in the corner—he does all our odd jobs for us—and I said: 'There — Mr. Harsch has finished his invention—isn't that a good thing? Sir George Randal will be coming down from the war office about it tomorrow.' And he said: 'Then I expect Mr. Harsch'll be down at the church playing tonight. Last time I saw him he said he'd be down as soon as his work was done.'"

"Dear me!" said Miss Silver.

Miss Doncaster cut in with determination.

'Which goes to show that he had planned to take his life. Suicide—that's what I've said all along."

"Unless there's something in this story about Mr. Madoc," said Miss Mary Anne. "You know, Sophy, they say that he and Mr. Harsch had a quarrel over your Miss Brown."

Under her best hat Miss Sophy bridled.

"People will say anything. But there is no need to repeat it, Mary Anne."

It was perhaps as well that at this moment the door should have opened to admit Mrs. Mottram. She looked extremely pretty, and when she saw Miss Silver she uttered a scream of joy and addressed her as "Angel!"

"Because she was—she really was," she explained. "You see, I'd lost—but perhaps I'd better not say what, but it belonged—to my mother-in-law, and you know what mothers-in-law are—she'd never have believed I hadn't sold it, and then there would have been the devil to pay. And this angel got it back for me and practically saved my life."

She rolled her blue eyes and sat down beside Miss Silver, who patted her hand and said in kind but repressive tones:

"That will do, my dear—we will say no more about it."

Miss Doncaster said in acid tones.

"I notice that you have gone out of mourning."

"Well, I only put it on because of my mother-in-law, and it's so long——"

"When I was a girl," said Miss Doncaster, "the rule for a widow used to be one year of weeds and crepe, one year of plain black, six months of gray, and black and white, and six months of gray and white, hellotrope, and purple."

"Well, when a fashion's dead it's dead," Mrs. Mottram said. She turned to Miss Silver with a marked access of warmth. "I'm sure I interrupted something frightfully important when I came in—you all had that sort of look. Do go on, or I shall think you were talking about me."

"Would that be 'frightfully important?'" said Miss Doncaster.

Miss Silver said gravely, "We were talking about poor Mr. Harsch, and how sad it was that he should have met his death just when his work had been crowned with success. Miss Mary Anne was being so very interesting. She happened to be on the telephone and she actually heard him telling some one at the war office that his work was done."

"Sir George Randal," said Miss Mary Anne. "'Completely successful' was the expression Mr. Harsch used, referring to a final experiment."

"O, yes, you told us. Do you remember, Mr. Everton had come in to bring you some eggs—and I came with him. You told us all about it then. And I'm sure none of us thought the poor sweet was going to be snatched away like that. And what's the good of going on talking about it all the time?" I asked Mr. Everton this afternoon if he didn't think it was morbid, and he said he did. I mean, it isn't going to bring him back."

"In fact we are to go thru life ignoring what is unpleasant," said Miss Doncaster. "I was brought up to face things, and not to put my head in the sand. You seem to see a great deal of Mr. Everton."

"He's frightfully kind," said Ida Mottram. "He made my henhouse out of some frightfully old packing cases. And he's marvelous with the wireless. He knew at once mine needed a new valve, and he got me one when he was in Marbury on Monday, and came over and fixed it up for me and all. He really is the kindest man. But isn't it funny, Bunty doesn't like him at all."

Ida Mottram broke into girlish laughter.

"Is that what people are saying? What a joke! Of course, when there is only one man in the place, I suppose people have to make the most of him. You can't really count the rector, can you? But I might see if I can get up the faintest breath of scandal about him, just to take their minds off Mr. Everton. Suppose I got something in my eye after church on Sunday and asked him to take it out—it's an old dodge but quite a good one. What do you think?"

Miss Sophy smiled and said, "I think you talk a great deal of nonsense, my dear."

Quick coffee fudge is made with confectioners' sugar and hot coffee and is a good candy to pack into that Thanksgiving box for the soldier in camp. For traveling in good shape, it could be packed in a solid mass in a can or tin box, to be cut or "dug out" by the recipient.

Quick Coffee Fudge.

1 tablespoon shortening
1 pound sifted confectioners' sugar
¾ cup strong, hot coffee

Melt chocolate and shortening over hot water. Add salt, and stir in sugar and coffee alternately. Beat until thoroly blended. Pour into greased pan. Cool and cut into squares.

Frozen cooked squash is being sold at bargain prices until Nov. 11 by a prominent frozen food company, in order to make room in storage for the new pack. Frozen squash is good simply seasoned and served as a vegetable; it also makes good pies and custards. Here's an excellent way to serve it with your roast wild or domestic duck or goose.

Squash with Orange.

[Serves four.]

1 package frozen cooked squash, thawed
2 tablespoons margarine
2 tablespoons brown sugar or honey
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
2 tablespoons orange juice

The fresh pear crop is good this year. Now is the time to eat the russet colored Boscs, those long necked pears which are so juicy when ripe. Their season ends about Christmas time. If your pears are hard when you buy them, let them stand at room temperature until they soften enough to be as delicious as they should be.

Remember that you can stretch that half pound ration of butter for table use by adding milk and gelatin. Soften 2 teaspoons of plain gelatin in 2 tablespoons cold water, then place over hot water and stir until dissolved. Cut ½ pound butter into small pieces and soften the butter to a beatable consistency, but do not let it melt. Add dissolved gelatin and ¼ teaspoon salt to 1 cup milk. Whip milk into butter gradually, using electric or rotary beater. A few drops of yellow coloring may be added. Pack into container and chill. Use this butter only for spreading, not for cooking.

New Supplies of Broadcloth Are on Market

BY REA SEEGER.

Collections of patrician black broadcloth, fashioned into sleek suits, coats, and ensembles of dress and coat, have been unwrapped here. Broadcloth as soft and supple as heavy satin, of discreet shimmer, is undeniably the most distinguished of fabrics used for dressup clothes. Fastidious women welcome such clothes with intense satisfaction, for broadcloth beautifully made assures superlative grooming.

In one collection you'll see suit costumes made with the new long jacket, the length that swings around the knee line. The waist lines are belted or deftly shirred in to define a normal belt, while the necklines are appreciably softer in outline than those of the tailored jackets of tweed or heavy duty woolens. Sleeves are long and fitted with little decorative accent to detract from the sheen of the broadcloth.

One slim dress costume has a long jacket lined with scarlet. Around the lower edge and along the deep side slits of the jacket is an inch-wide band of Persian lamb. Another dress has a dramatic yoke of shiny white paillettes as the only contrast for the black. The companion jacket has braid buttons.

Broadcloth coats, definitely dress parade, will be fastened with jet buttons. Suits promised for early arrival will be decoratively accented with silk braid and braid buttons on the jacket, while the skirts will be meticulously seamed and fitted. More and more broadcloth costumes will arrive in the next few weeks, all for special occasions when full dress is not obligatory.

Thru the Looking Glass

The beauty problem of teen-agers may seem insignificant to some of us but to the adolescents who are plagued with skin that is over oily and subject to blemishes, there is no more desperate situation that they can imagine. A troublesome complexion is a very real dark spot on the teen-agers' horizon, and one beauty expert has made the prevention and correction of their particular skin ills her pet project. She has done a fine job, developing some excellent preparations that have been helpful to scores of youngsters, boys as well as girls.

Wisely enough, she stresses the need for absolute cleanliness of the skin and has a liquid facial soap that is a perfect cleansing agent for young skins. There is also a medicated ointment for blemishes, and left on over night it is highly effective in banishing irritations.

She carries her program of combating skin ills right into her cosmetics with an antiseptic protective lotion that is both a flattering powder base and a shield for the delicate skin that is prone to infection. The lotion is medicated and provides protection while it gives the complexion a pretty finish. It makes an ideal foundation for young girls whose skins might be irritated by heavier makeup bases and for older women whose skins are troublesome.

The lotion looks like a liquid powder and is available in several different tints to match various skin tones. It's to be applied with a bit of cotton after the skin has been cleansed and thoroly dried. It will spread readily and can be blended so that it gives a look of velvety, natural smoothness to the complexion.

None of these products is expensive and as complexion beauty guards for young skins they're ideal.

Polish Women Singers Please in 2 Concerts

Three Polish singers, all talented, appeared in concert last night, the well known Valerie Glowacka singing at Curtiss hall with the Chicago Symphonique orchestra under the direction of Sarah Louise Bates, while the Polish Chicago Women's club presented Jadwiga Furmaniak, soprano, and Marja Gruszczynska, contralto, at Kimball hall to benefit the Gen. Sikorski relief fund.

Miss Glowacka sang Cherubino's aria from Mozart's "The Marriage of Figaro" and Protheroe's "Sing Again" with the ease of the competent professional while the brave little orchestra, doing its best to follow its ardent young leader, walked on musical eggs and broke a good many in the process. Robert Macdonald was the accompanist at Kimball hall and he must have found it a pleasure, as both of his charges were musicians with exceptional voices. Miss Furmaniak is a slender brunette with a lyric soprano of singular brightness and grace and with a hint of that spinning projection that can fill and captivate an opera house. Her way with the "Snow Maiden" aria was altogether charming.

Miss Gruszczynska, who once went to Italy on a Rosa Raisa scholarship, looks like a contralto Jenny Lind. Her voice has a curiously lovely timbre, a little high, and quite pungent. She is an artist in the song repertory, and her singing of "Amarilli" and "In Questa Tomba Oscura" had a kind of dark radiance many people would like the chance to discover.

The chief trouble with Sarah Gorby's recital at Kimball hall yesterday afternoon was that it was not a recital and it did not belong in a recital hall. Miss Gorby has a minor talent for café singing best displayed in folk songs of strong Russian or Jewish rhythms. She would be at her best a cozy little room with a specialized clientele, and her best would be good because she is an attractive girl with a small but vivid voice and a flair for intimate characterization. Marina Dorn played good accompaniments, but was not quite so good when she tackled Debussy on her own.—C. C.

War Vet Students at U. of C. to Take Placement Tests

Returning war veterans who enter the University of Chicago will take placement tests which will enable them to start their study at the level for which they are prepared, regardless of their academic records, the university announced yesterday with the publication of a booklet, "Veterans' Education under the Chicago Plan." It is addressed to those planning to study under the G. I. bill of rights or the vocational rehabilitation program.

For veterans, as well as for all other students, the university will continue to emphasize liberal education as against vocational training, it was said. The educational methods which it has been developing since 1930, stressing attainment rather than credits, will enable the university to satisfy the desire of veterans to complete their educations as rapidly as their abilities and training permit, the booklet asserted.

Household Forum

By Louise Barger

Mrs. John S., Detroit, Mich.—This last summer my husband drove short lengths of pipe flush with the ground, and spaced them on the lawn so they would hold croquet stakes and wickets. In this way we didn't have to measure the court every time we wanted to play a few croquet games, and the holders were hardly visible—nor did they interfere with the lawnmower.

Mrs. Ethel J., Chicago—If you are new at housekeeping don't use anything sharp to loosen your ice cube trays or to chip frost from evaporator. You not only run the risk of scratching the finish, but of puncturing the coils that hold the freezing fluid.

Mrs. Aggie A., Oak Park—I take out my oven broiler pan when my oven is in use for baking or roasting. One burner serves both broiler and oven compartments and I have found it pays not to subject broiler pan to long and intensive heat.

Pressing Need of Wheel Chair and Radio Told

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

A hospital social worker has sent an urgent request on behalf of an invalid. She has been in the hospital for some time, and since all her money is gone, it will be necessary for her to go on relief at the time of her release. Because of her physical condition, she is unable to stand, and because she will, of necessity, live alone in a furnished room, she cannot be released until a wheel chair can be found for her. She is small and thin. A wheel chair of the self-propelling type would be the most useful to her.

If any reader has a radio which is no longer needed, we would like it for an invalid on the south side. He is confined to bed and in a cast with a broken back. A radio which was his only source of pleasure was recently stolen from his home, and the small amount of insurance he has provides for little more than food and shelter.

Another invalid is in need of blankets and sheets. This man is a victim of infantile paralysis and is badly crippled. His wife earns a sufficient salary to provide for necessities but cannot purchase needed bedding and linens. The address is on the west side.

Many Babies Are Unhappy if Left Alone

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Today's letter is similar in many ways to a number that I have received from mothers of small children. It reads as follows:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans:

"I hope you can help me. My son, 20 months old, will not stay out on the porch alone. If he would only stay out there, I would know he was out of mischief and could do my work.

"I've tried putting him out on the porch, closing the door and letting him cry and scream. But he only ended by vomiting. Even so I've tried this several times but to no avail.

"If I should sit out there with him he is fine."

To this mother I wrote the following letter which will be helpful if you are faced with this problem:

"I would like to be able to tell you exactly how you can change your little boy so that he will be perfectly happy all by himself on the porch. However, I am afraid there is no such magic that I can recommend, because children vary a great deal even when they are little about being left by themselves in a play pen or any small area like a porch.

"Any one who has had a great deal of experience with children knows that they go thru odd, brief phases of behavior for which we cannot always understand the reason, phases which in a comparatively short time they will outgrow. That is a fact we have to accept quite often if our efforts at correction have failed; following which the chief thing is to be patient and indulgent, and avoid creating those situations which make such a tiny child unhappy.

"It is quite clear, from what you say, that the crying and screaming which set up such emotional and physical turmoil simply do not work. If you have done everything you can by putting some interesting playthings on the porch and even a little sandbox with shovel and pail, and nothing avails, then I would advise you for the next few months to let your little boy play indoors when you have to be indoors, and out on the porch when you have things to do there or on the grounds near-by."

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 29. — The Green Bay Packers, winners of five consecutive victories in the Western division of the National Football league, made it No. 6 today with a rather hard earned 14 to 0 decision over an obdurate band of Detroit Lions before a crowd of 30,844 in Briggs stadium. It was the second Packer triumph over the Lions, the visitors having taken an earlier 27 to 6 argument in Milwaukee, but this afternoon's contest proved to be more on the snug side.

Altho the Lion offense never got rolling farther than the Green Bay 13 yard mark, in the second quarter, the local gents did manage to restrain the Wisconsin team to a scoreless second half and they also detained Don Hutson, the Packers' great end, who had to be content with making two extra points.

Score in First Five Minutes.

The Packers went to the front, 7 to 0, in the first five minutes after a 47 yard drive that involved 12 plays. They didn't improve that advantage until the final 32 seconds of the half, when Joe Laws fielded a 30 yard pass from Irv Comp in the Detroit end zone.

The Packers made two futile field goal attempts, Hutson missing from the Lion 43 yard mark in the opening quarter and from the 33 yard stripe in the final period. A third placement effort, made by Frank Sinkwich, the hard running Detroit back, went wide of the posts from the Packer 36 yard line in the last quarter. It was the first time the Lions had failed to score in a game since Gus Dorais became their coach last season.

Few Passes Completed.

The teams were almost equal in the final statistical reckoning, Green Bay leading in first downs, 11 to 10, and in rushing yardage, 115 to 103. Comp and Tony Canadeo, who handled the pitching for Green Bay, completed only eight out of 26, three of these being caught by Hutson for a personal total of 37 yards.

After Detroit had failed to do any business following acceptance of the opening kick-off, Green Bay went to work on the Detroit 47 and ground out a touchdown. Comp's pass to Hutson failed on the Detroit 8 yard line. Then Ted Fritsch picked up 2 at left end, and Comp whipped a short pass to Hutson, also was run out of bounds on the Lion 30 yard mark. Fritsch lost 2, but Comp swept the defensive right end to the 17 yard line. A Comp-Hutson pass again failed to come off, and Fritsch was stopped at the line.

Fritsch Goes Over.

Comp couldn't connect with Hutson, and on the next play, Don worked the end-around number to the Detroit 5 yard line, from where Joe Laws and Fritsch alternated in hitting the line, with the latter going over from the 2 foot line. Hutson added the point.

In the closing minutes of the second period, Green Bay took possession on its own 33 yard line, and proceeded to score its second touchdown, Laws outrunning the Lion secondary to make a tidy catch of Comp's pass in the end zone. Statistics:

	Detroit.	Green Bay.
Number of first downs	10	11
Yards gained by rushing	103	115
Net yards gained by passing	93	112
Forward passes attempted	19	26

Back in the moments of too blissful calm,
Back when the moon was high and stars hung low,
Back when all life was still a tranquil psalm.

I can remember when the summer breeze
Tenderly tinkled laughter, just for fun,
Similar to crystal drops the Japanese
Hung on our porches . . . while they made a gun!

I was not startled, for I knew the sky
Surely was falling, storms presage their birth
With a bright calm and unostensive sigh
Lulling to sleep the creatures of the earth.

Gayly and unrepressed, the same as you,
Now . . . with our hearts well stocked, we sail our craft

Just a Soldier's Dog.

Jocko was Capt. Frank Hoffman's dog,
But each of the kids claimed a share,
For wherever the neighborhood tots held forth,
Jocko was sure to be there.
A little black bundle of friendliness,
Peppy and cheery and gay,
Thru the long golden hours of the summer,
He ranged with the children at play.

Then suddenly on an evening still,
The screaming of brakes rent the air,
A car raced away leaving Jocko
Dead in the roadway there;
And so solemn and hushed a funeral
You never, perhaps, have seen,
As the children soberly laid him away
There in the meadow's green.

'Twill be pretty blue news for the captain
On some far off battle front,
What a pity the age of motor cars
Must entail so many regrets,
It has brought such a lot of sorrow
To the kids and their neighborhood pets.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

Sid Luckman cracked the whip for the Chicago Bears yesterday and his act virtually chased the Cleveland Rams from the National Football league's championship arena. A crowd of 23,644 applauded as the Bears' veteran field general, on week-end leave from the maritime service, led the way to a 28 to 21 victory in Wrigley field.

The husky ensign pitched only one touchdown, but he was in there calling the plays on the three other scoring forays. The Bears led at the half, 21 to 7, but the Rams, fighting desperately to escape elimination, roared back for the two tying touchdowns in the third period. Without much delay in the final quarter Luckman reached deep for an old Bear play, the naked reverse, and sprang loose Rookie Al Grygo for a 66 yard touchdown gallop.

Packers Here Next Sunday.

In losing their second consecutive game after having won three straight the Rams found their title bubble in the Western division somewhat deflated, with the Green Bay Packers picking up their sixth straight triumph in Detroit. But Luckman's arm and gridiron savvy now stand between the Packers and their bid for an unbeaten campaign. The teams meet Sunday in Wrigley field. Yesterday marked the Bears' second success against two losses and a tie.

But for the gifted Luckman's presence, the Bears perhaps would have fallen a victim for the second time this year to the Rams. The noise of Ringmaster Sid's whip awakened even Gary Famiglietti, who has been on a prolonged slumber most of the campaign. The burly full back crashed for 35 yards in three trips on the touchdown journey on which the Bears broke a 7 to 7 tie in the second quarter.

As for his personal performance, Luckman completed 10 passes in 16 pitches for 114 yards.

Bears Throttle Rams' Offense.

The Rams' celebrated tricky running offense was so effectively throttled that the first half score sheet showed a deficit of 35 yards from scrimmage. But once Jim Benton was in the right place for a touchdown throw by little Aible Reisz, freshman from Southeastern Louisiana. Jim caught another scoring pass in that two-touchdown third quarter.

CHICAGO HOCKEY SCORING SORTIE FAILS

RAMS FAN OUT, BLUSH AS BEARS DO SALLY RAND

Football's most frank play, which is called the naked reverse, was a game winner yesterday for the Bears against the Cleveland Rams and as such probably deserves explanatory treatment. The Bears, who are modest fellows, call it the Sally Rand, but each is the same.

Football strategists never can tell you how famous plays originated. The best the Bears could do yesterday in digging into the naked reverse's past was to come up with the information that Jim Conzelman's Washington university of St. Louis elevens bowled over all Missouri Valley opponents with the maneuver. In 1940, Conzelman became coach of the Chicago Cardinals and on an autumnal night startled the Bears with the naked reverse in Comiskey park. A Cardinal ran some 70 yards for a score and the Cards won the game—the last time, incidentally, that they have whipped the Bears.

Play Is Explained.

Works at Right Time.

The Bears tried it four times yesterday. The first time Grygo went 31 yards for a touchdown, but the Bears were penalized when Bulldog Turner held. Actually, argued the Bears, Bulldog threw a perfect block on his man, then sat on him, which he is allowed to do, if he can. But it worked at the right time when Grygo raced for 66 yards in the fourth quarter.

Eagles Still Going; Defeat Giants, 24-17

New York, Oct. 29 (AP).—The Philadelphia Eagles came roaring back in the second half to defeat the New York Giants, 24 to 17, in the Polo Grounds today and retain a share of first place in the eastern division of the National Football league.

Trailing 10 to 17 at the half after the Giants had cashed in on two Philadelphia fumbles, the Eagles moved 46 yards for a touchdown in the third period and added the clincher in the fourth on a 45 yard drive.

The Giants came close to putting on a story book finish for the crowd of 42,639 when Arnie Herber connected with a 34 yard pass to O'Neale Adams on the 16 yard mark in the last 5 seconds but the Giant end just failed to break away from two tacklers.

YANKS BEAT TIGERS, 17-14.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Oct. 29 (AP).—Augie Lio's 12 yard field goal late in the final period gave the Boston Yankees their first National Football league victory today, 17 to 14, over the Brooklyn Tigers.

Ed Mogee, former Temple star, set up the score with only 3 minutes of play remaining by catching Frank Sasche's pass on the Tiger 35 and taking it all the way to the 10 before being spilled. Two plays carried to the 7 but an offside penalty sent the Bostonians back to the 12, from where Lio kicked it.

It was the fifth straight defeat for Brooklyn and the first triumph after four defeats for the Yanks, who entered the league this year.

BONDY, GIANTS' VICE PRESIDENT, TREASURER DIES

New York, Oct. 29 (AP).—Leo J. Bondy, 61, vice president and treasurer of the New York Giants' baseball club of the National league, died this morning in New York hospital. A native of Pottsville, Pa., he had been associated with the Giants since 1918, serving as club attorney. He was named vice president in 1934 after the death of John McGrew, former manager, and had been treasurer for about 14 years.

Bondy, who lived in New Rochelle, N. Y., is survived by his widow, Bessie; his mother, Mrs. Hattie Bondy, and one brother and one sister, Sydney Bondy and Mrs. Blanche Hirschorn, all of New York City.

MARCH FIELD'S 65 YARD PASS NAVY TEAM, 7-0

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 29 (AP).—Striking swiftly just after the fourth period started, the 4th air force flyers of March field scored on a 65 yard touchdown pass today to defeat a hard fighting St. Mary's navy preflight eleven, 7 to 0, in Kezar stadium.

WORLD SERIES MAKES 32 CUBS $231 WEALTHIER

The recent world series labors of the Cardinals and Browns in St. Louis were worth $7,739.77 to the Chicago Cubs, fourth place finishers in the National league's 1944 race, Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis' office revealed yesterday. The Cubs voted to divide this financial melon into 27 shares of $231.04, five shares of $231.03, and three more shares of $115.52 each.

Jimmy Foxx, whose status was changed from that of player to coach in midseason, and who was not with the club at the finish; Manager Charley Grimm and his staff of coaches, Trainer Andy Lotshaw, and all players who even approached the rating of regulars were in the $231 class. Paul Gillespie, Jimmy Chalikas, and Joe Stephenson were given $115.52 each.

Hoppe Is Hospitalized by Attack of Dysentery

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 29 [Special].—Iowa Pre-Flight's powerful Seahawks, beaten only by Michigan, had little trouble in hanging up their sixth consecutive victory at the expense of Marquette university today. A crowd of 8,000 saw the preflight eleven win, 26 to 0.

Schleich Recovers Fumble.

Late in the scoreless first quarter, Tackle Vic Schleich of the Seahawks recovered a Marquette fumble on the Hilltoppers' 38 to set up their initial scoring drive. Don Samuels ran to the 24 and Bob Sullivan picked up 3 more yards before the end of the quarter. Full Back Bus Mertes went thru for a first down on the 12 as the second quarter opened, and then added another on the 1 foot line. From there Taylor sneaked thru center to score, and Schleich tacked on the extra point.

It was only minutes later that the Seahawks found themselves on their own 25 after intercepting a Marquette pass, and on second down Bob Smith broke loose around left end and went to the Hilltoppers' 25. Taylor recovered Smith's fumble for another first down on the 12, and on third down he sneaked thru center for his second touchdown of that quarter. Schleich failed to add the extra point, and Iowa Pre-Flight led at half time, 13 to 0.

Two Quick Ones.

It didn't take long for the navy boys to make the score decisive with two quick touchdowns early in the second half. They received the kickoff on their 31, and after Charley Woodward had picked up 7, Don Samuels of Oregon State, romped around right end and went all the way, 62 yards, to reach the end zone. Schleich failed to convert and the Hawks led, 19 to 0.

After receiving the next kickoff, Marquette tried a pass but Kerry Benka's toss was intercepted by Woodward, who returned 24 yards for a touchdown. However, the Seahawks were caught clipping on the play and were penalized back to the Hilltoppers' 15. Taylor made 1, and Woodward then ran around left end for a first down on the 3. From there he crashed for a touchdown and Schleich added the point that made it 26 to 0.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The largest crowd which ever paid to see a National Hockey league opening game here or anywhere—18,618—last night in Chicago Stadium saw the Toronto Maple Leafs pour on one of the worst lickings ever absorbed by a Hawk team on its home ice in the 19 years of the Chicago club's existence. The score was Toronto, 11; Chicago, 5, and the Hawks, who scored first, did not make their second goal until the Leafs had made six.

The record crowd, combined with the record flop by what Manager Paul Thompson had hoped might be a war time big league hockey team, despite the absence of Doug Bentley, George Allen, Art Wiebe, and Cully Dahlstrom of last year's Stanley cup finalists, was expected to send the chagrined but aggressive Hawk management on a drive for help. It is believed fans will not be asked to jam the big rink on Madison street for many performances like the 18,618 witnessed last night.

Hawks Hopelessly Outclassed.

True, the Hawks were willing enough, but for almost two periods they were hopelessly outclassed and rarely operated in Toronto territory. The fact they made five goals did not deceive anybody, for all but one were made while the Leafs were practicing goal shooting, which is more interesting to all record-hungry hockey players than practicing on defense.

The scores as the Hawks made goals after Johnny Harms of the Hawks had made the first goal of the night and the Leafs had gone ahead in a span of 32 seconds, were 6-1, 7-2, 7-3, 8-3, 8-4, 9-4, 10-4, 11-4, and 11-5. So, you see, the Leafs weren't worrying much about an occasional Hawk goal after they had put the victory in the brine.

Scored for Chicago.

Since those Hawks who did score probably will stick around, you may be interested in knowing that the Chicago scores were made by Harms, Bill Mosienko, Clint Smith, Earl Seibert, and Bill Thoms. Credited with assists were Smith, Thoms, Seibert, and Brayshaw.

Top scorers for the Leafs were Lorne Carr, with 3 goals and 2 assists; Sweeney Schriner, back in action after a year in the Canadian army, with 3 goals and 2 assists and Gus Bodnar, with 1 goal and 4 assists.

Opposition Slightly Different.

The Hawks spent almost a month in a training camp in Hibbing, Minn., where they conducted more than 40 drills. It may have been that observers were deceived because in Hibbing the Hawk forwards were practicing against Hawk defense men and Hawk defense men were defending against Hawk forwards. The situation was somewhat different before those 18,618, some of whom even bought seats in the press box they were that eager to see the Hawks.

GRYGO'S 66 YARD RUN HELPS BEARS BEAT RAMS, 28-21

the Bears piled up 274 yards rushing to the Rams' 29. In the air they had a 114 to 94 edge. And in the process they gave away 83 yards on 10 penalties, while the Rams were assessed only 20 on four minor infractions.

Margarita Starts Scoring.

Grygo gained 144 yards in 13 attempts, while Margarita picked up 46 yards in eight tries. Famiglietti drove 92 yards in 18 smashes.

Midway in the first quarter Capt. George Wilson blocked Tom Colella's quick kick and the Bears moved from their own 47 on eight plays for the first touchdown. The first big gainer was Luckman's 16 yard pass to the Rams' 21. From the 11, Margarita sped around the Cleveland left end and tumbled over, knocking two Rams out of the way.

Pete Gaudauskas, who had a perfect day, kicked the first of four extra points. Colella's 61 yard punt knocked the Bears back to their 25 and, when Johnny Long fumbled while maneuvering to throw a pass, Walt West recovered on the Bears' 34.

Cleveland Ties Score.

On the final play of the first quarter, Lou Zontini passed in the flat to West, who ran to the 16. On the first play of the second quarter, Reisz passed over Margarita's head to Benton in the end zone. Zontini kicked the first of three successive points.

Grygo came back 25 yards to the Chicago 38 on the kick-off, and on the first play he raced 32 yards, aided by Ed Sprinkle's fine blocking. Luckman's pass was taken by Margarita on the 22 and Bob ran to the 14. Then Famiglietti took care of the remaining yardage in four smacks, going over from the 2.

After Grygo came back to his 23 in handling a punt, the Bears proceeded to ring up No. 3, with Famiglietti continuing his amazing drive. He hit for 6, 17, and, after Luckman's 7 yard pass to Margarita, bolted for 12 to the Cleveland 33. Grygo ran over the goal on a reverse, but the Bears were penalized to the 31 for holding. After minor gains, Luckman pitched to Connie Mack Berry. At the goal line, John Petchel tipped the ball, but Berry caught it and stepped over for a lead which became 21 to 7 after Gadauskas kicked the extra point.

Rams Score Second Touchdown.

From the Bears' 43, the Rams scored their second touchdown early in the third period. In the series, Benton caught a pass from Reisz for 22 yards and from the Chicago 21 the Clevelanders hammered to the goal, West going over from the 5.

Luckman's 13 yard loss on an attempted pass soon had the Bears in a hole and Sid punted dead on his own 46. On third down Benton took a 16 yard pass from Reisz, and West hit left tackle for 13. Zontini got 4 to the 13. Reisz failed on three passes, then whipped a low one near the goal posts at the north end. Benton made the catch on the 1 and rolled over for the score with two minutes of the period left.

Grygo Scores on 66 Yard Run.

At the beginning of the fourth quarter Grygo returned Reisz' punt to the Bears' 33. Margarita got a yard to set up the next play, which was Grygo's game winning 66 yard dash. On the maneuver Luckman handed the ball to Grygo, crossing over from right half. With the Rams' defense pulled to the left and Bear blockers tipping over defenders, Al had almost clear sailing as he raced down the west side lines. The last necessary block was thrown by Wilson at the 30.

EJECT 4 PLAYERS AS REDSKINS RIP CARD-PITT, 42-20

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29 [Special].—The passes of Frankie Filchock and Sammy Baugh hurled the combined forces of the Chicago Cardinals and the Pittsburgh Steelers to a 42 to 20 loss and their fifth straight defeat of the season today in Griffith stadium before a crowd of 35,000.

Four players were expelled from the rough and tumble affair that found the Redskins scoring in every period while the Card-Pitts were bunching all their scores in the final two quarters.

Police Quell Fist Fights.

The Redskin's Jim North and the Card-Pitts' Cliff Duggan were the first to be sent to the showers and a few moments later Joe Aguirre, Washington's big end who scored the first two touchdowns, and Tony Bova, Card-Pitts' end, were the next offenders to feel the wrath of the officials. Police rushed onto the field twice to quell the budding free-for-all late in the first half.

The first time the Redskins got their hands on the ball, Filchock tossed to Aguirre for a touchdown. Filchock stood on his own 43 and let go a heave that sailed into Aguirre's hands on the 33 and he ran unmolested to pay dirt. It was this combination that scored again in the second quarter. This time Frankie was standing on his 22 and Aguirre grabbed the ball out of the air on the 12 and raced the remaining distance.

Johnny Grigas Tallies.

Johnny Grigas put the Card-Pitts back in the ball game in the early moments of the third period when Ted Doyle recovered Wilbur Moore's fumble on the kick-off. Grigas worked the ball up to the 1 yard line before plunging over for the score. It was Grigas who scored the final tally for his team and this time it was from the 8 yard line that the former Holly Cross star smashed over.

Wilbur Moore scored No. 3 for the Redskins on a sensational 75 yard sprint to put Washington into a 21 to 7 lead as the third period ended.

Grigas whipped one of his lightninglike passes to Don Currivan for the second Card-Pitt score early in the final quarter. Bob Seymour accounted for two of the remaining three Redskin markers. The first came when he plunged over from the 3 and the second as the result of a pass from Baugh.

The final counter of the game came with only two seconds remaining and this time Baugh flipped a 35 yard aerial to Doug Turley.

Sports Club, Hansa Upset Soccer Foes

BY OFFSIDE.

The Schwabens and Swedish-Americans suffered upset defeats and the Vikings barely escaped a similar fate as Illinois state soccer cup competition was opened with the playing of first round matches yesterday.

The Chicago Sports club, with only 10 men in the lineup thruout the game, emerged with a surprise triumph over the Schwabens, 3 to 1, in Lane Tech stadium, and the Swedish-Americans were vanquished, 1 to 0, by Hansa in Yates stadium in another upset of pregame calculations.

The Vikings and Sparta battled 90 minutes to a 1 to 1 tie in a game which was awarded to the Vikings, 2 to 1, because Sparta failed to engage in an extra period of competition.

Art Benesch scored the only goal Hansa needed to defeat the Swedish-Americans, and Eddie Mai booted home two goals in the Chicago Sports club's 2 to 1 triumph. His first goal, in the second period, broke a 1 to 1 tie, and he later added another for good measure. Sports club's two Willies—Riebe in goal and Preiss at full back—were standouts on defense.

The Vikings had to make an uphill fight against Sparta, which went into the lead after 20 minutes of play on a penalty shot goal by Jimmy Wolf. Twenty-five minutes of the second half had elapsed before Nels Dalquist, assisted by Jimmy McDermott, counted for the Vikings to tie the score. Play was extremely rough, and Ernie Kuehl and Neno Talmorini were ejected from the game by Referee Robert Jones.

It was Referee Jones who awarded the Vikings a 2 to 1 victory when Sparta, lacking reserves, refused to play to a decision.

NORMAN NAVY UPSETS DOBBS, 2D AIR FORCE, 13-7

Norman, Okla., Oct. 29 (AP).—The homecoming of Glenn Dobbs, 2d air force star back, turned out unfortunately for him as the Norman Navy Zoomers upset the Flyers, 13 to 6, today.

The game, billed as an offensive battle between Dobbs, former Tulsa star, and Len Eshmont, former Fordham ace, became instead a fine defensive football game.

YUKON INDIANS LET 'GUVMENT' CARE FOR THEM

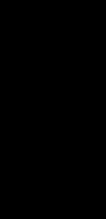
BY FRANK STURDY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Galena, Alaska, Oct. 29.—An Indian village lies on the bank of the Yukon river a short distance from the air transport command Galena base on the Alaska-Siberia route. Ordinarily the population is about 60, but Indians from the bush have come in to work for civilian army contractors, and the town now has a population of about 250.



Rev. J. F. McElmeel.

The established families live in log cabins, mainly of one room. The transients have erected tents with board sidings. Stove pipes stick thru the tops of the canvas in which they live thruout the winter when temperatures go to 50 degrees below zero.

Cabins and tents alike are planted on the river edge without any semblance of order, except that they follow more or less closely a narrow stretch of mud utilized as a road. They look as tho they had been thrown upon the river bank out of a giant dice box and left where they fell.

Men and officers of the base sometimes go to the village for a meal, about the only diversion they have aside from movies and the scant forms of recreation usual at the bush air bases. In one of the three small stores run by white traders, they can get a caribou steak for $4.

Indians Live in Squalor.

The Indians live in a rank squalor they find quite comfortable and convenient. They hunt and fish, work when in the mood at the air base, and become intoxicated on Scotch whisky when in the money. The town has been declared part of the air base, and whisky cannot be sold there, but the Indians have friends bring it to them from settlements farther up the Yukon or buy from itinerant traders.

Their casual unconcern for dirt is responsible for a considerable number of cases of impetigo and other skin diseases. Capt. E. C. Margaret of Glenwood, Ia., flight surgeon in charge of the Galena base dispensary, frequently is called upon by the Indians for assistance when their aches and pains become severe. He has seen cases of skin disease of such long duration that they have gone thru stages of development apparently unknown in civilized communities, and are difficult to diagnose, almost unrecognizable when brought to his attention. Altho they will ask for medical help, the Indians cannot be persuaded to follow the doctor's orders to assist in their own cure. They want to be given medicine, and expect it to repair them practically on the spot.

Indians Die Young.

Children are the sorriest victims of ill health, and all Indians seem to age rapidly. At 30, they frequently look like men and women of 50. They die young, many in their 40s.

Parents seem to have the traditional affection for their young, but it is not expressed in careful attention to them. The children are more or less self-reliant, for better or worse. In this latitude, during the summer, the sun shines virtually around the clock, and it is not uncommon to find children playing in the village at 1 or 2 o'clock in the morning. When asked why they aren't in bed, the usual answer is:

"It isn't our turn."

Nevertheless, these urchins have their own hardihood. Capt. Margaret once saw a group swimming in a river backwater near the base. He tested the water with a thermometer. It was 38 degrees above zero, 6 degrees over freezing.

Mosquitoes, which attain the size of the common household canary, according to the men at Galena, are the summer curse of the area. They swarm from the swampy muskeg in millions, and the Indians seem to be impervious to them.

All things considered, it is just as well that the Indians, according to white people who have lived many years in the north, have character.

No Social Organization.

They seem to have no social organization, no tribal sense. They have an elected chief, but not on their own initiative. This fancy departure from their usual custom was taken at the suggestion of the federal government's Indian agent, who wanted some representative with whom he could deal in meeting the Indian's problems and demands, to avoid waste of time talking with the head of each family.

Altho they are extremely independent and if left alone would probably survive as they have for centuries, they are highly conscious of the government's paternal interest in them. When confronted with any exceptional difficulty, their invariable solution is expressed:

"Guvment take care of us."

Their principal and steadfast benefactor is Father Joseph F. McElmeel, a Catholic priest who has been among them for 25 years, and who serves as auxiliary chaplain at the air base. He has a well built log home, and a log school house for the Indian children, the only decent structures in the village.

Priest Trusted, Respected.

The priest, who is 60, is known to the Indians over a large area of Alaska as Father Mac. They trust and respect him.

"The people," Father Mac says, is the way the Indians refer to themselves. Apparently they have no tribal name, or it has been lost.

The Indians are not talkative, even among themselves. Their language is guttural, and spoken thru half clenched teeth. Most of them have some command of English, which they enunciate in the same way, with peculiar pronunciation and odd emphasis.

The village is overrun with the husky dogs of the north. To keep this malemute population in check, the Indians exterminate excess puppies. Soldiers at the lonely air base have adopted many dogs. There were about 100 of them stranded with their soldier masters on the Galena gravel piles during the flood last May.

The Indians cannot be judged fairly by white standards of morals or ethics. They apparently are amoral.

Regard Loan as Gift.

Borrowing money commonly carries no responsibility for repayment in the Indian mind, as the borrower assumes the lender has no need for what he loans. Whenever the borrower has "extra" money he may repay, and that will be when he has cash which at the moment he cannot think of a way to spend.

Their economic system is typical of the frontier. There are several small stores in the village, run by whites. The Indians get their supplies on credit, and when they have come in from their trap lines in the spring, they turn over their catch of furs to pay their debts.

Sometimes the catch is good and sometimes poor, but the furs usually just meet the bill. The Indian is even, and both parties to the transaction seem satisfied.

"As long as fish in river, nothing happen to us," is the Indian's principal philosophy.

BEAR ESCAPES CAGE AT EXHIBIT, CLAWS CAPTOR

The bear was struck squarely in the schnozzle by her cage companion, 400 pound Blackie, in a fight over an apple. Blood spurted and Bootsie flew into a rage.

A keeper cautiously opened the cage door and tossed in another apple. Bootsie rushed for the door, bowled over the attendant and made her way thru a squealing crowd, including many children. M. C. Wade, a spectator, looped a rope over Bootsie's neck. The bear turned, jumped on Wade with four feet and started clawing. Attendants and police swarmed in and got her under control.

WARNS PEACE MAY NOT BRING RUSH OF BUYING

Large Supplies May Chill Enthusiasm.

The belief the public will rush to purchase all kinds of consumer goods as soon as restrictions are lifted may prove an illusion, John C. Goodall, general manager of the Merchandise Mart, said yesterday.

"Altho many persons in replying to surveys have indicated an overwhelming desire for this or that article, human nature is such that their eagerness to buy may vanish the moment they realize they can get the merchandise they have been longing for all during the 'duration,'" he said.

Warns Against Complacency.

He warned retailers not to be complacent over post-war prospects of an easy sellers' market in which a merchant may sit and wait for the rush of customers eager to purchase any and every article offered for sale.

Large scale post-war competition from new entries into home furnishing and apparel production must be faced in any post-war planning program, Goodall said.

"Challenging the old companies, many of the new organizations are ready with newly designed products, vast production facilities, extensive advertising schedules, and are developing independent dealer outlets," he said. "Some of these new companies hold an additional advantage in that cutbacks on government work probably will release them first for production of civilian goods."

Revise Early Plans.

To meet this competition, many long established companies are revising earlier post-war plans, he said. In many cases these plans called for pre-war type products and postponement of the introduction of newer models until part of the piled up demand had been met. The public may expect to see newly designed items on dealers' shelves earlier than was anticipated, Goodall said.

In the retail merchandising, long established companies must contend with competition from those who quit business but will return, from government financed veterans who will want to enter the field, and from expanding chain stores, he predicted.

"The shift back into a relatively normal type of merchandising also will present difficulties," Goodall said. "Faced with a larger variety of offerings than ever before, retailers will be tempted to overstock with the first goods released. Buying opportunities that will develop later may thus be forefeited."

GENERAL FOODS SALES SOAR, BUT PROFIT SHRINKS

Profit of General Foods corporation fell more than a million dollars in the first nine months of 1944, despite record sales for nine months, Clarence Francis, chairman, reported yesterday.

Sales climbed to $208,805,658 in the nine month period from year ago volume of $181,280,507. The company set aside $957,000 for possible inventory writedown and other year end adjustments, compared with contingency provisions of $1,523,672 a year earlier.

College Funds Earning Rate Dips Slightly

Income from college and university endowment funds has declined only moderately in the last 18 years, a study of investment portfolios of 45 representative institutions by the financial magazine, Exchange, disclosed yesterday. The trend toward decreased bond holdings has been reversed, it said.

"During the 18 years from 1926 thru 1943, there was a decline in the average interest rate of only 0.87 per cent in the case of 45 institutions with $702,000,000 of endowments," the publication said. "Broadly, the figures tend to mitigate a fairly wide impression that the income from even carefully managed portfolios had fallen drastically since 1932."

Buy Government Bonds.

In a 1943 survey embracing 130 institutions it was learned that two reported fund earnings of more than 6 per cent, 10 between 5 and 6 per cent, 54 between 4 and 5 per cent, 55 more than 3 per cent, and nine less than 3 per cent.

"The decrease of holdings of bonds which had persisted over the period from 1938 to 1942 was arrested in 1943 when the 130 schools began to invest heavily in government bonds," the magazine said. "In the portfolios of 130 institutions, the investments in government bonds on June 30, 1943, represented 12.06 per cent of the total. By Dec. 31, 1943, this proportion had increased by 21 per cent."

Stock Purchases Gain.

The publication said five of the schools had respectively 45, 44, 36, 28, and 23 per cent of their total portfolios in government bonds.

"Investments in common stocks have continued to increase gradually while those in mortgages and real estate have declined. Preferred stocks remained fairly constant in the larger institutions, but rose in the smaller ones."

BRITISH CENSUS OF SHOPS WILL COMPARE COSTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Tighter control of civilian goods was predicted by shopkeepers today after the report that the Board of Trade is planning a census of all shops and warehouses thruout the country. The object, it was said, is to check up on man power and the cost of distribution of all kinds of commodities thru wholesale and retail channels to all consumers.

Questions put to the shopkeepers, who were said to be resentful of the official interference with their business, range from the location of the shops to their wage bill, rent and taxes, number and ages and sex of employes, the volume of yearly sales, the cost of purchases and the value of their stocks.

SQUARE D COMPANY.

Please tell me what the Square D company's principal products are and how its earnings compare with pre-war profit.—A. D.

Square D is a leading manufacturer of electrical devices and supplies, consisting largely of industrial equipment for various uses, and of precision aircraft instruments. In addition to standard equipment, custom built apparatus is engineered and constructed.

Seven divisions manufacture switches and panels, regulators, motor control devices, molded insulation products, such aviation instruments as altimeters, direction and speed indicators, tachometers, and gauges, among others, and binoculars.

Last year's production was at record levels. Both regular and specially developed devices were in demand for war uses. Net sales of $45,700,000 in 1943 compare with $7,400,000 in 1939, and $5,400,000 in 1938. Business fell off somewhat in the first half of 1944. Reconversion needs for electric products are expected to compensate to some extent for the loss of war stimulated demand.

Profits per share on the 421,360 common shares were: 1943, $4.97; 1942, $3.04, after renegotiation settlement; 1941, $7.14; 1940, $4.56; and, on 343,860 shares, $3.02 in 1939, $1.17 in 1938, and $3.09 in 1937. Profit for the first half of 1944 was $2.09, against $2.64 a year ago.

Dividends have been paid on the present common stock since 1937. From 1942 on the annual rate has been $2 a share, with $1.50 distributed in the first three-quarters of 1944.

PREDICTS STIFF COMPETITION IN BEER INDUSTRY

Post-war problems in the beer business that are expected to result when open competition supplants the present wartime methods will be discussed today at a three day conference of the National Beer Wholesalers association in the Hotel Sherman.

William T. Maybury, of Bangor, Me., president of the association, said yesterday that post-war competition among brewers is going to be "terrific."

He would have come closer to the truth if he had said that institutions are the composite shadow of many men.

Regional Offices to Handle Surplus.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29.—The small business man can buy anything from merchant ships to shellfish, from airplanes to beehives, from the government's surplus property stocks after the war without coming to Washington.

A senate small business subcommittee told how today in a report listing ships, beehives, airplanes, prepared shellfish, trucks and tractors, beads, bugles and spangles, and countless other items.

RFC to Take Applications.

CAPITAL AND PRODUCER GOODS—Apply to the nearest of the 23 war property offices of the Reconstruction Finance corporation. They are in Chicago, Atlanta, Boston, Charlotte, N. C., Cleveland, Dallas, Denver, Detroit, Houston, Tex., Kansas City, Los Angeles, Minneapolis, New Orleans, New York, Omaha, Philadelphia, Portland, Richmond, Va., St. Louis, San Antonio, San Francisco, Salt Lake City, and Seattle.

These goods include crude materials, such as inedible animal products, rubber, coal, petroleum and metallic ores; basic materials and products, such as leather, lumber, paper, chemicals, iron and scrap; end products, such as general purpose industrial machinery, airplanes and air conditioning and refrigerating equipment; and real estate, including industrial plants and farm lands.

CONSUMER GOODS—Apply to the nearest regional office of the treasury department procurement division. Offices are in Chicago, Boston, New York, Cincinnati, Atlanta, Fort Worth, Tex., Kansas City, Denver, San Francisco, and Seattle.

The war food administration will sell food and food supplies of many kinds. Firms wishing to deal with WFA should send to the president of the Commodity Credit corporation, war food administration, Washington, D. C., a card 3 inches high and 5 inches wide. It should bear the name of the firm, its address, a list of types of goods sought, and the state in which the firm wishes to buy.

Skip War Department.

The maritime commission at Washington will sell anything from merchant vessels to oars and paddles if you write a letter. The navy will sell scrap and salvage materials. Just write to the navy material redistribution and disposal administration, 342 Madison av., New York, N. Y.

The final selling agency listed is the war department. Better skip it. Chairman Stewart [D., Tenn.] and Senators Murry [D., Mont.] and Taft [R., O.] give you their word:

Glenview Landscapers Turn Greenhouses Into War Shops

The Swain Nelson company in Glenview, in the landscaping business for 88 years, has turned most of its efforts to producing war materials. The former garage and greenhouses have been converted into shops engaged in machining items for various prime contractors and in lens grinding and assembly work.

Hubert and Gerald Nelson decided after Pearl Harbor to convert their business chiefly to war production. Gerald, a bachelor, enlisted in the marines, and Hubert is running the business.

Starts with One Old Machine.

The war work began after the purchase of a 30 year old machine, which was installed in the garage by the garage mechanic. A sample run of aluminum castings was approved, and the first order was received on Jan. 17, 1942.

Production was started immediately with the one machine and two employes. By the end of the year 28 hand screw machines and several drill presses and milling machines were in operation, and employment had increased to 160.

Twelve new machines were purchased in 1943, employment increased to 300, more than 14 million parts had been turned out by the end of the year, and the company had expanded into the production of precision lenses for gun sights and war cameras.

Take on Radio Contracts.

Still other work was taken on this year. The company installed coil winding machinery, obtained contracts for production of radio parts, and expanded the employment to the present approximately 400.

All this required more buildings. The first operations were confined to the garage, but production soon was extended to the greenhouses, with all five put in use. Even an old building with a dirt floor and no windows, used for cold storage and germination of flowers and trees, was made serviceable and pressed into use.

Post-war plans of the company are to retain the manufacturing business, but in a different location; expand the landscaping business, handle a line of garden tools, and enter the distribution of radios and household appliances, possibly assembling some of these products.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 29.—New demands for early removal of war time controls of British industry and that the country be freed from restrictive clauses of the lend-lease pact were made today in a letter to Reconstruction Minister Woolton by William Alexander, director general of supply and production in the last war. Provisions of lend-lease prohibiting Britain from exporting lend-lease or like materials are operating primarily to the benefit of American manufacturers, Alexander asserted.

American firms have access to such raw materials and their salesmen are being "granted permits and encouraged to visit post-war purchasing countries to canvass and offer attractive terms," Alexander said.
